NEW YORK STOCK MARKET IS MIXED

New York stock market today was mixed. Prices were first up, then down in active leaders, and in the closing period were more off than up. Commercial Solvents B, after dipping to 319, rebounded to 330 on revived rumors of an early stock splitup. Baldwin extended its rise to 4 3-4, while International Nickel gained 4 points. Reading sold at 113 3-8, the highest since 1916, when it brought 115 1-2, the best on record. Du Pont broke 6 points and Byproducts Coke 5 1-2 before showing any rallying tendency.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912, OF BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, PUBLISHED DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY, AT BOSTON, MASS., FOR APRIL 1, 1927.

State of Massachusetts, County of Suffolk, ss.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared Edgar D. Shaw, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Publisher of the Boston Evening American, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 411, Postal Laws and Regulations, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, managing editor, and business managers are: Publisher, Edgar D. Shaw, 5 Winthrop square; Managing Editor, Edward R. Mahoney, 5 Winthrop Square; Business Manager, J. F. Cullen, 5 Winthrop Square.

2. That the owner is: (If owned by a corporation, its name and address must be stated and also immediately thereunder the names and addresses of stockholders owning or holding one per cent or more of total amount of stock. If not owned by a corporation, the names and addresses of stockholders owning or holding one per cent, or more firm, company, or other unincorporated concern, its name and address, as well as those of each individual member, must be given.) New England Newspaper Pub. Co., 5 Winthrop Square, Boston; Star Holding Corporation, New York City, N. Y.; William Randolph Hearst, New York City, N. Y.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent. or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company, but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

5. That the average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date shown above is 293,457. (This information is required from daily publications only.)

SOCIALISTS WILL HOLD 'DAY OF MOURNING' FOR TWO DOOMED SLAYERS

While observance of "a national day of mourning for the death of American justice" was being arranged by New York Socialists for the day in July that Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti are electrocuted, Boston attorneys were planning a lawyers' committee to place the case of the condemned radicals before the Massachusetts Bar Association for action.

August Claessens, executive secretary of the Socialist Party in America, has to make the "day of mourning" a nation-wide observance by Socialists and Socialist sympathizers.

Attorney Joseph P. Walsh, who has no connection with counsel for the doomed radicals, is back of the movement to organize a committee of lawyers to "carry on" for Sacco and Vanzetti. Behind the action of other agencies that Braves Field, April 12.—Perfect weather welcomed the Braves and Dodgers as they collided here this afternoon to pry the lid off the 1927 baseball season. A genial sun beat down on the good and the bad athletes and cast a radiant warmth through the big stands of the Wigwam.

The wild wind that has been howling for the past week blew into the ocean, and a real Spring zephyr swept the newly-frozen-out ball yard.

There were all the early indications of a big opening crowd. Baseball hungry fans began to march into the stands as soon as the gates were thrown open, and there was a sufficient mob present to cut loose with a real yell when the Braves trotted out to get in a little preliminary practice.

EARL CARROLL OFF TO PRISON, 'GOOD LOSER'

New York, April 12 (I.N.S.).—Resigned to the inevitable, Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, surrendered to United States Marshal William Hecht at the Federal building today to serve a year and a day in Atlanta penitentiary for perjury.

Carroll smiled when he arrived at the marshal's office and told reporters he was "a good loser." He will depart from the Pennsylvania station at 3:40 o'clock this afternoon with twenty other prisoners who are to "do a stretch."

Carroll was accompanied by his brothers, James and Norman Carroll, and Thomas Rooney, confidential adviser, as he surrendered.

He shook hands cordially with Marshal Hecht. Then they chatted in low tones.

All Carroll would say to newspapermen was:

"Goodbye, boys. I'm a good loser."

Ever since he was convicted, on May 27, 1926, of perjury in connection with the wine "bath-tub" party at his theatre, Carroll has recalled at the prospect of "doing time." He tried to obtain executive clemency at Washington, but failed.

SMITH CENSURED, BUT COOLIDGE ESCAPES

Albany, N. Y., April 12 (I.N.S.).—A motion to censure President Coolidge as "a political dry lacking either conviction or courage in his stand toward prohibition enforcement" was defeated by a narrow majority today at the Troy conference of the Methodist Church.

"We have criticized Governor Smith," declared the Rev. C. O. Judkins during a heated debate. "Smith deserves it all, but who nibls cultured, Christian geneleman, President Coolidge, hasn't the courage to lead. I think we should censure him."

BLOOMINGDALE BROTHERS, long-established and energetic New York department store owners, broke all records for uptown New York real estate yesterday, paying $315 a square foot for land adjoining them at the corner of Fifty-ninth street and Lexington avenue.

That's at the rate of thirteen million seven hundred and twenty-one thousand and four hundred dollars per acre. You would have to raise many bushels of wheat to make farm land worth that.

THE PRICE now seems high; it will seem low in a few years. Nobody dreams of future real estate prices in the retail center of Manhattan, where the richest city in the world spends

HOLMES, WIFE BITTER AS AQUITTAL FAILS TO COME TO EX-MINISTER

A disagreement in the case of Guy Willis Holmes, unfrocked New Bedford Methodist minister, who was on trial in Suffolk Superior Court charged with misconduct with Antoinette "Tony" Fortin, a waitress, who claimed the minister was the father of her child, was reported by the jury today.

With clenched hands the minister heard the report of the disagreement. His wife, who has remained by his side throughout the trial, was also in court when the sealed report of the jury was read. She gasped slightly, her face became pale, but she did not collapse.

The jurymen spent ten hours in an unsuccessful effort to reach a verdict. The minister was tried on three separate charges and the jury was unable to reach a verdict on any of these charges.

One charge was for violation of the true name law, it being claimed the minister and the waitress had registered at a Boston hotel on September 2, 1925, under assumed names. The other charges were of statutory offences.

Immediately after the report of the jury was read in the presence of the jurors today Judge Walter F. Hall, the trial judge, inquired if the jury had been unable to agree on any of the counts. When informed that no agreement could be reached the jurors were discharged.

The case against the minister now reverts to the court files where it will remain until the District At-

CANTONESE RADICALS SLAIN IN SHANGHAI RAID

Shanghai, April 12 (A.P.).—The split between the moderate and radical sections of the Cantonese has developed into fierce fighting.

Moderate troops, in one case using field guns, have attacked radical gatherings in Shanghai, Hangkow, Nanking and Amoy and disarmed large numbers of radical laborites.

The fighting in Shanghai occurred early today, when adherents of General Chiang Kai-Shek, Cantonese moderate leader and military commander-in-chief descended on the Red labor unions in the Chapei, Nantao and Pootung native sections.

Armed with machine guns, pistols and bombs, the raiders, in plain clothes attacked every known union centre.

Twelve were killed in the various fights and 600 laborites arrested, including Chen Tsu-Shu, chief radical leader in the Shanghai district. Many unionists were wounded.

Seven machine guns, 300 rifles, many pistols and bombs and much ammunition were seized.

MALONEY MUST FIGHT HEENEY FIRST, IS EDICT

Jim Maloney must go through with his agreement to fight Tom Heeney, New Zealand heavyweight, or there'll be no Maloney-Sharkey bout.

This statement was made by Tom Goodwin, matchmaker of the Suffolk A. A., to the Boston Evening American today.

"Maloney had signed to fight for me against Heeney on February 11," said Goodwin. "Dan Carroll asked me to allow Jim to go through with his bout with Jack Delaney first. This I agreed to do.

"After the Delaney fight I asked Carroll about Jim's agreement to fight Heeney here. Carroll answered that Maloney was tied up with Rickard for the Sharkey bout.

"'Where do I come in?' I asked Carroll.

"'I don't know,' answered Dan."

"Then I decided to take the matter up with the Massachusetts Boxing Commission. If the commission upholds me, then Maloney will fight Heeney for me here, or there will be no Maloney-Sharkey bout in the Yankee Stadium.

"Massachusetts has a working agreement with the New York commission, and the support of the Bay State board means that Maloney will have to fight Heeney or pass up his chance to win the heavyweight crown."

The whole affair is now in the hands of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission and a decision will be made in a few days.

AGED MAINE MAN DIES IN FIRE; LOSS $100,000

South Paris, Me., April 12.—One man lost his life and the entire town was threatened today when fire of unknown origin razed four buildings, ignited three others and sent a dozen families in wild flight for safety. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Elisha Turner, 85, was suffocated in his room. He lived with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lowell. Efforts to reach the aged man failed, although firemen made several valiant attempts.

Lewiston and Norway sent apparatus. Hundreds of citizens were pressed into service handling hose lines and ladders.

The fire is thought to have started in the rear of the Merrill Lunch on Main street. Flaming embers dropped on the Maxim and Thayer Buildings, nearby.

WORLD AWAITS BOSTON LABOR CHIEFS' SACCO DECISION

are working for the lives of the two men.

Attorney Walsh today called on Attorney William G. Thompson, head of the defense counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti. Mr. Walsh volunteered to form the committee of lawyers and his offer was accepted.

COURTS ARE "RIDICULED."

"The purpose of this lawyer's committee is to bring to the attention of the Bar what apparently is, in the opinion of many trial lawyers, a miscarriage of justice," said Mr. Walsh.

"Whether Sacco and Vanzetti are guilty or not guilty, the decision is a shock to our conceptions of the fundamental principles underlying American justice. The opinion among trial lawyers, especially among those of criminal court experience, is that this case is a miscarriage of justice. This decision is not confined to Massachusetts. It is far-reaching and spreads over the entire world.

"It holds our courts and system of trials up to ridicule before the entire world.

"It is a blow to American impartial justice and it will stir the people up to believe that justice can not be obtained in any case where there is an appeal to the lower feelings of a jury."

Mr. Walsh declared that the Massachusetts Bar Association would be appealed to to aid in securing a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti and that the committee would also make an independent report to Governor Fuller.

The activity of the Socialists in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti is being conducted from New York. A big mass meeting has been planned for Friday evening in Cooper Union. It will be the first organized protest that has yet been made.

NATION-WIDE APPEAL.

Speakers at the New York meeting will include Judge Jacob Panken, Morris Hillquit, Norman Thomas and James Oneal.

Meanwhile there is much activity at the Sacco Defense Committee headquarters on Hanover street. Thousands of petitions for the condemned men are being mailed throughout the county for signatures. These petitions call on Governor Fuller to pardon the men.

While the agitation on behalf of the men is spreading throughout the country, Sacco and Vanzetti have settled complacently into the routine of the Dedham jail, where they were removed on Saturday after the death sentence and time of execution were announced in the Dedham court-house.

The prisoners, in front of whose cells a guard paces 24 hours a day, arose this morning at 8 o'clock. With unimpaired appetites they consumed extra large portions of the prison breakfast of hash, bread and coffee.

Vanzetti, immediately after breakfast, resumed writing in his cell. Sacco, who is leaving all details of the men's fight for their lives to his companion, spent the morning in brightening up his cell.

COUNSEL VISITS MEN.

Attorney Thompson, attorney for the doomed men and Joseph Moro, secretary of the Sacco Defense Committee planned to visit the two prisoners at the Dedham jail today. Mr. Thompson was to present to Vanzetti the stenographic transcript of the dramatic speech Vanzetti delivered in court at Dedham, last Saturday, just before he was sentenced to death by Judge Webster Thayer.

In connection with Vanzetti's plea Attorney Thompson today vigorously denied that he had any hand in the preparation of this speech. Mr. Thompson issued the following statement:

"My attention has been called to a story being circulated that I prepared the speech delivered by Mr Vanzetti on the day he was sentenced to death. If this statement affected me alone I should ignore it as many other unfounded statements have appeared in letters to the newspapers or in whispering campaigns since I have been connected with the case.

"But this affects Mr. Vanzetti personally. It is utterly without foundation in fact. The only opportunity I had to say was during the half hour Mr. Ehrman and I spent with him in Dedham jail just before he was taken to the court house.

"The speech as delivered was entirely spontaneous. His notes were his own and he used them only occasionally. It is a pity that persons should be found, who are willing by circulating such a story, to deprive Mr. Vanzetti of any advantage he might otherwise derive from one of the most sincere and eloquent speeches ever delivered in court by a convicted man."

Judge Admits Citizen Has Right to Criticize Courts

Supreme Court Justice W. C. Wait discussed the Sacco-Vanzetti case from the Supreme Court viewpoint in an address to his fellow-members of the Charlestown School boys' Association, defending the courts of Massachusetts, but admitting the right of any citizen to criticize the findings of these courts.

By a strange coincidence the justice was discussing one murder case with men who have for years been interested in the chief figure of another nationally-known murder case.

The Charlestown Schoolboys have long taken an active part in working in behalf of Jesse Pomeroy, the oldest lifer in the world.

Judge Wait forgot judicial dignity for a time as he talked over the old days with his schoolfellows, and when he reverted to the Sacco-Vanzetti case he also forgot the incongruous tissue paper cap he wore.

While the judge discussed a case which the entire world is discussing today, the foolish little cap waved back and forth on his head, but his hearers, intent to catch every word, forgot the ridiculous cap even as Judge Wait himself had forgotten it.

Said Judge Wait:

"I suppose I am persona non grata among a large class of our people, but not a very large class." Then, turning to Governor Fuller he said: "I don't believe, Mr. Governor, there is anybody in this Commonwealth who has anything against me personally."

The morning after the decision, he said, he rode in from his Medford home in a street car. He sat next to a man who was reading every word of the Sacco-Vanzetti decision. Having finished his reading, the man, presumably an Italian, said Judge Wait, folded up his paper and sighed.

Scotland Yard Guards the U. S. Embassy in London

London, April 12 (A.P.)—Scotland Yard, according to the Daily Express, has ordered special uniformed and non-uniformed police to guard the American Embassy in London, while Sacco and Vanzetti are awaiting execution in Massachusetts. These precautions are described as due to the Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations in various European capitals.

Fells Her Ex-Husband in Court With Baseball Bat

New York, April 12 (A.P.)—Doctors instead of lawyers were needed in children's court today when Mrs. Lucy Desimone, divorced, drew a sawed-off baseball bat from her coat and beat her former husband over the head.

She had asked the court for the custody of her two children, who have been living with the father. A remark from Desimore directed to his former wife started the trouble in the lobby. Physicians stitched up his wounds. She was arrested.

Aged G. A. R. Vets Gay as Boys at Hub Reunion

Thumping sturdily along with their canes, but with gold-banded, freshly-lighted cigars cocked at pert angles from the corners of their mouths, 200 Massachusetts G. A. R. veterans held reunion today at the annual encampment of the State department.

Averaging 85 years of age, but with a twenty-one-year difference between the oldest and youngest of the group, the grizzled veterans clapped on the back comrades they had not seen for a year—and the universal greeting was that each veteran looked "not a day over sixteen."

But Thomas F. Murphy, superintendent of Fansuil Hall, shook his head sadly when the veterans had taken seats in the historic cradle.

He remembered the days when it was necessary to confine the annual encampments to a few delegates from each post, and then the hall would be jammed.

YOUNGEST IS 72.

Now any Massachusetts veteran is invited to the encampment, but only 200 were recorded.

The many depletions in their ranks through the years did not disturb the grand old warriors themselves, however, and they beamed like kids at a party.

This year's initial session of the encampment resulted in three "doubles" of famous men being sighted by reporters.

Alvin R. Bailey, eighty-two-year-old youth of Post 11, Charlestown, looks so much like Henry Cabot Lodge that you'd expect to see him in the formal senatorial Prince Albert.

GRANT'S DOUBLE.

Richard F. Boynton, eighty-five, of Post 121, Hyde Park, is almost a mirror reflection of "Uncle Joe" Cannon, also of Washington fame, and Albert Clapp, eighty-five, of Post 31, Scituate, is an excellent counterpart, facially and as to whiskers of General Ulysses S. Grant.

Charles W. Smith, seventy-three, and the youngest veteran present, had as his pal the second oldest, H. C. Welch, ninety-one, past commander of Post 40, Newburyport, which is Smith's post also.

The comparative youngster was only ten years and four months old when he enlisted, in 1864. He served thirteen months before the Rebellion ended, part of the time acting as messenger for Captain Lowery of the U. S. S. Sabine.

OLDEST IS 94.

Well—Charlie Smith wasn't any more chipper at that, than the oldest yet present, Major John W. Bean, commander of Post 145, Attleboro, and a veteran of sixty-three years' service in the army.

He was 94 years old last March 3, but his appearance is that of a man not buying candles for his 95th birthday.

He served two years in scraps with the Apache Indians, six months against the Utes and the full time of the Civil War among his many other assignments.

The rebellion gave him three wounds and he still carries a hole in his ear from one "Johnny Reb" bullet.

COMMANDER ONLY 34.

Another sprightly veteran was Department Commander Henry A. Monk, 34, of Post 57, Braintree, who stepped up in charge of the State Department when his chief, William A. Brown of Plymouth, died a week ago, on the eve of the annual encampment.

And other veterans upon whose shoulders the weight of their years rests lightly were Charles S. Rich of Post 3, Hudson, and Richard F. eighty.

Falls Sixty Feet; Back on Job in 30 Minutes

Joseph Kennedy, thirty, a structural iron worker of Norfolk avenue, Roxbury, fell sixty feet from the top of a stack at Deacon Bros. granite works, Quincy, today. Within half an hour he was ready to climb back to the stack again.

Kennedy fell fifty feet to the top of a shed and careened off to the ground for the remaining ten feet. He was rushed to the Quincy Hospital, where his only injury was found to be a lacerated ankle.

Boynton, 85, of Post 121, Hyde Park.

ADDRESS BY G. A. R. HEAD.

Commander-in-Chief Frank A. Walsh of the Grand Army of the Republic, addressed the encampment in Faneuil Hall during the morning session, which was private.

State Commander Monk declared, however—and he smiled—that he could promise no resolutions would be passed on China or Mexico.

Today the annual encampments of the Women's Relief Corps and the Massachusetts Division Auxiliary to the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War also got under way.

The women have headquarters at the Scotch Presbyterian Church, Tremont and West Brookline streets, while the Sons of Veterans are at Ford Hall.

Ralph E. Parker, of Cambridge, shown here, charges cruel and abusive treatment. Mrs. Alice Dillon of Cambridge, was a witness for him. Josephine O'Brien, 14-year-old Cambridge girl, testified for him, too.

ASKS FOR SEPARATE SUPPORT

Mrs. Frances Doran Parker was in a hurry and showed some speed when she emerged from Middlesex Probate Court. She charges her husband with desertion and failure to provide for her in her petition for separate support.

PIERCE COUPLE HONEYMOONING IN CANADA

Franklin M. Pierce, 4th, Boston broker and son of a Bucksport, Me., millionaire steamship magnate, and his bride, who was the captivating "Teddy" Gwynne of the Ziegfeld Follies, are enjoying life in Quebec as long as the honeymoon bankroll lasts —but then what?

His father, Franklin M. Pierce, 3rd, irate at his son's marriage to the Follies dancer, has cut the boy off, without the proverbial penny, according to his own announcement from Bucksport.

ON HONEYMOON IN CANADA.

But the newlyweds are laughing off their troubles in Canada, and will continue to laugh until it comes time to pay the rent for the rose-covered cottage.

The furore in the old Maine family started here in Boston a week ago when the young scion of the old shipping family brought the laughing "Teddy" to the registry at City Hall and demanded marriage intention papers. It was then learned that pretty "Teddy's" real name was Maude Theodora McGuane, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McGuane of LaCrosse, Wis.

The two planned to be married in Springfield, but when they went there the would-be groom could not produce his birth certificate, so the wedding was off.

BOSTON BROKER.

But nothing daunted the two motored to New York and were married at St. Malachy's Roman Catholic Church, starting immediately for their honeymoon in Canada.

Young Pierce was prominent in football and squash at Bowdoin College, and since leaving the Maine institution had been in the brokerage business on Congress street, living at No. 397 Commonwealth avenue.

FINDS WIFE JUSTIFIED IN KILLING HUSBAND

Bridgeport, Ct., April 12 (A.P.)—Sadie Ruscello of Norwalk, who shot and killed her husband, Nicola Ruscello, in their home in East Norwalk, during a quarrel, was exonerated by Coroner John J. Phelan today.

HUSBAND'S ATTITUDE BRINGS PRAISE FROM JUDGE

This little baby visited Municipal Court when Mrs. Edward Raymond faced Judge Michael Creed with Charles Avellna, on serious charges. As she stood at the rail, tears streaming down her face, her sailor husband stepped forward and taking the infant from her arms whispered in her ear, "I forgive you." Raymond had returned from sea to find his wife and Avellas together in a Shawmut avenue apartment, the police say.

B. & M. FLIER KILLS MAN IN MALDEN

The wheels of the "Maritime Flyer" ground to death today sixty-five-year-old Jeremiah Casey, retired, of Washington street, in the Oak Grove section of Malden.

Casey, father of a large, grown-up family, is believed to have been crossing the Boston & Maine tracks above the Oak Grove station when the flyer from St. John, N. B., bore down on him.

He was carried for many feet beneath the express before it could be brought to a stop.

Then the body was placed beside the rails, where it was viewed by Medical Examiner Thomas M. Durell of Somerville.

CARRY INVALID OUT IN REVERE MYSTERY FIRE

Investigation of the third mysterious fire in the Crescent Beach section of Revere within a week was started today when the Revere police called in State Officer Edward Horrigan from the fire marshal's office.

The damage in the latest fire, when flames ate their way through a block of stores in Donnelly square and into two dwelling houses, amounted to $20,000.

Mrs. Frank Bailey, an invalid, was rescued by Patrolman Henry Tracey who carried her from her home to the home of neighbors, where she is in a serious condition.

Firemen and police are completely mystified as to what caused the fire. It spread rapidly. Three families were forced to leave their homes and lost all their belongings.

SCORNS 'TRICK' WEDDING

Blance De Roche, 17, of Lawrence, who foiled the plan of a wooer to give her the "bride's rush." She was not even engaged that she knew of, yet George Doirin, also of Lawrence, filed intentions at City Hall to marry her.

The Red Signal ~ Who's That Girl? ~ By Homer Banks

ROSALIND'S LOVE TESTED—Amazed at her curt dismissal, Roger stepped toward Rosalind. He looked at her appealingly, his eyes pleading for an understanding. Helen laid a warning hand on his arm. "Don't," she whispered. "It would be dangerous now and could accomplish no good. If you love Rosalind, leave her alone with me tonight—remember, not a word about Adelaide! It will be the test of Rosalind's love for you. She must not marry Sam Manton!" Helen seemed to be on the verge of a revelation when she paused suddenly and gripped Roger's shoulder appealingly. "Rosalind must not marry that man," she cried vehemently.

ROSALIND FACES HELEN—The door closed on Roger and Adelaide. Rosalind, near the breaking point, gave way to tears. Helen hurried anxiously after her. The despondent girl shook with sobs. She looked up at the touch of Helen's hand upon her shoulder and wrenched herself free. Her face was etched with lines of pain. "I thought you were my friend," she said, sorrowfully. "Why didn't you protect me from this?"

HELEN GETS A SURPRISE—She stopped Helen's reply with a warning finger. "Please don't talk," she pleaded. "I feel like I would scream if I hear another word tonight. I want to be alone. I must be alone! Please don't ask me any questions. I am leaving here tonight to take my old room back at the hotel in the South End."

(Copyright, 1927, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

SAM MANTON AGAIN—Helen gazed at the girl in amazement. "You don't mean that," she exclaimed. "You are not going to marry Manton? Remember, Roger loves you." The mention of Roger's name caused Rosalind to turn like a flash on the older woman. "Then who is that other girl?" she demanded. (Continued tomorrow.)

50-HOUR PLANE FLIGHT BEGINS

Mineola, April 12 (I.N.S.).—A Bellanca monoplane, piloted by Bert Acosta and Clarence Chamberlain, took off at Roosevelt Field at 9:30 o'clock today in an attempt to make a sustained flight of fifty hours and last a new world record. Part of the flight will be over New York city.

The world record for sustained flight is 45 hours 11 minutes and 5" seconds, made in France in August, 1926, by Pilots Drouhin and Landry.

HOPE TO RESCUE CREW OF LOST SCHOONER

Halifax, N. S., April 12 (A.P.)—Belief that the 12 missing members of the crew of the Boston schooner Commonwealth may yet be rescued was expressed by Captain Frank Watts, skipper of the Boston schooner, when he landed at Shelburne today with seven members of his crew.

The Commonwealth burned during a blizzard Friday on the fishing banks 60 miles southwest of Shelburne. The missing men left the boat in three dories which have not been sighted. Search for the men was being continued by the Canadian Fisheries patrol steamer Arlies and the United States coast guard cutter Tampa.

MANY NOTABLES ATTEND PEGGY THOMAS' WEDDING

London, April 12 (A.P.)—Many notables attended the wedding in the historic City Temple this afternoon of Miss Agnes "Peggy" Thomas, elder daughter of the noted Liberite J. H. Thomas, to Reginald Harris.

Among the 500 invited guests were Premier Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin, David Lloyd George and Dame Lloyd George, Lord and Lady Astor, Lord and Lady Oxford and Asquith and prominent members of the Labor Party.

891 GRADS IN NIGHT STUDY

Closing a session of twenty-five weeks, twenty-two evening schools will grant diplomas and certificates at exercises in the school buildings tonight. Marked by singing and recitations the graduating exercises will bring to a close one of the most successful years since Boston started its evening school program.

Diplomas will be awarded to 365 graduates of evening high schools and to 526 graduates of evening elementary schools. More than 7,200 certificates of proficiency in studies will be awarded.

The session started last September and every branch of study has been offered to the students by the large corps of teachers which the city has employed in the evening school work. The Central Evening High School will continue classes until June 2, and students in many of the schools closing tonight will attend further classes at the central. The school board and a number of speakers are scheduled to attend the graduating exercises. Joseph F. Gould has directed the evening school work.

LIVERMORE IN $4,000,000 STOCK COUP

New York, April 11 (A.P.)—A stock market coup of $4,000,000 is attributed to Jesse L. Livermore by the New York Times today.

Reports in Wall street from persons known to be in Mr. Livermore's confidence, says the Times, are that the coup was made in a cleverly manoeuvred pool operation in stock of the Freeport, Tex., company.

These reports, the Times asserts, received support if the stock's recent swift ascent. The stock yesterday touched 74⅝, ¼ below its high for all time, reached Saturday. Its low mark was 8 in 1925 and 13⅝ in 1926.

DIRECTOR OF POOL.

Mr. Livermore is reported to have directed the pool operations. The reports did not touch on whether the alleged pool still exists. The Times point out that, if the pool has not been dissolved, Livermore's fabled profits are still largely on paper and there is yet the possibility of their being reduced.

Freeport, Tex. company stock has come to be known as the most interesting speculative issue on the New York Stock Exchange. It has been a market spectacle for some weeks.

STOCK IN BREAK.

Dividend payments on it on an annual basis of $2 were resumed last February. This was recently increased to $4 through the declaration of a quarterly dividend of $1, payable May 2.

The stock had a bad break yesterday, passing within an arc of 5 points and closing at 73 with a net loss of 2¼ points.

BAT AND KNIFE FELL 2 IN ROW OVER WOMAN

Lawrence, April 10.—Spring and the baseball season came today to Asadoor Hachedoorian and the store of Abraham Najarian.

That is—Abraham Najarian had a store. He'll have it again after the cleaners get through putting things to rights and the glaziers put in a new front window.

Asadoor and Abraham had practically new scalps put on after a strenuous session in the Hampshire street store and, as Asadoor and Abraham are practically neighbors, even if not neighborly, they are lodged in neighboring cells at police headquarters, charged with mutual assault with dangerous weapons.

It was all over a girl named Mary, police say. The baseball season was somewhat incidental, being represented merely by a baseball bat, but Mary, it is said, was very much the centre of things.

The trouble was that Mary is Abraham's wife and that Asadoor's alleged Springtime amours with the objecting wife had been complained of by her and were being watched for by Abraham.

This was all represented merely by a baseball bat, Pacific Mills by day while Mary tends the store; but when she complained, Abraham remained in the store today, hidden.

Asadoor eventually came in, it is alleged, and seized Mary. It was Abraham's turn at bat and so, dashing from his dugout, he took a smart cut with the bat, clicking Asadoor's skull for three bases, it is charged.

But Asadoor called it foul, according to police, and snatched up a 15-inch butcher's knife resting on the chopping block.

Drawing the weapon back over his head, Asadoor was chagrined when Abraham bunted, the bat driving the knife down on Asadoor's head. Abraham had touched second.

With two-nothing against him, Asadoor is alleged to have wound up and smoked a fast one past Abraham with a little down swoop that parted Abraham's hair—and also his scalp.

Then it is charged that Abraham took a toehold and laced out with the bat, chalking up a home run just under the eaves of Asadoor's nasal. As Asadoor was scuttling through the door into the gladsome sunlight, Abraham is said to have finally hurled the bat. It went through the front window.

After Abraham and Asadoor had been rounded up and their scalps dismatched they were locked up on assault charges.

HEAVY LOSS BY FOREST FIRES IN 5 STATES

By Associated Press.

Forest and brush fires had taken an extensive toll today in five New England States.

Woodland blazes that first appeared over the week-end continued to lay waste valuable land, and in this State brought orders from fire wardens prohibiting building of fires until after a heavy rain.

Farmhouses and dwellings were destroyed at Hopkinton and Charlton with combined loss of $40,000. At Warren, N. H., three dwelling houses were lost and only quick assistance from neighboring places saved the town from possible destruction.

Tiverton, R. I., saw thousands of cords of marketable wood go up in smoke despite the efforts of more than 100 volunteer fighters. Westerly, R. I., had its fourth brush fire since Sunday.

Western Massachusetts was the scene of serious gain-fanned blazes with large areas of wood and farm land falling prey in the towns of Brimfield, Monson and Wales. For a time Brimfield, itself, was considered in danger.

Westfield, Chicopee, Holyoke and Greenfield and numerous other places had their share of brush destruction, while another blaze of formidable proportions was reported at Fall River.

From Brattleboro, Vt., came word of a blaze on the slopes of Wantastiquet Mountain, in the town of Hinsdale, N. H., that was challenging the best efforts of combined crews of volunteers from there and Hinsdale.

Pleads Guilty to Arson in Setting Forest Fire

Northampton, April 12 (A.P.).—William Harrison of Agawam pleaded guilty to arson here today and Carl Drond of West Springfield pleaded guilty to being an accessory before the fact.

Harrison admitted setting fire to Drond's dwelling in Middlefield yesterday. The blaze spread and destroyed also the Summer home of Edward Call of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., besides burning over about 800 acres of wood and grass land. Drond denied inciting Harrison to set the fire.

Thirsty Crowds Won't Ever See Dry Agents Do This Again!

Newark, N. J., April 12 (A.P.).—Prohibition authorities today announced that no more beer would be poured down the sewer in the presence of a thirsty multitude.

A thousand men, women and children, gathered in the Pennsylvania railroad yards with pitchers, buckets and pails, when word passed around that dry agents were breaking open 900 barrels of beer seized in three freight cars at Weehawken on Saturday. Police reserves were unable to disperse the crowds. When two-thirds of the contraband had been spilled out the agents abandoned their plan.

CHASES FORD AIDE TO SERVE SUMMONS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON, International News Service.

Detroit, April 12.—Another picturesque of Aaron Sapiro, so-called co-operative king, in a quarrel with a farmers' association over his fees, was given the jury today in the million dollar Ford-Sapiro libel suit in Federal Court.

By documentary evidence and Sapiro's own testimony, it was shown that the Co-operative King first asked $10,000 in fees from the Oregon Growers' Association, but later compromised on $5,500. On the latter sum, Sapiro stood firm, demanding that the association pay its debts. It issued stock to Sapiro finally in paying the fee.

Before court convened, Sapiro's counsel announced that E. G. Liebold, general secretary to Ford and general manager of the Dearborn Independent, had been served with a subpoena "after a two-months' chase."

A veteran process server caught the Ford executive as he left his house in Highland Park today and "chased him odwn the street," it was said. Liebold must appear in court tomorrow.

Senator James A. Reed, Ford's chief counsel, first questioned Sapiro about the Northwest Apple-Growers' Exchange. Sapiro reported getting $850 in fees from the exchange in 1924.

DIRIGIBLE LOS ANGELES IN FIRST CRUISE IN MONTHS

Lakehurst, N. J., April 12 (A.P.).—The naval dirigible Los Angeles cut loose from the mooring mast at the naval air station today and headed South, for her first flight in four months, under Lieutenant-Commander Charles E. Rosendahl. She carried ten officers and a crew of thirty men. Captain E. S. Jackson, commandant of the station, four student officers and Chief Aerographer John Dungan were aboard.

SEALED VERDICT ON UNFROCKED MINISTER

torney elects to restore it to the active list for retrial. It was said at the courthouse today the case will not be called for retrial during the present month.

GREATLY DISAPPOINTED.

The minister, formerly head of a New Bedford church, and driven from his pulpit by the charges of the waitress, remained about the courthouse for some time after the jury reported

"I am very disappointed, to say the least. I expected a verdict of not guilty on all these charges," he told reporters. Then he added: "My counsel will make a more complete statement for me."

The unfrocked minister's counsel, Henry P. Woodward of New Bedford, issued the following statement:

"An innocent defendant is never satisfied with less than a not guilty verdict. For that reason Mr. Holmes was not entirely satisfied.

"Any careful reading of the evidence and the charge of Judge Hall will convince any fair-minded man of the entire innocence of Mr. Holmes, and that the case against him arose as a result of personal enmity. A disagreement under the handicap of trying the case in Boston is equivalent to an acquittal in New Bedford."

The case against the former minister.

Chinese Women Go Naked as Symbol of Freedom

London, April 12 (I.N.S.)—Chinese women in the mobs are participating in wild demonstrations in Hankow, according to a Central News dispatch from Shanghai.

This dispatch says that the lack of costume is intended to symbolize the emancipation of the Chinese from the shame of foreign domination.

later produced dramatic testimony. It was claimed by the State that the minister took the girl on long automobile petting parties.

Trips to Horseneck Beach and Boston were described.

The minister denied all the charges. He also denied that he had registered with the Purlin girl at a hotel, and he produced alibi witnesses to prove on the day of the hotel episode he was at the home of a friend.

2 ARRESTED AS FIREBUGS IN WEST SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, April 12.—State police today arrested William Harmon of Agawam and Carl Drosd, West Springfield farmer, on charges of arson. It is charged that Harrison set fire to a house and barn owned by Drosd. The buildings were destroyed and the fire spread through 500 acres of woodland in Middlefield.

Police suspected the fire was of incendiary origin and after an all-night investigation arrested the two men.

in one building refused to surrender until field guns were brought up. Headquarters of the General Labor Union is occupied by Chinese troops and the chairman of the union is missing.

Simultaneously a similar raid was carried out at Hangchow, where numerous persons were disarmed and arrested.

Moderates also dispersed the radicals at Nanking and Amoy and martial law was declared in the latter city.

General Pai Tsung-Chi, military commander in the Shanghai district and subordinate to General Chiang Kai-Shek, issued a proclamation after the raids forbidding meetings, strikes or demonstrations of a mass nature as a precautionary measure in the suppression of radical activities.

NEW BOYCOTT ON BRITISH.

A definite anti-British movement which may take the form of a boycott similar to those recently declared at Canton and Hongkong was launched in the native section of Shanghai today.

A great anti-British league was organized at a meeting attended by representatives of the Kuomintang (Canton's political party), the women's association, the transworkers' union of the international settlement, the telegraph operators' union, students of the Shanghai University and others.

Three resolutions were adopted:

First—That the executive committee notify all the other organizations to carry on "gigantic propaganda" against the British and issue circulars denouncing them.

Second—That "actual steps be taken to examine British merchandise, beginning next week." This was not explained, but it is recalled that Quo Tai-Chi, Cantonese commissioner for foreign affairs here, had announced that the Cantonese planned to search vessels entering the Whangpoo River as a precaution against the entry of arms.

Third—That the "committee for the severance of economic relations with the British" meet tomorrow. It is in this resolution that threat of a boycott is seen.

Cantonese Split Arouses Interest in Washington

Washington, April 12 (A.P.).—The actual outbreak of hostilities between moderate and radical elements of the Cantonese armies in China has shoved into the background, for the moment at least, speculations as to the Chinese reply to the demands of the Powers, and has turned attention to the possibilities of the political split in the Nationalist party.

Fighting between the factions, reported at Shanghai, Hangchow and Nanking, may serve to delay replies to the five Powers notes, demanding reparations for insult and injury to foreigners by Cantonese troops at Nanking, but it also may have far-reaching results on the whole future of China, and the policies of other nations towards that country.

The whole question of reparations for the Nanking outrage conceivably might be taken out of the hands of the Hankow regime and remain exclusively one for Chiang himself to deal with.

Admiral Hough, commanding the American Yangtze river patrol advised the Navy Department today that "at Nanking the Cantonese retreat has apparently stopped."

The Admiral reported all foreigners' houses and the Standard Oil Company's office building at Chinkiang had been occupied by Chinese soldiers. Sampans and junks were being kept off the river by rifle fire from steam launches, he said, but he did not say who manned the launches.

The arrival at Hankow of the American gunboats El Cano and Monocacy was reported.

Tokio Sending More Troops and Warships to China

Tokio, April 12 (A.P.)—Japan's large fleet already in Chinese waters is expected to be augmented soon by four more destroyers, The Kuwa, Maki, Tsubaki and Keyaki. These vessels are making preparations for departure from Maizuru.

The War Office announced today that five companies of troops would proceed to Tientsin about May 15. Three are to replace regular forces in Tientsin, while the other two will be used to reinforce the Peking Legation Guards.

20,000 Men in Shanghai for Foreign District Defense

Shanghai, April 12 (A.P.).—More than 20,000 men are available for land duty in defense of the foreign settlements here, it was announced today. They include 14,000 British troops, 1,500 Americans (with 4,000 more en route), 3,000 French and about 500 representing Holland, Italy, Spain and Portugal.

There also is a foreign volunteer force numbering 1,800, and 3,272 police, the latter mostly annamites and Chinese.

FOLEY IS ASKING MORE FOR AIDS

Increases in salaries for his ten assistants was urged by Dist. Atty. William J. Foley today at a hearing before the Senate Ways and Means Committee. The bill has passed the House.

The salaries now are: Two at $4500; two at $5000; two at $4,000; two at $3,500 and two at $2,400. The proposed schedule is: Three at $6,500; three at $5,000; four at $4,000.

The speaker told the committee he appointed the best men he could get and he believed the results of his three months in office had justified his methods. In spite of a cut of $85,000 in his budget, he said, large savings have been made in witness fees and other expenses.

ARMS PARLEY IN HOPELESS DEADLOCK

Geneva, April 12 (I.N.S.).—The League of Nations' preparatory disarmament conference probably will adjourn Thursday, it was stated today as the deadlock between the leading delegates grew tighter as discussions proceeded.

A committee will be appointed to draft a report on minor points upon which an agreement has been reached and the major points upon which no agreement has been possible. The conference will reconvene briefly on April 24 to consider this report.

The situation was further confused when M. Boncour, French delegate, announced that unless the conference accepted the limitation of air and naval personnel, with a distinction between officers and men, France would decline to accept separate limitation of officers and men in land forces.

The conference agreed today on the principle, adopted at the Washington conference, of prohibiting arming merchant ships during peace.

Viscount Cecil announced that Great Britain is willing to agree to the limitation of naval personnel, but Hugh Gibson, American delegate, accepted only with reservations. Admiral Viscount Sato, for Japan, rejected such limitation, whereupon M. Boncour announced it seemed an agreement was impossible.

FLOATING UNIVERSITY CRITICISED IN NORWAY

Oslo, Norway, April 12 (A.P.).—Newspapers here comment on what they describe as the lack of courtesy shown by the American students during the recent visit here of the "floating university" liner Ryndam, which is making a world cruise.

The newspapers particularly refer to the small attendance at the lectures arranged by Norwegian University authorities here for the students. They say only about half a dozen attended them although they were given by request of the Ryndam officials. It also is remarked that attendance was small at a reception arranged by Norwegian students in honor of the visitors.

"MILLION DOLLAR" SNOWSTORM HITS WYOMING

Cheyenne, Wyo., April 12 (A.P.).—A snowstorm has blocked Wyoming's highways in sections and virtually halted air mail service. Only one air mail plane reached Cheyenne in 48 hours. It's a "million-dollar" snowstorm, stock men and farmers say. Temperatures ranged from 4 degrees above zero in Yellowstone Park to 23 above at Sheridan.

ROXBURY BURGLAR GIVEN EIGHT YEARS' SENTENCE

Sentence of eight to twelve years in State Prison was imposed in Middlesex Superior Court on Chester Washington, 28, colored, of Hubert street, Roxbury, found guilty on two indictments charging breaking and entering in the night time and larceny.

PILL-TAKER FREED FROM HIS HABIT

ALL-BRAN brought natural relief from chronic constipation

Constipation is almost a universal curse—father of more than forty diseases. Yet there is real assurance in Mr. Ladue's letter:

"After sixteen years of taking pills, 10 cured me. If the millions of people that suffer from constipation only knew what Kellogg's ALL-BRAN would do, some of the pill-makers would go out of business. Every doctor should recommend it. I tell all that I know so that they can get the joy out of life I am getting since I started on Kellogg's ALL-BRAN 8 months ago."

MR. JULIAN LADUE,
Burlington, Vt.

Hollow cheeks, pimples, listlessness are some of the symptoms. Don't risk it another day. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Delicious with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Use in cooking. Comes ready to eat. Sold and served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Recipes on package.

COOLIDGE'S EAR TO GROUND AT G. O. P. MEAL

Washington, April 12 (A.P.)—President Coolidge called into a breakfast conference at the temporary White House today a group of Republican leaders representative of nearly all sections of the country, and including Chairman Butler of the Republican National Committee and other party wheelhorses.

The guests included Senator Keyes, New Hampshire; Representatives Treadway, Massachusetts, and Hersey, Maine.

Chairman Butler accompanied the President to the White House and from there went to prepare for his departure on a trip to all parts of the United States. He will be met at Chicago by William V. Hodges, treasurer of the committee, who will accompany him.

Mr. Butler has said his journey would be for the purpose of tightening up party organization for the 1928 campaign, and not in the interest of any candidate.

Soon after President Coolidge had arrived at the White House he was visited by Senator Willis, Republican, Ohio, who called to tell him he believed he would be renominated and re-elected. Senator Willis gave no indication of Mr. Coolidge's reaction to the talk.

Senator Willis, who has just toured the country, declared "only an earthquake" could keep Mr. Coolidge from another term. Governor Smith of New York will be the Democratic nominee, he predicted.

"President Coolidge can carry Iowa right now against any Republican candidate, including Mr. Lowden," he continued. "He will carry every State in the West, beginning with Pennsylvania, against Governor Smith, who probably will get New York and some of the Southern States."

Senator Willis predicted that Governor Donahey of Ohio would be Smith's running mate and that this ticket would lose Ohio against Coolidge by 250,000.

The Republican ticket also would carry Kentucky, Tennessee and Missouri, he said.

Law enforcement would be the issue in the campaign, he said, and the Republican party must meet it squarely.

Gray's Mother Blames Self for Son's Fate

By MARGERY REX

New York, April 12.—The mother of Henry Judd Gray, who must stand trial for his life with Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder, blames herself for the awful position in which her son stands today.

"Wherein have I failed?" is the question this young-appearing mother asks herself constantly as the cloak looms for her son.

"Wherein have I failed?" is the plaintive question she wrote in her last letter to her boy.

Going up to the door of the brown house in West Orange, where Judd Gray's mother lives, with her daughter, Mrs. Harold Logan, you expect to meet with the elderly gray-haired pathetic mother of melodrama. But encounter with Mrs. Gray paints out this stereotyped character of fiction.

Judd Gray's mother looks like a smart young business woman, although there is gray hair showing under the brim of a smart hat. And age, if it may be only grief, has touched here eyes.

But her general appearance is youthful and bright, even under the terrible burden of shock and suspense she has had to bear since her son was charged with the murder of Albert Snyder.

Smartly dressed in a dark gown, black carnaul coat and black felt hat, Mrs. Gray walked across the back yard to the garage.

A tired expression suggested some one who had worked for hours without rest. Yet a terrific energy, rather than a passive endurance, seems to dominate her.

Every day Mrs. Gray takes the car out of the garage and drives for miles in the countryside.

"You've got to keep going," she smiles. "And I'm going out again now, off in the country to stay all day. It's all I can do with myself," she added.

"Nicky you'll have to go back in the house," talking to a frantic white poodle at her heels.

PRAISES MRS. WARD.

"Come and get him," Mrs. Gray shouted to Mrs. Logan. "I can't let him off the leash or he may go for some one."

Mrs. Harold Logan, a pleasant young woman in a brown satin dress whose features are very like her brother Judd's, spoke of their gratitude to Mrs. Walter Ward, a school chum of Gray's wife, who has offered her abundant resources to help the defense of Gray.

"She is a lovely good woman and she has known what trouble and disgrace mean. Who better can help us now? We'll never, never forget for such kindness.

"We'll all talk to you next week. We haven't got ready yet to say anything. But there are many things which we want to set straight."

Mrs. Gray added:

"One thing that's odd—I read that my son's wife would stand by him and later that she would not. She has never wavered in her determination to see him through, and I am sure she will not. She is very loyal."

Mrs. Snyder to Claim Gray Slew Husband for His Money

New York, April 12.—From an authoritative source today it was learned that Mrs. Ruth Snyder will take the stand in her own defense at her joint trial with Henry Judd Gray for the slaying of Albert Snyder and lay responsibility for the murder solely to Gray.

It was learned that Mrs. Snyder will claim that Gray exerted a powerful influence over her and that he plotted the murder for the lone motive of obtaining money.

She will testify, it is declared, that she had given large sums of money to Gray and that he had goaded her into allowing him to slay her husband because he was greedy to obtain his life insurance.

Jail attaches revealed today that Mrs. Snyder is confident of acquittal.

Mrs. Josephine Brown, her mother, visited Mrs. Snyder in her cell in Queens County jail today and brought her a potted Easter lily. Mrs. Snyder was said to be in high spirits during the visit.

It was apparent today that Gray's confession accusing Mrs. Snyder will be a bone of contention when the couple go to trial.

Although District Attorney Newcombe says he does not need either confession to perfect his case, it is anticipated that he will introduce that of Gay, at least. Counsel for Mrs. Snyder undoubtedly will oppose the move. One of the reasons for asking for separate trials was to prevent the introduction of the confessions.

U. S. CITIZEN FREED FROM MEXICO JAIL

Mexico City, April 12.—Miguel Avila, an American citizen, and formerly a member of the military intelligence service at Laredo, Tex., has been released from the Mexico City Prison after being imprisoned twice in four days.

Avila's release followed a stormy scene at the jail, when American Vice-Consul Myer was forcibly prevented from conversing with Avila. Myer immediately reported the incident to the Embassy, which led to immediate representations to the Mexican Foreign Office, along with vigorous insistence upon the right of Consular attaches to talk with an American citizen even if he was held in jail.

NEW BRITISH TARIFF TO AFFECT U. S. TRADE

Washington, April 12 (A.P.)—Proposals put forward by Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, are likely to increase duties on some American products, in the opinion of Secretary Hoover.

No great effect upon American trade need be expected, however, he said, adding that the British duties represented an action which the American government, in view of its own traditional policies, could scarcely be expected to criticise. The chief pressure from the new British duties would probably be on automobile tires, Mr. Hoover said, and American shipments of such material to Great Britain.

GILBODY DEMANDS DUMP CLEANUP IN DORCHESTER

Charging that children are endangered by motor apparatus responding swiftly to alarms for fires at Victory road dump, Dorchester, City Councilor George F. Gilbody today petitioned Mayor Nichols to remove the fire menace there and put the place in proper condition for use as a mothers' rest.

There have been nine alarms in seven days, Gilbody said, calling attention to crowded conditions at Field's Corner, Adams street and Dorchester avenue when apparatus forces men, women and children to flee.

Now Step Right in Gents! Huh? Ask Sister; She Knows!

New York, April 12.—The men are stepping out these days—but it also appears that they are stepping in.

A great crowd grouped around a furnishings store window in the Grand Central Terminal a few days ago and gazed in rapt attention at the latest thing for men underwear. The attraction proving to be an exhibition of "step-ins," a term more familiar to women than to men.

The latest thing in lingerie for men is, with minor architectural alterations, an exact duplicate of the one-piece suit worn by women. The garment has no legs or arms and is really the super-athletic suit. The novelty is featured in pink, white, peach and blue. Materials are rayon, crinanese and silk.

BOYS' CLUB TO ASK $850,000 IN CAMPAIGN

The child is father to the man.—Wordsworth.

The Boys' Club of Boston wants $850,000 with which to carry on its work.

More than 100 leading men and women of the city listened to five speakers at the Hotel Bellevue when the campaign for $850,000 was announced and their support asked. Bishop William Lawrence, Victor M. Cutter, head of the United Fruit Company and one of the Boys' Club overseers, former Mayor Andrew J. Peters, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, George Bramwell Baker, president, and George H. Leroy, director of the club, were the speakers.

Numbered among their hearers were Wentworth Prescott of the Rotary Club, Arthur S. Johnson, president of the Y. M. C. A., leaders in banking and other business circles. All five speakers made a common appeal for the youth of Boston "who must be guided in the way of real manhood."

CUTTER TELLS PLANS.

Victor Cutter presented the campaign plans as a purely business proposition in clear cut sentences. Coldly matter of fact, he proved in his analysis of the campaign for funds that the Boys' Club would return investments a hundred fold. Bishop Lawrence made one of his characteristic speeches, and Mr. Peters told his audience that the Boys' Club was a vital necessity to Boston, "for the schools can not do it all. The Boys' Club is as essential as hospitals in the community life."

Mrs. Henry L. Higginson, widow of the late Boys' Club patron, was among the society and business women present. President Baker paid her late husband and Mrs. Higginson high tribute when he informed the assemblage that she was present. Probably the most touching appeal of all was made by George Shinney, one of the boys from the club. "We only ask that you give the younger fellows the same chance we have had," he told the crowded banquet hall. "We appreciate it, the younger boys are growing up to it. I hope they have the same chance."

A campaign organization of 630 men and 70 women has been arranged for the drive which begins next week. The campaign workers are headed by R. Loring Young. Such men as Howard Coonley, "Jack" Hardwick, Warren D. Arnold, Howard L. Rogers, Edward R. Grahow, Richard S. Teeling, Walter H. Trumbull, Jr., William H. Mathewson, Ernest W. Soucy, Carroll J. Swan, and many others are leading in the drive.

ENDOW TWO CENTERS.

The purpose of the campaign is to endow and maintain the two centers, one in Roxbury and one in Charlestown. Work in Roxbury is to be extended and new equipment is needed. More than 7,500 boys are members of the club. According to Mr. Cutter, "there is unlimited raw material for its future business and the demand for its product is unlimited. It now has 1,000 stockholders. It needs $250,000 for additional equipment and $600,000 for working capital which will enable it almost immediately to double the business."

"The raw material is the boy, the product, good American citizens."

The club has made no call for public subscription since 1916. During the intervening years the club and its work have been maintained by the overseers and their friends. At present the Boys' Club reaches 7,500 of the 15,000 boys reached by any and all welfare organizations. The aim is to reach more. In 1912 the club in the Bunker Hill district had 782 members. During the past year the centre served 6,281. After the speeches and a movie showing the Boys' Club in action, hosts carried the guests to Charlestown to see at first hand the business in which they are asked to invest.

Reject Plan to Post 10 Commandments in Schoolrooms

New York, April 12 (A.P.)—A plan to post copies of the Ten Commandments in simplified form in the classrooms or auditoriums of the public schools of Brooklyn as a step toward relieving juvenile delinquency has been declined by the board of superintendents, the New York Sun says today.

2 STORMS HEAD FOR BOSTON

A brief respite from the snappy temperatures of the past four days is officially promised by the local Weather Man but he hastens to warn New England that unsettled conditions are in the offing.

Converging upon the Atlantic seaboard is an energetic area of cool weather from the northwest and out of the southwest a storm disturbance today poked its head in an eastern direction.

A race is on between the two unwelcome visitors but as usually happens, Boston will be the disgruntled hostess as both are expected to finish.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; probably with some rain Wednesday; not much change in temperature; fresh westerly winds.

JERRY GEDZIUM'S WIFE IS OUT OF JAIL CELL

Mrs. Jerry Gedzium was released from jail in Middlesex Superior Court today where Judge David F. Dillon acted on a nol prosse brought by Assistant District Attorney Frederick A. Crafts. Her first words were that she was going to visit her husband now in State's prison for the murder of Edward C. Ross, young bank messenger in the Ward Baking Company holdup.

SIX PERISH IN FIRE ON FARM

Corning, N. Y., April 12 (A.P.).—Rendered unconscious either by smoke or coal gas, six persons perished in a fire that burned their home, a farmhouse on the Farr estate at Big Flats, near here, early today.

The victims of the disaster were Amos Kenkle, 45; his wife and their four children, Katherine, 6; Elizabeth, 4; Amos, Jr., 2, and Robert, 10 months.

When the blaze was discovered by Charles Manworn, a signal maintainer employed by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, the building was in flames. Manworn aroused Roland W. Farr, manager of the Farr estate, and the two men tried to enter the burning building, but were driven off by the fire.

Fire apparatus was summoned from Horseheads, but arrived too late to save the buildings or rescue the occupants. After the ruins cooled the bodies of the victims were recovered.

NEW YORK MAN IS MADE PAPAL DUKE

Rome, April 12.—Nicholas Brady, of New York, has been elevated to Papal dukedom by the Pope.

The honor has been bestowed upon Mr. Brady for his "good works," according to the Vatican officials.

Delicate delicious fragrance—French

FRANCE with her passion for perfection—America with her genius for achievement!

The country that understands women—and the country that cherishes women! Together they give you your wish—Parisian luxury without extravagance! Lux Toilet Soap!

Always the world has looked to France for fine toilet soap. For beauty wise France knew that the skin itself must be exquisite or all her matchless powders and perfume lose half their magic. So she developed her famous method of making fine toilet soaps.

Her magical soaps were made for the glory of exquisite skin,—for the radiant faces, satin-smooth shoulders, gleaming arms that women of every nation have known Paris can give them.

But oh, how expensive French soaps are!

Today Lux Toilet Soap is made by the very method France uses for her finest toilet soaps. Your eager fingers recognize that firm satin-smoothness, the instant they touch the generous cake. Lux Toilet Soap is true savon de toilette! You know its caressing, instant lather will tend your skin the true French way. White, delicately fragrant, it is the toilet soap you asked the world's largest soap makers for—"a soap we can adore as we do French soaps but oh! not so costly."

America has accomplished it. Lux Toilet Soap is just ten cents. Ten cents for all the things you loved in costly, imported soaps. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Massachusetts.

PINK NIGHTIE IN CARRINGTON'S ROOM? NO!

Chicago, April 12 (A.P.).—Campbell Carrington, New York lawyer and capitalist, named by his brother, Colonel Edward C. Carrington, denied today on the witness stand that his sister-in-law, Mrs. Anna Walsh Carrington, ever had remained over night in his apartment in New York.

He was under cross-examination and denied there ever had been any pink silk garments belonging to a woman in his apartment, declaring the only woman's clothing ever there was such as he had purchased for his mother, his daughter or grand-daughter.

Campbell has denied any improper conduct with his brother's ex-actress wife, who testified she once kissed her brother-in-law on the top of his bald head. But it was an impulsive, harmless act, she said.

Today Campbell also denied the Colonel's claim that one of their associates in the J. B. Lyon Company, printers, Albany, had suggested that Campbell agree to stay away from Mrs. Carrington. The witness said he himself suggested that he would "stay out of the picture." This decision came after the Saranac Lake incident he said, when the Colonel angry because Campbell was visiting them, asked why he did not "take over my wife and her family and pay the expenses.

THEY'RE IN WOLLASTON PONY BALLET

Miss Dorothy Davis and Miss Constance Bussell, who are the leaders in the pony ballet in the minstrel show to be given April 20 and 21 by the Wollaston Improvement Association.

The annual show of the Wollaston Improvement Association will take the form of a double entertainment next week Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the new Wollaston theatre when a minstrel show and an elaborate revue will be staged.

The performance starts with an ensemble by the entire chorus as an introduction to the pony ballet, comprised of local beauties. Minstrel men then occupy the stage for several numbers and are afterwards joined by the "Vest Edition" of the pony ballet.

Seven specialty numbers are features of the show. There are Five Ice Nymphs, a solo clog dance by Alice Savage, banjo duet by Guy L. Page and Joe Toose, blackface banjo specialists, and a novelty duet by Winifred Van Reaks and Muriel Bayfield. Helene Johnson and Helen O'Connor give an original interpretation of the tango, followed by a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Griffin and closing with the Merry-mount Quartet.

Minstrel men are Robert Phipps, interlocutor, and Irving Phipps, Chester Wiley, Charles" Chapman, Sim LeBlanc, Louis Pitnoff, Guy Woodman, Roger Clapp and Irving Butler, end men. The Vest Pocket Ballet is composed of Ruth Parker, Dorothy Brown, Elisabeth O'Sullivan and Elizabeth Brown.

its money, while people from all over the United States, in thousands, spend the money of the United States all the time.

FIVE GREAT powers of the world, the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy, all send exactly the same note to China. It demands punishment for deaths inflicted, a written apology from the commander of the Cantonese revolutionary forces, financial reparations, etc. It doesn't say exactly what the five big powers will do if China says, "We won't."

THE CHINESE, observing that one great power, Russia, is missing, might ask: "Why don't you send an ultimatum to Russia? She has been sending agents here, stirring up our ignorant scores of millions to drive out Europeans and Japanese."

The five big nations say to China: "If you refuse our demands we shall take such steps as may seem necessary."

Rather vague, as it has to be; 400,000,000 Chinese are too many to coerce. You might kill 5,000,000 and the remaining 395,000,000 would hardly know it.

IT WOULD be better for Massachusetts and the administration of justice generally, if a commission could be appointed to investigate the evidence on which Sacco and Vanzetti are condemned to die." That is the opinion of the Rev. Roland D. Sawyer, Congregational clergyman and member of the Massachusetts Legislature. The commission, for which he introduces a bill, would consist of the Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, and four others, to be appointed by the Governor. The commission would be authorized to recommend to the Governor a new trial, or such course as might seem necessary.

THE IMPRESSION that justice in the United States is in a hurry to execute anybody or determined to do so should be carefully avoided. This is a case that has never been passed upon, as regards the evidence, by any but one judge, and a case in which after-the-war excitement played a considerable part.

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS'S men, hired to investigate bootlegging, says it is already a ONE-BILLION-DOLLAR INDUSTRY. It took our steel business more than ten years to become a thousand million dollar business. Curiously enough, bootlegging is booming, just as the steel business boomed, because of PROTECTION. High tariff protected steel; prohibition protects bootleggers, giving them an exclusive market.

RECENTLY MR. GIFFORD, head of the Telephone Company, proved that "television," making it possible to see and hear individuals or crowds hundreds of miles away, is practical.

The question, "How can that be made useful?" is answered in a way that in centuries to come will shed light on our civilization.

"There is no doubt about it," you are told, "the only way in which television can be made profitable is in connection with prize fights." People will pay well to see men fighting and to hear the yells of the mob gathered around the prize ring. Would television make money enabling distant crowds to see and hear great preachers or college professors? It would NOT.

THIS GREAT ship is one proof of Germany's recovery. When the great war came she had 1,300,000 tons of shipping. All that was politely "taken" by the treaty of Versailles. Germany now has built her shipping up to 900,000 tons. Nothing succeeds like courage and determination.

PSHAW, WE'VE GOT ONLY 4 BILLIONS IN GOLD LEFT

Washington, April 12 (I.N.S.).—Despite foreign merchandise purchases, investments abroad and "invisible exports" of capital amounting to nearly $14,000,000,000 in the two years ended January 1, the United States lost only $9,000,000 of its gold supply during that time.

Federal reserve board figures today disclose this country has a gold supply of $4,060,000,000, compared to $3,104,000,000 held by thirty-nine other nations.

The United States probably will collect in excess of $800,000,000 on its public and private investments in foreign countries this year. Foreign investments in securities will amount to $12,500,000,000 while upwards of $3,000,000,000 has been invested privately, according to officials.

America's capital exports last year were estimated at $1,300,000,000.

MOTHER FINDS 'DEAD SON' AFTER 26 YEAR'S HUNT

Macon, Ga., April 12 (A.P.).—Henry McGuyrt, who left home in 1899, and changed his name because he objected to a nickname "Suiri," and who was believed dead for 26 years, has communicated with his mother, who had never ceased to search for him.

McGuirt after leaving home enlisted in the army. He gave the name of "Henry McNab," but arranged to receive mail addressed to "Mcuyrt." He heard regularly from his mother until his discharge in 1901.

When no more letters were received his mother began an unceasing hunt for him. Recently she obtained information that a Henry McNab was residing in Rio Vista, Cal. Letters proved the man was her son.

'RED HERRING' CHARGED BY DR. FRANKFURTER

EXAMINATION BY JUDGE THAYER IS ASSAILED

The Sacco-Vanzetti case again challenges public attention.

In line with its policy of presenting all matters as fully as possible, the Boston Evening American publishes a legal analysis of the trial made by Felix Frankfurter, LL. B., instructor in law in Harvard.

In presenting Dr. Frankfurter's analysis, the Boston Evening American in no degree either endorses or sponsors it.

By FELIX FRANKFURTER

CHAPTER IV

Harry Kurlansky testified as follows:—

He is in business at Quincy, at No. 1466 Hancock street. He knows Mrs. Lola Andrews and has known her for the last seven or eight years. Some time in February of this year he had a talk with her. "I was on my door step and Lola Andrews went by . . . It was just between 6 or 7.

Q.—Now, tell us what was said.

A.—I always spoke to her when she went by. I said, "You look kind of tired." She says, "Yes." She says, "They are bothering the life out of me." I says, "What?" She says, "I just come from jail." I says, "What have you done in jail?"

She says, "The Government took me down and want me to recognize those men," she says, "and I don't know a thing about them. I have never seen them and I can't recognize them." She says, "Unfortunately I have been down there to get a job and I have seen many men that I don't know and I have never paid any attention to anyone."

This patently ingenuous witness was subjected to the following questioning by Judge Thayer:—

The Court. Mr. Witness, I would like to ask you one question. Did you attempt to find out who this person was who represented the Government who was trying to get her to take and state that which was false?

The Witness. Did I what?

Mr. Jeremiah McAnarney. What is that question?

The Court. Did you try to find out who it was who represented the Government?

The Witness. No.

The Court. Why not?

The Witness. Well, it didn't come into my mind. I wasn't sure you know. It didn't—

The Court. Did you think the public interest was served by anybody representing the Government to try to get a woman—

The Witness. I don't think of anything—

The Court.—To identify somebody? . . .

The Witness. I don't think of anything like that, just simply what she tell you.

The Court. Don't you think it would be a good idea to find out, if you could?

The Witness. I think it would be.

The Court. I am trying to find out why you didn't do it.

Q.—(By Mr. McAnarney) : Did you regard it as any of your business or any of your duty to look up and see who the Government man was who was with Mrs. Andrews? A.—Why should I bother about it?

This cross-examination must appear strange to anyone familiar with the usual conduct of Massachusetts trial judges. For Judge Thayer to insist that it was the duty of a small shopkeeper, poorly educated and struggling with imperfect English, to ferret out intimations of police improprieties conveyed in the course of casual conversation was to draw a "red herring" across the trail.

DISCREDITED HIM

It undoubtedly served to discredit Kurlansky in the eyes of the jury and thereby to obliterate the effect of important testimony adverse to the Commonwealth. Only the extraordinary features of this case, as they will unfold in the course of the subsequent discussion, can account for the incident.

George W. Fay, a Quincy policeman who was called in to investigate the matter gave the following account of his conversation with Andrews:

I asked her if the man who assaulted her, if she thought that he was one of the men she saw at Braintree on the day of the shooting, and she said she could not tell because she did not see the faces of the Braintree men.

Alfred Lahrecque, a Quincy newspaper man and secretary of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, testified to a conversation with Andrews substantially to the same effect as Fay's.

The district attorney not only offered the Andrews testimony for the consideration of the jury, but gave it the weightiest possible personal sponsorship:

And then there is Lola Andrews. I have been in this office, gentlemen, for now more than eleven years. I cannot recall in that too long service for the Commonwealth that ever before I have laid eye or given ear to so convincing a witness as Lola Andrews.

Carlos E. Goodridge swore that, at the time of the shooting, he was in a poolroom in South Braintree, heard shots, stepped to the door, saw an automobile coming toward him, and when he got to the sidewalk a man in the automobile "poked a gun over towards him," whereupon he "went back into the poolroom."

IDENTIFIED SACCO

About seven months later, he identified Sacco as that man for the first time and identified him again at the trial.

Four witnesses squarely contradicted Goodridge's belated identification.

Goodridge reported the affray to his employer, Andrew Manganaro, an hour afterward without revealing any identification. Manganaro further testified:

Later at the time that Sacco and Vanzetti were arrested there was another talk between the witness and Goodridge. The witness read of the arrest in the newspapers and the same day went to the South Braintree store and told Mr. Goodridge that he should go and see if he could recognize these people that were arrested, whether they were the ones or not.

Q. What did he say? A. He said he could not do it because when he saw the guns he was so scared he ran right in from where he was. He could not possibly remember the faces.

Arrogni, a barber in South Braintree, gave the following evidence—

OF SELF-INTEREST

About a week or so after April 15, 1920, he had a talk with Goodridge in the barber's shop. Goodridge said to him in the course of this conversation: "I was in the pool-room and I heard some shots and I looked through the window and I saw the bandit car come up and I saw a man in the car, but if I have got to say who the man was, I can't say."

Arrogni's boss, Damato, swore to the same effect.

Even when completely disinterested, identification runs all the grave hazards due to the frailties and fallibilities of human observation and memory. But Goodridge's testimony was, in addition to everything else, tainted with self-interest.

At the time he was a witness for the Commonwealth, he was facing jail under an indictment for larceny to which he had pleaded guilty. The case "had been filed,"—that is, no sentence had been imposed—and Goodridge had been placed on probation.

The judge did not allow the defense to show that Goodridge's testimony on behalf of the Commonwealth was influenced by leniency previously shown to him by the district attorney in connection with the confessed charge of larceny, and by fear of losing his immunity.

In the light of settled principles of the law of evidence this ruling, though later sustained by the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, is indefensible.

Frankfurter Calls Judge's Ruling 'Indefensible'

Dr. Felix Frankfurter, in his analysis of the Sacco-Vanzetti case, regarding refusal to allow defense to show testimony of Goodridge was influenced by leniency once shown him in a larceny charge by the District Attorney, says that in the light of settled principles of law of evidence, this ruling, though later sustained by the Supreme Court, is indefensible

WILL DURANT

Will Durant, thinker, teacher, lecturer, writer—and a philosopher in his own right—has joined that group of thinkers and writers who make Cosmopolitan the most alert magazine in America.

One really should say, "of course, he has joined that group." For throughout the world, whether it be an H. G. Wells or an Anita Loos, a Sir Philip Gibbs or a Milt Gross, those who have thoughts to express in writing know that the most responsive audience is that more than a million and a half Americans who each month buy and study Cosmopolitan.

You will understand how deeply Will Durant has thought out the subject from his answers to these questions:

"How shall we explain this novel aspect of the American scene? Even to realize it is hard enough; for to those of us who still love life, suicide seems not merely irrational but psychologically impossible. What happens to the famous 'first law of nature' in these instances? What impulse is it that is so strong that all instincts, all the hunger for possession and love and power crumble at its coming? How can the will to live lose its omnipotence when the body is still young, and the blood courses freshly through full veins?"

And his answer is so coldly logical, that it is sensational by virtue of its simplicity.

E. BARRINGTON

The Unhappy Story of the Woman Lincoln Loved

For the first time, here is set down the story of Mary Todd. Her childhood, girlhood, courtship, lover's quarrels, marriage, the tragic days in the White House, and the deluge of woe that followed the assassination of her husband. Did you know that Lincoln's widow had to beg Congress for a pension? That every possible slur was cast upon her in the United States Senate? Honoré Willsie Morrow, authority on Lincoln, tells the story dramatically and truthfully in May Cosmopolitan.

A Famous Woman Novelist's Experiences in the Occult

E. Barrington, L. Adams Beck, L. Moresby—she writes under all three names—became famous for her novels, "The Chaste Diana," "Glorious Apollo" and "The Exquisite Perdita." Only a few years ago she never had written a line for publication. She now tells how her career as a novelist was prophesied by mystics in India and Japan, and how through the study of Eastern philosophy she gained the background and knowledge to live her triple personality and the power to write her novels in the record time of five weeks.

Novels and Short Stories by the Most Alert Writers of Today

Capt. J. W. Thomason, Jr., of the U. S. Marines, on the Scene of Action in Nicaragua, has written and illustrated a vivid story—Jungle Wars.

Dixie Willson contributes a romance of the Big Tops of which she knows so much and writes so splendidly—Help Yourself to Hay.

Arthur Somers Roche begins a short novel about marriage—a sparkling story, wise behind its laughter—The Wise Wife.

Ring W. Lardner, who knows a lot about Baseball, at least, tells a confidential story of Baseball—and Two Girls—Hurry Kane.

Peter B. Kyne relates a story of a woman who broke wild horses and of a man who loved her—The Lion and the Lamb.

Gouverneur Morris tells of a marriage that died young in a powerful story that is easily one of his best—A Lady of Tempera.

Look for Film

(Run your tongue across your teeth and you'll feel it!)

That's what makes your teeth look "off color." That's what invites decay and gum troubles.

Just accept, please, this remarkable dental test which gives "off-color" teeth dazzling whiteness and firms delicate gums, removing that dingy film from teeth.

WITH proper care this way, as urged by dental authorities, you can work a transformation in your mouth.

Dazzling whiteness will supplant that "off-color" look of your teeth. Your gums will become firm and take on healthy coral tint.

Please accept a 10-day tube without charge to start you.

FILM . . . the trouble

Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film, a viscous coat that covers them.

That film is an enemy to your teeth—and your gums. You must remove it.

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs discolorations and gives your teeth that cloudy "off-color" look. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea and gum disorders.

Old-time methods fail in successfully combating it. That's why, regardless of the care you take now, your teeth remain dull—your gums soft and tasteless.

New methods remove it, And Firm the Gums

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, dental science has provided effective combatants. Their action is to curdle the film and remove it, then to firm the gums.

What you see when that film is removed—the whiteness of your teeth—will amaze you.

Largely on dental advice, the world has turned to this method.

SEVENTH PRIZE—Season ticket to Loew's Orpheum Theatre, on Washington and Tremont Streets, in the heart of the down-town shopping district.

Rules of Movie Test

THE Boston American will publish twenty-four scenes (one a day) from different motion pictures. The face or head of one of the players in the picture will be missing. Fill in the coupon under the picture with the name of the missing player and of the picture.

Awards will be made to the seven persons who send in complete sets of the twenty-four scenes, naming correctly or most nearly correctly the missing players and the plays.

A contestant must write a short letter, giving the name of his or her favorite motion picture and why. The logic of this letter will be reckoned by the judges.

Employes of this and affiliated newspapers and persons affiliated with the moving picture business are barred from this competition.

The judges shall be named by the Managing Editor of this newspaper. Their decision shall be final.

Contestants may submit as many sets of answers as they wish.

Hold your pictures until the whole twenty-four have been printed. Then mail your answer and your letter to Contest Editor, Boston Evening American, P. O. Box 110, Boston Mass. All sets must be in the office of the Contest Editor before midnight, April 21. No sets will be returned.

No. 8 (Reprinted by Request) This play reminds us, somehow, of Charlestown. The player has become more popular with each appearance. He can be singularly happy in his films, or as "bad" as they make 'em. Does this problem make you hesitate?

By The CONTEST EDITOR

It has been brought to the attention of this department that participants in the "Who's Who in the Movies" competition have found the same "clue" printed beneath Test Pictures No 7 and No. 8. This, of course, was an error.

In all editions of Monday, March 28, the clue was printed correctly, as it appeared on that day under Picture No. 7.

For No. 8, however, the correct "clue" is as follows:

"This play reminds us, somehow, of Charlestown. The player has become more popular with each appearance. He can be singularly happy in his films, or as "bad" as they make 'em. Does this problem make you hesitate?

The correct No. 8 clue is reprinted today immediately below the Contest Coupon. Cut it out, if you like, and paste it upon the coupon accompanying your Picture No 8. This, however is not compulsory. The only purpose of the present notice is to advise every contestant of the error and let him have the eighth "clue" correctly. The chances are very much against any contestant having gone wrong on the picture in question.

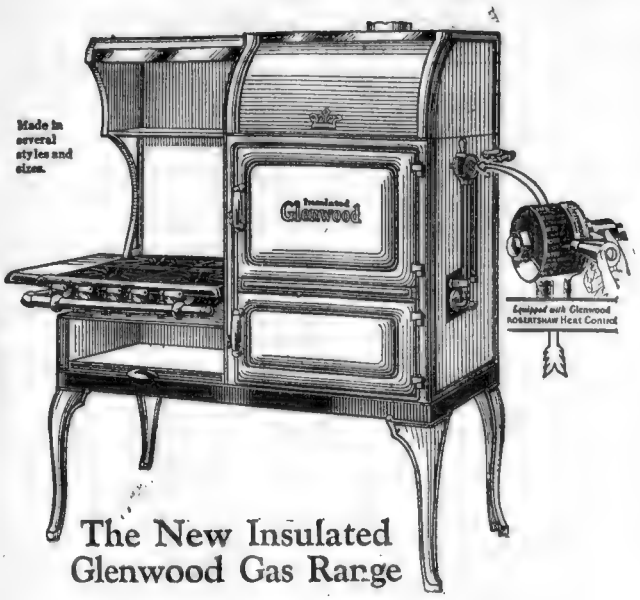
GLENWOOD WEEK

APRIL 9th to APRIL 16th

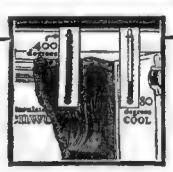
See the Insulated Glenwood Gas Range at all offices of the Boston Consolidated GAS COMPANY

They also have a complete line of other styles and sizes of Glenwood Gas Ranges to show you. . .



The New Insulated Glenwood Gas Range

Brings GAS to its Peak of Perfection as a Cooking Fuel



Thick Insulated Oven Walls hold Heat INSIDE—

You pay for every unit of heat—stop wasting through the oven walls.

ALL the economy, quickness and comfort of cooking with GAS are brought to their best in this new range.

In the last 15 years there have been two vital improvements in gas range construction. One was the Automatic Heat Regulator—developed to such efficiency in the Glenwood Robertshaw Oven Heat Control that the success of all your baking is assured simply by setting the indicator.

And now comes Glenwood Oven Insulation that makes less gas do more work—with greater comfort—so that you get the very maximum of efficiency from every cubic foot of gas that you use in cooking.

No sizzling heat escapes from the Insulated Glenwood Oven; your kitchen will be cool and comfortable. Thick walls of heavy heat-proof insulation hold the heat inside the oven where it belongs. It is so simple! There is no complicated mechanism. Nothing to puzzle over. Nothing to get out of order.

The oven heat is automatically held at exactly the baking temperature desired.

This oven is ventilated, and always kept sweet and sanitary by the continuous circulation of "live" air. Even broiling is odorless and smokeless in the Insulated Glenwood.

The full value of GAS as a fuel depends upon the range that uses it. Come in and let us show you how much better and more comfortable your cooking can be made by replacing your old heat-leaking range with a new Insulated Glenwood.

Stamp of Approval Awarded Glenwood Gas Ranges by the American Gas Ass'n Testing Laboratory

10 Advantages of the Insulated Glenwood Oven

1 A Cooler Kitchen in Summer.
2 Odorless, Smokeless Broiling.
3 Less Gas Does More Work.
4 Bakes Evenly in Any Part of the Oven.
5 Boiling in Oven at Less Cost.
6 No Loss of Food Flavors.
7 Perfect Ventilation.
8 It is Simple—Nothing to Puzzle Over or Get Out of Order.
9 It is Automatically Controlled.
10 It is ECONOMICAL.

STAGE SCREEN MUSIC

FRED STONE IN NEW PIECE AT COLONIAL

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

Fred Stone

With each new appearance of Fred Stone you are pretty certain to be lifted from your seat with a fresh assortment of inborn acrobatics—nasal, limey and carefully selected Mr. Stone's physical qualities in "Criss Cross" at the Colonial last evening left no room for doubt that the old pep, the old energy and physical drive were still his. Indeed, it was hard to tell whether he was more at home in the air or on the solid earth.

The play is a good deal of a mess, but Mr. Stone, if you will pardon the expression, carries over the drama by the sheer force of his personality.

Mr. Stone is the comedy, there was nothing dull in the Stone activities. Over a good stretch of the way Mr. Stone led his audience on stunts not more than one step removed from a three ring circus. Some of it of course will be new to you or to anyone. Some of it you've seen before, but no matter. Mr. Stone has the power of an actor—and an evening of the best vaudeville can be had at the Colonial. In the more than brought out time performed upon the occasions of pretty much what it had. Provided as ever Erlanger's usual musical comedy operatic chorus of beauties.

DANCING DOROTHY

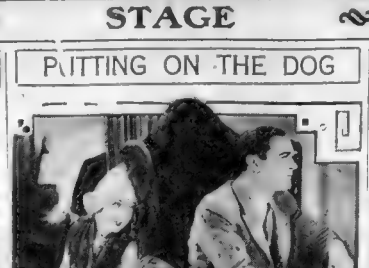
Dorothy Stone is the graceful as any sprightly youngster you have ever enjoyed from across the footlights and if you've ever seen the pictorial delights of Miss Stone in it might be mentioned, as a bit of family knowledge that she got her Dalcroze dainty mode from early way in a all these unified dancing numbers and established herself as an exceedingly spirited jazz maker.

"Criss Cross" was both spectacular and rich full. It was merely from start to finish and a veritable feast for those who prefer extravagant with expression scenery and costumes. Produced by Jerome Kern it was nice to be sufficient for any actual lack of story. Interwoven in it were the and Ann Lee, and just enough to make a good, lively musical comedy of it.

STRONG SUPPORT.

Mr. Stone and his talented daughter were not without essential assistance from a large company of many years standing in Fred Stone shows, that an important role in his own capable way. Dorothy Francis sang pretty and Roy Hooper paid close attention to all necessary juvenile romances at the solo. Add to these a band of tireless Tiller Girls and a group of heavy muscled Arab acrobats and to infinite variety of "Criss Cross" is assured. The real beauty of any Fred Stone attraction is that it is not only good for the old folks but simply great for children. They'll rave over it.

PUTTING ON THE DOG



BETWEEN FRIENDS

In "The Red Mill" at Loew's State Marion Davies gets Fido to help her stir the heart of Owen Moore.

HOLLIS OPENS MONDAY WITH 'CONSTANT NYMPH'

The Hollis Street Theatre will re open next Monday night with the first Boston presentation of "The Constant Nymph," a dramatization of Margaret Kennedy's popular novel of similar title. The attraction has had a long run in New York where it has been established as one of many notable successes of the season. It might be mentioned, as a bit of family knowledge that was got by the Hollis management, that the play was brought to Boston especially for the American production. The dramatization was made by Miss Kennedy and Basil Dean.

The first performance, Monday night, will be given as a benefit for Joseph P. Cook and Lowell Brandon, the manager and the assistant manager of the house. The performance will be the initial one of the season in New York.

This afternoon John Clair Monroe's play will be given a matinee performance at the Selwyn. Seats for which are on sale today. Should the demand for seats be sufficient for any actual lack of story. Interwoven in it were the and Ann Lee, and just enough to make a good, lively musical comedy of it.

RETIRING METROPOLITAN MANAGER IS HONORED

A diamond ring, together with a miniature reproduction of it for a eighteen months old son, was presented to Ralph E. Crabill, manager of the Metropolitan Theatre, at a farewell party tendered him by the officials of the house.

Ralph H. Crabill

The party was held at the well known and popular resort for the entertainment of the guests of honor. Mr. Crabill was to be transferred to the Paramount Theatre in New York.

Toledus Barnes, chief projectionist at the house, was master of ceremonies and paid glowing tributes to the departing manager. Mrs. Crabill received a floral tribute. Afterwards there was dancing.

JIM CORBETT IS THE ORPHEUM HEADLINER

Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky are the featured lovers in "The Night of Love," the film attraction at Loew's Orpheum this week. George Fitzmaurice produced the story, which is based on the old Spanish feudal law of the "right to the first night."

Vilma Banky

"The Night of Love" tells a glowing tale of a wronged gypsy prince, Mon Joro, whose bride is taken from him by the order of the domineering cruel Duke de la Garia—and of the revenge of that gypsy prince, who turns bandit. For when Vilma Banky, as the Princess Maria of France, is forced into marriage with the Duke de la Garia, it is Ronald Colman, as the gypsy Montero, who abducts her on another and different first night. Such thing, Subtlety and fun in love with Ronald Colman in the role are Montero, Love, Natalie Kingston, Lesko Winter and Andy Bind.

Lowell Overfield, exhibitionweight champion of the world, headlines the vaudeville bill with a hilarious comedy skit, put on by himself and Bonny Barry, the "half-pint comedienne." Other acts on the well balanced program include Rob Cade and Dot Gatman, offering a select group of popular songs Japanese and Edward in an elaborate musical dance novelty, "Symphony Jazzy," with Janet and Alice as ex stars; Jack and Rita La Pearl, Rinaldo, Samaroff and Sonia.

'ST. ELMO' HIT AT ST. JAMES

After several weeks of Broadway triumph in Cosmopolitan, the Al Woods Abbey players at the St. James Theatre had an entirely different offering last night when they presented a revival of the famous story, "a favorite drama of past years.

The present production was given with modern costumes and scenic effects, and parts of the dialogue are apparently new also, but the dramatic high lights of the piece are the same.

As the romantic lover, St Elmo Murray, Walter Gilbert gave a fine performance, which, unlike his usual roles, called for no "love" lor. Supporting him was Florence Shirley in the part of Edna Earl, who finally learned to love St. Elmo in spite of his unfortunate career. The play opens with the action when St Elmo kills his best friend in a "love thief" duel. Edna Earl, the woman whom he learns to love, is a witness to the affair.

Kathleen Wallace, in a matinee role with Jansen, William Gerald and Frank Charlton gave the principals excellent support. The scenic effects were especially effective.

In New Comedy

JEANETTE McDONALD

Comes Thursday to the Wilbur in the new musical comedy, "Yes, Yes, Yvette."

Coming Events

"Yes, Yes, Yvette", the new Harry Frazee musical farce, will hop directly from Chicago to open its local engagement at the Wilbur next Thursday night. Included in the cast are Donald Brian, Herbert Corthell Jeanette MacDonald and Mary Jane

The Winthrop Ames revival of Gilbert and Sullivan operettas will make its local step-off at the Plymouth next Monday night, when "The Pirates of Penzance" will be given. The same cast will be retained next Monday, with "Iolanthe" on Tuesday evening which the two operettas will be given on alternate nights.

"Polly-ck" a dramatization of Grace Hodges popular work, will move into the Majestic next Monday. The dramatization was done by Cosmo Hamilton and Frank C. Reilly. The cast will be headed by Lillian Gish.

Lillian Gish in "Spec al The Story" will be the film feature in the Metropolitan, starting next Saturday.

"The Constant Nymph" will take the stage at the Hollis next Monday evening also as a benefit performance for Joseph P. Cook and Lowell Brandon, two popular attaches of that playhouse.

"Oh, Please," with Beatrice Lillie and Charles Winninger, is announced as the attraction at the Tremont, starting next Monday.

John Gilbert in "The Show" will be screened at Loew's State next week.

MOSCOW THEATRE HABIMA IN RETURN ENGAGEMENT

Growing elated over their tremendous success in their five performances given at the Grand Opera House last week, Na Zemach founder and producer of the Moscow Theatre Habimas, has decided to return here Wednesday and Thursday nights to give "Joseph and Dream" and "The Dybbuk" respectively.

BILL ROBINSON REAL HIT AT KEITH'S

Vaudeville is just as good as ever Bill Robinson is at Keith's again. In these days when the musical comedy chain is the twice-a-day circuit's best there are bills every now and then which are first, and decidedly so. Hit so good as Bill Robinson covered at the Hollis street house to-day. He not only is the headliner but carries a single act—and of course not forgetting the encores. Up and down the step ladder, around the rink, that skating act would be a howl even in a graveyard. Robinson dances and sings his way through an act that almost stopped the show last night.

Pauline Garon and Lowell Sherman do the headline honors with a skit, "Lawful Larceny." The third person to complete the triangle is Louise Quinn. She is well supported and the film fans turned out in force with applause. Pauline Garon, her former wife from the screen to the stage and her husband once more of his ability in transferring from the flickers to the boards.

The Kitamura brothers open the bill with something new in "Oriental Frolics." The act is novel and, for an opener, received a great hand. The women in the house more than appreciated the Japanese backdrop in all its dancing array.

Val Harris and Vera Griffin have a hayseed number which is, in common parlance, a "knockout." A laugh for anyone and then some just about describes their well finished efforts. The turn well deserved its measure of applause.

Ameta and her dancers closed the bill, but to mention it here because mirrors and dancer were a treat for any one. Toward the end Ameta made a number or two more than good. Allen and Burns, with Grace Allen's attractiveness, did their bit and their program a little bit of everything, along with Laura Armenta and Hal Sunday. Harry Kaine is a good line of mysteries in his brain-twisting mental act. "Artistic Moments" with Peggy Reather, Rose Stamm and Paul Yocan is an excellently costumed dance number.

HARVARD PLAYERS WILL GIVE SHAKESPEARE PLAY

The dates for the Harvard Dramatic Club production of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" in modern dress are announced as follows: Hollis Hall, Cambridge, on the evenings of May 3, 4 and 6, and the Arts Theatre in Boston on the afternoon and evening of May 7.

Dancing will follow the Cambridge performances.

Seats are now well under way, and Coach Edward Massey Howard is confident of a well-turned production.

BIG SALE FOR N.V.A. SHOWS

Tickets are now on sale for both the N. V. A. midnight benefits, which will be staged in the Metropolitan and Keith-Albee Boston The atres Thursday, April 21, at 11:30 p.m. Ticket offices at both theatres, and in other theatres in the city where seats are on sale, reported a strong demand.

The performances this year will outdo anything ever seen in Boston, according to those in charge. The Hub performances will be the national center of the whole N. V. A. Week because of the presence here of Fred Stone, president of the National Vaudeville Artists, Inc.

He will direct and appear at both theatres, as will his daughter, Dorothy; also McIntyre and Heath, Nazimova and every other ranking star in Gregier Boston. There will be more than forty acts and in addition there will be a score or more of the finest jazz bands.

Proceeds from the N. V. A. appeals for funds to aid the sick and unfortunate members of its profession.

MARION DAVIES FILM IS COMIC TREAT AT STATE

By LEO GAFFNEY

With each succeeding production Marion Davies presents a new personality to her faithful followers in the silent drama. Her role in "Janice Meredith" was trimmed with the finery of the Colonial belle, in "Beverly of Graustark" she was mostly, a lovely boy. But in "The Red Mill," as you discover her now at Loew's State, natural charms have been submerged in the disguise of "Tina," the freckle-faced, shiry-nosed little drudge who enlivens this film treatment of the Victor Herbert-Henry Blossom comic opera.

For versatility in her various screen characters Miss Davies is without a peer in the sisterhood of Hollywood heroines. She can do a multiplicity of things well, wears clothes like nobody else and easily dominates the acting of her every film whether she be royalty or ragmuffin.

In clattering wooden shoes, voluminous apron and pigtails so stiffly braided that they seem to have been starched along with her crisp Dutch head dress, the star is nothing of the melting ingenue of previous pictures, nothing of the familiar screen heroine who perseveres on the shadow grass in mental torture of ever appearing awkward.

"IMOROUS TINA.

No mistake about it, Tina would come under that dreaded feminine classification of "plain", so it is hardly to be wondered that the fine broth of a boy, played by Owen Moore, had no eyes for the miserable little menial who scoured the pans in the inn where he so pleasantly tarried.

How the timorous Tina fell upon a jar of beauty clay, a comb and brush, some other accessories of an appealing toilette and acquired great pictorial endowments, together with the handsome Dutch boy, is the plot of the story, but the chief entertainment of the film is the star's uncommon gift for comedy plus the pleasure of viewing the quaint Dutch settings provided by Director William Goodrich.

The scenes are all of Holland, of dykes, canals, bridges and tiled roofs, of frosty waterways ig Winter, where the merry villagers skate around to call on the neighbors, and the same waterways in Summer alive with traffic of many small boats.

There is one set in particular that sticks in the memory. It is of a church wedding where the nuptial party glides up to the cathedral in skiffs, tie up at the steps while the camera "shoots" the incoming procession from just inside the main door of the church. No single moment of any of the year's photoplays can show anything more enchanting.

EXCELLENT CAST.

In the star's support each player is well known to the film fan Louise Fazenda, she of the magnificent grimaces, carries on a grotesquely comical love affair with Karl Dane, the goggle-eyed gentleman of "The Big Parade"; George Siegmann, perhaps the best of the screen's "heavies," enacts Tina's brutal Dutch Uncle, and Brooks Benwards, who by this time has become the greatest comic valet in the business, scampers about Owen Moore for all the world like an obedient little spaniel.

"The Red Mill" is Marion Davies funniest film to date. Its locale is daintily novel and the action races along in the most spirited fashion Not to see it is to miss one of the season's comic delights.

The stage show at the State is likewise a treat. The headliners are those famous blackface boys, McIntyre and Heath. For more than fifty years they have toured as a team and audiences still roar with pleasure at their fanciful excursions in the lotusland of "soup groves" and "cigar orchards"—and in Jail Shorter film features complete the bill.

Carmel Myers to Make Film in Germany

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—Carmel Myers gets a trip abroad and three months in Germany and Paris. Not bad when one considers she will enjoy this little outing on full pay for she sails early in May to play the lead in a picture to be made by A. E. Dupont.

Dupont is the man who made "Variety." His history is interesting. "Variety" was a sensation and when he came to this country everyone was on t ptoe, expecting him to make every American director look like an amateur. Unfortunately, "Love Me and the World Is Mine" was so far from a success that it is now reposing on a shelf at Universal City.

In justice to the man I have always thought the blame was due to his inability to understand American technique and Universal's attempt to Americanize him.

At any rate Dupont is now sitting on top of the world in Berlin. He is the head of a producing company to be known as the Carr Gloria Dupont concern. Miss Myers is the first of the American players to be engaged to join his company.

Dupont's first will undoubtedly be the original story he had in mind before he left the U. S. A., the story of a girl from the Montmartre.

Carmel Myers

WHEN CARL LAEMMLE gave his son, Junior, carte blanche to go ahead and make all arrangements for producing "Too Many Women" nothing was said about money. Junior only asked if he might engage any one he pleased. His father replied: "Just as long as the bank roll lasted," which gives the boy plenty of latitude, for Universal is a particularly solvent company.

Junior has definitely decided to engage Louis Moran, known as the freshest prized young juvenile free lance actress in capital to play opposite Norman Kerry, who has the male lead. William Beaudine, who is also Junior's particular choice, will direct. Scenes in the cast are Gertrude Astor, Myrtle Stedman and Lee Moran.

If the picture is not a success it won't be because Junior hasn't studied it from every angle. Five minutes' conversation with him and he can convince anyone the idea of the scenario is great.

POLA NEGRI'S MONTH IN PARIS seems pretty well filled with plans. She will spend some time at her new chateau, Ruel Seraincourt, and she will also go to Switzerland to learn something of the life of Rachel, whose story she will put into pictures under the direction of Roland V. Lee as soon as she returns. Ernest Vajda has been assigned to write the scenario.

Pola left California April 4, sailing April 20 on the Aquitania. While in Paris she will make arrangements with the Comedie Francaise to get some stage robes for this next picture.

Of course Pola will do some shopping in Paris. What woman ever goes there without buying clothes?

The NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL . . . . . key to the World's Richest Market

DOMINATE WITH

COLOR

Here is the proven sales experience of firms who have used color advertising in the New York Evening Journal—

1—From nothing to one and a half million gallons for one manufacturer.

2—From nothing to $3,000,000 New York business for another.

3—From nothing to first place and huge volume against thirty-eight competitors for another.

4—Sales quotas exceeded for another before campaign is half over.

5—From nothing to selling five times quota for another.

6—From nothing to 50 per cent general and one hundred per cent chain store distribution in six weeks for another.

Such an outstanding record is proof of sound practices. The advertising plan in each instance included color in the New York Evening Journal.

When offered pages in four colors in the greatest evening circulation in America, these manufacturers were keen enough to see that in this way they could dominate this fertile market with more rapid development at an ultimate lower sales cost.

They made their appeal in color and received quick response from the New York Evening Journal's market—a market so live, so vital and responsive that merchandisers give it preference with dollars above all competition—morning, evening or Sunday.

Value in advertising is best written in terms of repeat business. We are proud of our record in repeat color orders which are coming to us for 1927. To date more color pages have been bought than were purchased all of last year. 70 per cent of them are renewals from advertisers who have previously used color pages in the New York Evening Journal.

You, too, can use color at strategic points in your regular black and white schedule. It will add emphasis and interest to your whole campaign, both in the dealers' and consumers' mind.

New dealers can be secured more easily.

Old dealers' interest can be quickened.

Your salesmen can use reprint pages.

Dull season drives can be built around color peaks.

Window display or special sales weeks can be tied up to color as a driving weapon.

The same color copy used in magazines can be run in the Saturday New York Evening Journal without change of style of presentation.

We have proved these things to many manufacturers, and stand ready to prove them to you. Will you let our representative call and explain the low cost of New York Evening Journal color, and our ability to tie it up tightly with your sales outlets. It will put you under no obligation and may be mutually profitable.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Many Members of Smart Set Down on the Patroness List of Copley Society's Fine Arts Ball

THE VERY CREME OF THE TOWN, SOcially and artistically, are on the Copley Society's Fine Arts Ball patroness list—as is to be expected when this fine old society compiles such a roll. The "Dexters" and the "Drapers," the "Curtises" and the "Abbotts," the "Endicotts" and the "Saltonstalls," and all the other names that stand for place and importance are down to the number of two hundred or so. Mrs. Alvan Tufts Fuller and Mrs. S. Huntington Wolcott are notable on the list.

MRS. RANDOLPH MORGAN APPLETON, MRS Frederick J. Converse, Mrs. I. Tucker Burr Jr., Mrs. Philip Hale, Mrs. Harold Peabody, Mrs. Edward R. Warren, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Mrs. John Gorham Palfrey, Mrs. Joshua Montgomery Sears—such are the brand of social lights shedding refulgence on the affair. Mrs. Ralph Adams Cram, Mrs. Cyrus E. Dallin, Mme. J. J. Haffner de Quatrefages, Mrs. Gino L. Perera, Mrs. Arthur A. Shurtleff, Mrs. Charles Martin Loeffler, Miss Nellie Louise Thompson and Mrs. Calvin Gates Pace are a few of the personages on the list artistically notable.

THE CARDS OF INVITATION SAY THAT "IN order to preserve the beauty of the spectacle" everyone must come in fancy dress. And the object of the ball is to provide "romantic surroundings" wherein to dance—an aim that the Copley Society so well knows how to achieve right regally. Artists and architects and decorators within its midst are bending every effort to reproduce the semblance of the fine old baronial setting chosen as a background

A LOVELY GOTHAMITE, MISS KATHERINE Warren, plans to come over to town for the Fine Arts Ball and has in preparation for that stellar event a charming costume, delicately Watteaulike in line and color. It is quite likely that Mrs. Frank Warren will accompany her daughter to town, and that not very long after the affair they will travel up to Whitefield, N. H., where they have a villa for the Summer

MRS. HAROLD PEABODY

IT IS IN A TRIM AND SHINING ENGLISH town car that a very stunning matron, Mrs Charles Fanning Ayer, makes her way about the smart shopping thoroughfares. It is a gleaming ebony affair, this car, as sleek and trim as can be. These words very aptly apply to Mrs. Ayer herself. Her black broadcloth coat and black felt chapeau are the smartest things imaginable as she shops abroad of mornings

The Junior McDowell Club Gives Musicale at the Lime Street Studio of Richard Platt; Christopher Shop Dinner at Marco's

OFF FOR HIS ANNUAL VACATION TRIP TO EUROPE, THE Rev. William Harman van Allen of the Church of the Advent plans to sail away in May, so I hear. Father van Allen spends practically every Summer on the other side, having hosts of friends and admirers in that, as well as this hemisphere.

TWO CUNNING LITTLE MAIDS, WITH THEIR "SCOOTER," THE Misses Camilla White and Patricia White, may be seen most any pleasant day dashing about the Esplanade, along with their playfellows from other aristocratic homes of "the Hill" and the Back Bay. They are the small daughters of Dr. James C. White and Mrs. White (Camilla Morgan) of Chestnut street, and Mrs. David Sears, of Vincent Club fame, is their charmingly youthful auntie.

A MUSICAL LIGHT OF THE YOUNGER ELEMENT, MISS MURIEL Ames, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John L. Ames of Chestnut street, is leading her Junior MacDowell Club mates on toward fame. They are giving a musicale this morning, some of the child geniuses of the organization, to show their talents, and Richard Platt is lending his Lime street studio for the occasion Miss Ames is an accomplished pianist, enjoying a fine fame in that line for one of her years.

WITH TODAY'S "INTERNATIONAL" LUNCHEON AT THE CLUB Marco, the Christopher Shop series conclude in a highly successful fashion, with, in fact, all the success that their instigators, Mrs. Horace Morison and her clique, could have wished or imagined. Attendance at these glittering epicurean affairs has increased by leaps and bounds, until the original three score or so taking in the first one has grown to the two hundred and fifty at the last preceding ones. Mrs. J. Pennington Gardiner has a corps of Junior Leaguers to bustle about and wait on table.

NEW YORK CORNER LOT IS SOLD FOR $378,000

New York, April 12.—Thirteen million dollars an acre. Three hundred and fifteen dollars per square foot. Bloomingdale Brothers paid that for the northeast corner of Lexington avenue and Fifty-ninth street today. The corner is 29x80 feet. The property has been held by the Bennett family since 1846, when they purchased it for $17,000, or $1.50 a square foot.

PLEA OF BRIDE SAVES MAN FROM JAIL

A bride's plea to Judge William Sullivan in Municipal Court today won leniency for Francis Sullivan, a drug addict, charged with larceny of spoons from a hospital where he was employed as a janitor

Approaching the bench with outstretched arms as the judge was about to sentence her husband Mrs. Sullivan cried: "Please give him a chance, your honor. We have been married such a little while. He has been as good to me. He is kind and he has not been in trouble with the police since I married him."

Sobbing, she was led from the courtroom as Judge Sullivan turned to the prisoner

"Your wife has interceded for you I shall give you your chance." And Clerk Frank Bean read the sentence, "Six months, suspended."

WALES OFF TOMORROW FOR 2 WEEKS IN SPAIN

London, April 12 (A.P.)—The Prince of Wales will leave London tomorrow to visit the King and Queen of Spain. He first will go to Biarritz and expects to arrive at Madrid on Easter Tuesday, remaining for two weeks in the Spanish Capital.

Yesterday the Prince started the presses in the new home of the Daily Mail. He visited the Mail's reference library and was shown a file of his own accomplishments. "A good drawer wasted," he commented.

HEADLIGHTS 80 PER CENT. OFF, TEST SHOWS

More than 80 per cent. of the automobiles on the streets of Boston are being operated in violation of the headlight regulations of the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

This is according to the tests made on more than 1,500 cars at the public lights tests conducted by the Boston Automobile Club on Dorchester avenue, near Summer street, and on Gaffney street, outside of the entrance to Braves Field.

This disclosure was made after the tests were completed for the night by officials from the Registry, who stated that practically nine out of every ten pair of headlights that were tested were out of focus.

The tests started shortly after darkness and continued until 11 o'clock. They will be held every night this week from darkness until 11 p. m. at both Dorchester avenue and Gaffney street.

SOCIETY GIRL BATTLES BIG FISH HOURS AND WINS

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 12 (A.P.)—Miss Hope Richardson, Morristown, N. J., society girl, today held the West Palm Beach tarpon record. She landed a 231-pound tarpon after a two and one-half-hour battle from a rowboat. Fishermen said the former record catch was one of 205 pounds.

Bank Pres'dent Dead

Conway, April 12 (A.P.)—Arthur P. Delabarre, 70, leading citizen of this town, president of the Conway National Bank, died today following a heart attack. He was a native of Maine. He leaves two sons and a daughter. The funeral will be held Thursday

Forbidden Lips

By ROBERT TERRY SHANNON
AUTHOR OF "THE TAXI DANCER"

A Startling Serial Story of Love, Terror and the Night Clubs

Jacqueline Kay comes to Boston from Houlton, Me., and obtains an engagement as singer in the Sea Shell, a cabaret. Julius Lupino, the proprietor, to whom Jacqueline is attracted and repelled, takes interest in her. He invites her to join some friends. She meets Tom Ware, who is warned by Lupino to keep "hands off." Ware resents Lupino's attitude. Jacqueline, angry, leaves the table. One of the singers tells her that she can keep Lupino in his place if she is clever. Lupino makes advances to Jacqueline and she threatens to leave. He refuses to allow this and apologizes. He asks her to be friendly and extends his hand.

When Jacqueline leaves the Sea Shell after midnight she finds Lupino waiting to take her home. She refuses his escort. He refuses to allow this. They see Tom Ware waiting in a roadster. Lupino takes Jacqueline's arm. She is accosted by a man whom Lupino knocks down. With a sinking heart, Jacqueline realizes that Lupino has killed the fellow.

CHAPTER 5

THE sudden appearance, almost like an apparition, of the policeman brought Jacqueline and Lupino sharply out of the emotional strain that was gripping them both.

"What's going on here?" The voice of the law was cold, suspicious.

Lupino turned slowly to face the blue coat and brass buttons. Jacqueline's heart jerked painfully—at that dead, dishevelled figure down the block had been found. . . .

But, at once, the fearsome suspense was ended.

"Excuse me, Mr. Lupino—I didn't recognize you." The policeman's voice changed. "No offence. I was just strolling by and I heard voices—"

A sharp expulsion of air from Jacqueline's lungs . . . relief!

Lupino recognized the man. "That's all right, Rafferty," he said broadly. "We're just having a little friendly argument here."

Jacqueline, her own face coloring with shame, dared not look at the policeman, even though it was perfectly evident that Lupino, through some unguessable underworld connection, loomed as a figure to be respected in the eyes of the blue coat. More important, it was evident that the officer knew nothing of the dead body down the block; perhaps that motionless object would not be discovered until morning.

The policeman, with the air of a man who had somehow blundered, started to move away. Then suddenly, two other figures were upon them—a wizened little man in a battered gray felt hat, and another policeman.

"There he is, officer," the little man cried excitedly, pointing to Lupino. "That's the man and the girl, too." His voice quivered with excitement. "I was standing in a hallway across the street and I saw the whole thing. . . I kept my eyes

JAIL TAILOR TO MAKE SUIT FOR ENWRIGHT

Frederick W. Enwright, former publisher of the defunct Boston Telegram and Telegraph, will have to wear a suit made to measure while serving his eight months' sentence in the Charles street jail for libelling former Mayor James M. Curley.

When Enwright, who began serving his sentence today, was taken to the clothing room of the prison to be given a uniform, it was found that the institution did not have anything in stock that would fit him, owing to his size. The prison tailors couldn't alter any of the garments on hand, so he was measured for a suit and this is being made in the jail tailor shop.

Enwright spent his first day quietly in his cell. When he gets his suit tomorrow he will be assigned to work.

For his first breakfast this morning the former publisher, waking on himself in the jail cafeteria method of eating, had oatmeal, creamed beef, bread and coffee. At noontime he had hamburg steak, wax beans, potatoes, coffee and rice pudding.

The prisoners in the jail march from their cells to the rotunda at meal time, and with trays stand in line until served with food, when they go to small benches in front of their cells where they eat. When they are finished they return to their cells.

Enwright was convicted of criminal libel for the publication of a cartoon depicting ex-Mayor Curley as a convict, in prison garb, with a ball and chain about his ankle. The caption on the cartoon was "Curley, the Thief."

FIND RUM BOAT FISHING FAR FROM FISHES' HAUNTS

Woods Hole, April 12 (A.P.)—The 59-foot auxiliary fishing sloop Minnie V., out of New Bedford, was seized by the Coast Guard patrol boat, No. 131 in Vineyard Sound and is being escorted to Boston to be turned over to customs authorities for attempting to smuggle liquor into the country.

She began to drag for flounders in a spot far removed from the fishing grounds. A pitchfork ran into the cargo of iced-downed fish in her hold brought up a sack filled with bottles of liquor. Minnie V. Anderson, Fairhaven, is listed as the owner.

Harvard Cupid's Got Mumps!

LOVE IS SWELL! 8 SUFFER

An Epidemic of "Full Moon Faces" Lays a Professor Low on Wedding Eve

Eight down for Harvard.

An epidemic of mumps is in full swing at Harvard today and in the course of its progress the epidemic has laid low Professor Kirby S. Miller, just as he was about to wed Sallie M. Craighill, a teacher in an exclusive Back Bay school.

Eight mumps victims are in bed at the Stillman Infirmary and many others are cutting classes because of the jaw swelling germs, it was learned today. The patients at the infirmary are C. H. Dieckman, a law student, Oakland, Cal.; E. R. Todd, '28, of Lincoln; David A. Wilson, grad student, Philadelphia; G. E. Coleman, '29, Santa Barbara, Cal.; F. W. Blatchford, Jr., '20, Winnetka, Ill.; M. J. Reif, '29, New York; C. A. Comando, law student, Cortland, N. Y., and Professor Miller of the philosophy department.

Miller's romance is interrupted for at least ten days, according to the doctors. The professor would not talk about his coming wedding nor would his bride-to-be. Miss Craighill lives in St. Stephen's street.

ONE-POUNDERS USED IN "BATTLE OF LAKE ERIE"

Cleveland, O., April 12 (A.P.)—A rum running prize was towed into the harbor here today by a Coast Guard patrol boat following a brush with a liquor craft off Toledo. Two men on board the liquor boat are in custody. Their cargo of Canadian whiskey and beer was confiscated.

The fight occurred before daylight. The Coast Guard crew, under the direction of Captain G. J. Ware, hearing the motor of the runner's boat, spotted it with a searchlight. Commands to stop were ignored and the Coast Guard vessel opened fire with its one-pounders and rifles.

Aman giving his name as Edward Beckrer of Toledo was slightly injured.

HELD FOR ASSAULT ON POLICE OFFICER

Charged with drunkenness, attempting to rescue a prisoner and assault on a police officer, Edward Sylvester of South Boston was held in $500 for hearing tomorrow when arraigned in municipal court today. He was arrested with three other men after a free for all fight in a Haymarket square lunch room. Patrolman Bernard Feeney of Station 1 was the complainant. He had attempted to arrest a drunken man when set upon.

TAX ON GAS MAY COST MILLION

"Petrol Bootleggers" and the Huge Loss in Revenue Are Pointed Out by Goodwin

The two-cent gasoline tax bill received a jolt today when Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, appeared before the Senate Ways and Means Committee to protest the feature which would reduce automobile and motortruck registration fees to a flat $3 yearly rate.

"Instead of adding millions to the State treasury for road development the bill will mean a loss of $1,000,000 or possibly $2,000,000 a year," Goodwin declared.

His statement was received with unanimous approval by the committee. The bill has been approved by the House and has the endorsement of organizations such as the Retail Trade Board of the Chamber of Commerce.

Goodwin was strongly supported by Public Works Commissioner William F. Williams.

WILL CUT REVENUES.

"Rather than cutting the registration fee to $3," Goodwin suggested "the rates should be left as they are and a concession made by eliminating automobiles as items for personal taxes. In this case, the two cent gasoline tax would be turned back to the cities and towns in lieu of personal auto taxes.

"If the bill passes, the total revenue from the gas tax and registrations will be only $10,000,000, as against $12,500,000 now.

"Auto registrations are not going to increase to any great degree, due to the compulsory insurance law."

SEES GAS BOOTLEGS.

He pointed out an error in calculations of those who drafted the original gas tax bill. In figuring the number of cars they overcalculated by 150,000 cars, represented in transfers of ownership during the year, he said.

Goodwin made a further suggestion that the present bill be amended to fix the flat registration fee at $3.

"Many trucks pay $100 to $150 a year. It will mean a huge loss to reduce registration to $3," he said. "Many trucks would take advantage of lower gasoline prices in Maryland and New York, thus defeating the law.

"If this bill is adopted, I look for a great deal of gas bootlegging. Motor boats are exempt from the tax and there will be nothing to prevent motor boat owners obtaining their gasoline, ostensibly for their water craft."

GEN. CROWDER TO QUIT CUBA

Washington, April 12 (A.P.).—A request of Major-General Enoch H. Crowder for relief from duty as Ambassador to Cuba is expected by President Coolidge.

The President was represented today as having felt that the Ambassador has been taxing himself beyond his strength and as not being in the best of health. It was added that Mr. Coolidge regards Mr. Crowder's services as having been excellent and regretted he would soon give up his post.

Crowder, who was provost-marshal general during the World War was sent to Cuba in 1921 as the special representative of President Harding. Later he was appointed Ambassador. He is sixty-eight years

JAP SQUADRON COMING TO HUB

Washington, April 11 (A.P.).—A Japanese naval training squadron, consisting of the warships "Iwate" and "Asama," will visit west and east coast ports of the United States in a cruise lasting from July next to December.

In a note to the State Department today, the Japanese Embassy announced an itinerary which includes Boston, September 21; New York, September 28; Annapolis, October 8, and Norfolk, October 14.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

SALIENT POINTS OF BIDDING.

South has the necessary values and their distribution in three suits, for an opening No Trump bid. But with his particular type of hand, a seven-two suitor, an introductory bid of a suit is usually preferable, especially when holding a worthless doubleton.

SALIENT POINTS OF PLAY.

Trick 1. West, holding four cards of the trump suit, properly opens his long suit, even though, in doing so, he is forced to lead from a Major tenace.

Trick 3. West's opening lead causes South to suspect that West holds trump length. If so, and if he also holds the Ace of Clubs the entry will give West the needed opportunity to continue the event objective of his opening lead, to wit, to subject South to a possibly embarrassing ruffing force, by continuing with Spades because of the impending force, South refrains from an immediate trump lead. As the Club Ace must be disposed sooner or later, South considers it better to force it at once, before attempting to exhaust the adverse trumps.

Trick 4. West leads another Spade, forcing South to trump, thus accomplishing his initial purpose in opening his long suit.

IRON HILL BLASTED WITH 880 CASES OF POWDER

Marquette, Mich., April 12 (A.P.)—A terrific blast of 850 cases of powder that was heard for miles moved 150 tons of iron ore at the Palmer Milling Company's Volunteer mine near here. Half of a large hillside was blown away.

The high side of the hill blown away was 700 feet long and 200 feet wide. Seventy-two holes were drilled from 80 to 90 feet deep.

The dynamite fired totaled 43,700 pounds and from 450 to 800 pounds of powder and 60 per cent. dynamite were used in each hole.

Louis Bialal, in charge of blasting at the mine, lit the three minute fuse. He then ran down the hill and covered 1,500 feet in front of the dynamite loaded hill, making the distance in two minutes.

A Tale of Two Cities — Saved by Sydney — By Charles Dickens

After eighteen years' imprisonment, Dr. Manette was released from the Bastille. His grief had caused him to forget his identity. He was given temporary shelter by his old servant, Ernest Defarge, now owner of a wine-shop in Paris. The Defarges hated the French aristocrats.

The doctor's wife had long since died. His daughter, Lucie, who had believed him dead, lived in London. She was summoned to Paris and found him working at a cobbler's bench in a garret over the wine-shop. The lonely and deranged old man could not understand that he was free.

Lucie took her invalid father back to England. While crossing the Channel she met a handsome young fellow-passenger, Charles Darnay. He was the son of the Marquis St. Evremonde who had imprisoned her father. She knew nothing of the cruel act of his aristocratic parent.

Three years later Lucie and Charles met again—in an English court of law. Charles was wrongfully accused of treason. Lucie was called as a witness. Darnay was acquitted, his resemblance to a lawyer, Sydney Carton, being the deciding factor.

Farming Is Not Only Line Where Failures Are Many

By B. C. FORBES

New York, April 12

TWO OF every five American corporations make no money but finish the year with deficits. That is the revelation made by governmental figures just published.

Commercial failures have averaged 21,900 during each of the last three years with liabilities averaging fully $445,000,000 a year. During the first quarter of this year—again using Dun's records—there were 6443 failures, an increase of 683 over a year ago. The last lines involved exceeded $150,000,000.

There were 608 failures among banks last year and 174 last quarter.

B. C. Forbes.

Only one automobile company in every ten organized survives.

THESE FIGURES may not contain consolation for our agricultural population, but at least they show very strikingly that losses and failure are not confined to farming.

WE HAVE been hearing and reading much of late about the record-breaking profits of such organizations as U. S. Steel, General Electric, American Telephone & Telegraph, Pennsylvania and other railway systems, General Motors, Eastman Kodak, Woolworth, Metropolitan Life and the banks in most people have got it into their heads that almost all corporations are gold mines.

We hear little or nothing about the thousands and thousands of companies struggling along, earning little or no profits.

From the compilations of income tax returns submitted to the Treasury Department, the following facts can be gathered: the figures for 1925 are those filed up to September 1, 1926, but are described as not absolutely complete.

Years	Total with net income	Total with deficit	P. C. being on net
1925	211,449	109,917	66
1924	241,982	124,482	66
1923	239,119	95,338	72
1922	222,705	97,348	70
1921	177,329	140,156	53
1920	240,962	142,992	63

IN CERTAIN States more corporations lost money than made money in the latest year for which figures are furnished, this notwithstanding that that year (1925), made the best showing ever reported in the total number of corporations returning net incomes and notwithstanding also that the corporation income tax collected that year ($1,201,657,000) was distinguished from the previous year as the largest ever set on record. In that year, too, the total deficits reported were less than in any year since 1919.

Among States reporting a greater number of deficits than net income were Colorado, Montana, Idaho, New Hampshire, Arizona, Nevada and Alaska.

THE NUMBER of corporations reporting net income and the number reporting no net income in each State were as follows:

IT WILL thus be seen that organization of a corporation is no sure step to wealth.

UTILITIES ARE LEADERS IN TRADING

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Massachusetts and other public utilities are still leaders in trading, both on the Boston Stock Exchange and "over the counter." I have heard it declared that one day during the week more shares of unlisted Bay State utilities were sold "over the counter" than the total number of shares handled in Boston Stock Exchange trading. Usually the traders in unlisted issues start and stop work about the same time as the stock exchange, that is, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. But the sensational activity in local utilities led to the traders sticking to their posts until 9 p. m. one evening within the week, while three to four hours of overtime has been common the past few days. As previously established in this column, the buying has been based on merger rumors, some false, some true.

At its Maritime Night this evening the New England Export Club of the Boston Chamber of Commerce will hear Vincent de L. Gaulois, purchasing agent of the United Fruit Co., discuss: "Packing Experiences as Viewed by the Steamship Companies." Services as one of the New England ports are to be discussed. Representatives of all the leading steamship companies are expected to attend the session.

Hugh Bancroft, publisher of the Boston Herald-Traveler, who is a most interesting public speaker to whom I have always listened with a good deal of pleasure, is a former chairman of the directors of the Port of Boston. He is therefore especially well qualified to perform the duties before the Maritime Night gathering of outlining present port services available.

Idea advanced in this column months ago that some enterprising folk ought to announce time over the radio, now that the radio phone and wire companies have stopped giving it to patrons and others, has been adopted by a New York jewelry firm. Hundreds of people now tune in for this announcement in order to set their timepieces.

You too may like these paragraphs from Editor Sherman of the Hartford Courant: "Somebody has said that all New England has today is her inherited superiority. If that is so, it is an asset not lightly to be regarded. Make no mistake about it. The New England spirit still lives and finds expression even among those from other lands who have taken up their abode here.

"One very potent reason why the industrialists who are taking down New England when they should be talking it up, are doomed to be disappointed in the fulfilment of their dire predictions is that the people of New England always have had to battle their way.

• • •

"History records that in devout spirit they first fell on their knees and then on the aborigines, performing the latter act with a determination not wholly pious. They had to fight for their very existence. 'Don't you know,' said one of the brave mothers of that period to her husband, as he started for church with his flintlock over his shoulder 'that it does you no good to carry a gun? All our days are numbered and when your time for death comes you are powerless to stop it.' 'Very true,' he said, 'but who can tell that I may not be the instrument appointed by God to determine the time of death of some Indian.'"

NASH EXPECTS 'NORMAL YEAR'

At a meeting of directors of Nash Motors Co. a regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share was declared on the common stock, payable May 2 to stock of record at the close of business April 21.

Nash Motor Co. reports for the first quarter of its 1927 fiscal year, covering the nine months ending Feb. 28, 1927, after deducting expenses of manufacturing, including depreciation, selling and administration, and providing for local taxes, and State and Federal income taxes, net income of $3,825,454, as compared to $4,137,508 for the corresponding quarter of the 1926 fiscal year. This is equal to $1.43 a share on the 2,130,000 shares of stock for the last quarter, against $1.51 a share in same period a year ago.

With reference to business conditions, Chas. W. Nash adds: "I see nothing today to cause me to change the optimistic viewpoint at the beginning of 1927, when I said I was prepared to believe that we would enjoy a year of normal prosperity.

It might be well to point out that this statement of the year we find that our dealers throughout the country have a much smaller stock of cars on hand than a year ago, and this is another sound reason why we should expect a good business throughout the balance of 1927."

MARCH FOR GOODYEAR BEST MONTH TO DATE

Total production of automobile casings by Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company during the quarter ended March 31 was 4,000,658. March sales were 4,101,457, an inventory decrease of 70,000 tires.

"Unit sales during the quarter for replacement purposes were more than double those of same period last year," said President Litchfield.

"March was the biggest month in Goodyear history, with total production of over 1,500,000 casings and 1,750,000 tubes at prices substantially below those of 1926."

City of Milan

(ITALY)

External Loan of 1927 Sinking Fund 6½% Bonds

To be dated April 1, 1927 — To mature April 1, 1952

Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100, interchangeable. Interest payable April 1 and October 1. Principal and interest payable at the principal office of Dillon, Read & Co., New York City, in gold coin of the United States of America of the present standard of weight and fineness, without deduction for any Italian taxes present or future. Redeemable as a whole (but not in part, except through operation of the sinking fund) on April 1, 1937, or on any interest date thereafter prior to maturity, upon 45 days' notice, at 100% and accrued interest. Bankers Trust Company, Countersigning Agent.

A sinking fund is provided for, payable beginning January 1, 1928 in semi-annual instalments calculated on an accumulative basis, sufficient to redeem the entire issue at or before maturity, by purchase of bonds if obtainable at or below 100% and accrued interest, or, if not so obtainable, by semi-annual call by lot, commencing April 1, 1928, at 100% and accrued interest.

The City of Milan has agreed to make application in due course to list these bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

The following information regarding the city and this issue of bonds has been furnished by the Honorable Signor Ernesto Belloni, the Podesta of Milan:

CITY OF MILAN

Milan, with a population of about 900,000, is the second largest city in Italy, being exceeded in population only by Naples. It is one of the most important commercial and financial centers of Italy and includes among its principal industries the manufacture of electric equipment, silk and cotton goods, leather and rubber products, and motor cars. It is a converging point of the principal railroads of Italy and of the principal through rail lines connecting Italy with Switzerland and northern and central Europe, via the Simplon and St. Gothard tunnels. The financial importance of the city is indicated by the fact that the three largest Italian banking institutions have their main offices in Milan.

The administration of the city is supervised by the Royal Italian Government, full administrative powers over the city being vested in the Podesta, who is appointed by and responsible solely to that Government.

SECURITY

These bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will be the direct obligation of the City of Milan and their issuance has been approved, in accordance with the requirements of the laws of Italy, by the Royal Italian Government and the appropriate local authorities.

The Kingdom of Italy has agreed to purchase from the City of Milan in lire the dollar proceeds of these bonds at a fifteen-day average rate of exchange, and to resell to the city, at the same exchange rate, the dollars required to meet principal, interest and sinking fund payments on the bonds as such payments become due.

Under the laws of Italy relating to municipal borrowings, in the event a city fails to meet any of its obligations the Royal Italian Government is empowered to appoint a royal commission vested with authority to take over the budget making powers of such city, including the authority to eliminate or reduce items of expenditures and to increase receipts through additional taxation.

DEBT AND PROPERTY

These bonds, upon issuance, will constitute the city's only external debt. Including this issue, the total funded debt of the city amounts to the equivalent of approximately $52,800,000, or approximately $55 per capita of population. The value of municipally-owned property, including the city's electric light and power, water and street railway systems, is estimated to be substantially in excess of the city's total funded debt, and the estimated value of all taxable property in the city is over $700,000,000. None of the properties owned by the city are pledged or mortgaged, with the exception of the city's electric power plant, against which there is a mortgage lien to secure a present debt of less than $325,000.

Ordinary revenues of the city have exceeded ordinary expenditures in every year subsequent to 1921. The only revenue pledged is a real estate supertax which in 1926 amounted to approximately 8¾% of the city's total revenue, and which is allocated to and amply covers the service charges of certain long term obligations (included in the total funded debt as stated above) of the city to a government-owned credit institution.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

The lira proceeds of these bonds will be used for additions and improvements to the above-mentioned municipally-owned utilities, and for other municipal productive improvements.

All figures throughout the foregoing originally expressed in lire have been converted into dollars at the rate of 4.75 cents per lira, approximately the present rate of exchange.

Statements above are in no event to be construed as representations by us. Such statements have been received by cable.

We offer these bonds for delivery if, when and as issued and accepted by us, subject to the approval of legal proceedings by counsel: Legal matters relating to the issue in the United States will be passed upon by Messrs. Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam & Roberts, New York, and in Italy by His Excellency, Senator Vittorio Scialoja, Rome, and Messrs. Coudert Brothers, Paris. It is expected that delivery will be made on or about April 26, 1927, in the form of temporary bonds of the city, or interim receipts of Dillon, Read & Co.

A portion of this issue has been withdrawn for offering in Europe by Mendelssohn & Co., Amsterdam, and others.

Price 92 and accrued interest. To yield 7.19%

Dillon, Read & Co. — Bankers Trust Company

Marshall Field, Glore, Ward & Co. — Guaranty Company of New York

DILLON, READ OFFER MILAN BOND ISSUE

Dillon, Read & Co., Bankers Trust Company, Guaranty Company of New York, Marshall Field, Glore, Ward and Co., are offering today $30,000,000 bond issue for the City of Milan, one of the most important commercial and financial centers of Italy. The obligation, which bears a 6½ p. c. coupon and matures April 1, 1952, is priced at 92 and accrued interest to yield 7.19 per cent.

The proceeds of the bond issue will be used for additions and betterments to municipally-owned utilities and for other municipal improvements. The value of municipally-owned property, including the city's electric light and power, water and street railway systems, is estimated to be substantially in excess of the total funded debt which will be approximately $49,150,000 upon the issuance of the bonds. The new obligation will constitute the city's only external debt. The estimated value of all taxable property in the city is over $700,000,000.

The Royal Italian Government, which supervises the administration of the city, has approved the issuance of the bonds. Under the Italian municipal borrowing laws, a governmental commission is empowered, in event of the default in a city's obligation, to take over its budget making powers to reduce expenditures and to increase revenue through additional taxation. Since 1921 ordinary revenues of the City have exceeded ordinary expenditures in each year.

The bonds are redeemable at par as a whole on April 1, 1937, or on any interest date thereafter upon 45 days' notice. A semi-annual sinking fund, beginning January 1, 1928, is calculated to retire the entire issue at or before maturity by purchase if obtainable up to par, or, if not obtainable, to call by lot at par and interest.

ERIE SURPLUS GAINED $4,935,000 LAST YEAR

Erie Railroad's pamphlet report for 1926 has been issued and dis closes a profit and loss surplus at the close of last year of $47,619,946, an increase of $4,935,186 over the preceding year.

Aggregate assets were $566,196,343 against $560,848,367 at the end of 1925. Current assets totalled $33,-850,810 and current liabilities $22,-109,976, compared with $32,137,941 and $24,931,859, respectively, on December 31, 1925.

The income account shows a net income of $10,113,393, after taxes and charges, unchanged from the preliminary report, and equal after 4 per cent dividends on the first and second preferred stocks to $7.71 a share earned on the 1,124,819 common shares. It compares with $6,729,206, or $3.71 a common share, earned in 1925.

SPEED, ACCURACY, INTEREST NEWS THE DAY I

Slattery Has Poles and Irish in Lineup

By JACK CONWAY

"JACK SLATTERY, Boston College baseball coach, tells me that the Irish and the Poles make the best baseball combination," said Mr. Boston as he saluted the gang today. "I was coming in from Jamaica Plain this morning," resumed the veteran, "when I met Slattery, loaded down under a dozen or so bags.

"'Didn't know you sold traveling bags,' I opened.

"'Neither did I,' replied Jack. 'I am on my way South with the Boston College baseball team. We pull out tonight for Dixie.'

"'Why all the bags?' I queried.

"'Have them loaded down with baseballs,' said Jack smilingly. 'You know that gangs of Poles and Irish who play ball for me at B. C. lose more scales than Babe Ruth. They hit the old pill a mile.'

"I knew there were plenty of players with good old Irish names on Jack's Maroon and Gold team, but the crack about the Polish players was a new one on me.

"'We have three Poles on our varsity team,' he went on as he read the look of surprise on my face. 'And then I have another Pole on our freshman team.

"'Big league baseball will have a real Polish star when Weston, my first baseman, makes his bid for the high honors. He's a natural athlete, a star in football as well as in baseball. He was a little bit crude as a fielder at first, but has improved steadily. And how that boy can slam the ball! Give me the hitter every time. You can teach them how to field if they are able to give the old apple a ride.

Mr. Boston

"'I find the Irish and Poles make a good baseball combination. The Celts have the fire and pep, the old drive that pulls close games out of the well known coals. The Poles are steady and determined and are wonders in a tight place.

"'In the old days it was the Irish and Germans who ruled baseball diamonds. The Irish-Polish alliance in the national pastime is also a winner.'

"I ASKED Jack to tell me why the Irish are passing out as players in the big leagues.

"'That's easy,' he went on. 'When I was a kid over in South Boston, we were obliged to hustle to make both ends meet. Most of us were fortunate to get a grammar school education. We played a great deal of baseball in our spare moments and were attracted by the offers we got from minor league clubs. The result was that many of us continued on up to the major leagues.

"'Nowadays most of the Irish-American boys at least get a high school education, while thousands of them graduate from our colleges each year. They realize that the career of a major league ball player at the best is only a short time. So they give their time and energy to something which they can work at on through the years.

"'WHAT is the average age of your nine at Boston College?' I asked.

"'Nineteen to twenty years of age,' Jack answered. 'The boys teach college at a younger age than was formerly the case,' he went on. 'But these kids have been well educated in the national pastime and develop quickly.

"'The best years of a professional ball player's life are from twenty to twenty-five. They may then retain their ability until they are thirty. After that experience is all that enables them to carry on. The old spark is usually gone.'

"I was amazed when Slattery told me that there were only 1,200 students enrolled at Boston College. I kept thinking of the remarkable football, baseball and track teams which have been turned out from that small student body.

"'All we now need is room as thousands of boys are directing their steps toward the Heights of Newton,' went on Slattery in an enthusiastic tone. 'There once was a time when the high schools of Boston, Boston College High were virtually the only places from where we got students.

"'Today we get boys from day high schools and prep schools in all parts of New England. I think our athletic successes, combined with the high scholastic requirements at Boston College, have made a strong appeal to the younger generation.

"'When we have a student body of 5,000 or so young men to pick from, I guess I won't hesitate to challenge some of our major league baseball clubs.'

"'And I don't believe this last remark was made entirely in fun, either.'

Home Run by Ruth Today Means $1000 to Children

New York, April 12.—If Babe Ruth hits a home run in today's opening game against the Philadelphia Athletics at Yankee Stadium, it will be worth a thousand dollars to 40,000 children served by a local health center.

Ruth has promised to autograph the ball if he hits a homer and donate it to the health center to be auctioned off at a huge charity festival to be held soon at Madison Square Garden.

Slattery Leads Eagle Squad South

Boston College's baseball squad vacates the Hub this afternoon for the South. Sixteen players, five infielders, four outfielders and seven batterers, along with Coach Slattery and Manager Carolan, make up the Eagle party.

Al Yeaton, first base, Earl Clinton, second base, Freddy Moncewicz short stop, Hank O'Day, third base, and Ray Brennan, Smithy, compose the infield five. Captain Dinny McNamara, center field, Joe McKenney, left field, and Joe Fitzgerald, right field, are the outfielders. "Smoky" Kelliher will be taken along to fill in the role of reserve gardener.

The pitching staff is composed of Lefty Sisk, Pete Herman, Hugh McNulty, Steve Bridey and Lefty Hogan. Bo McMenimen and Tom O'Brien will split the catching duties in the South

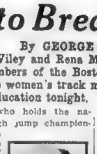
Girl Track Champions Out to Break Records

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

Mildred Wiley and Rena MacDonald, both national champions and members of the Boston Swimming Association, will compete in the women a track meet at the Posse Nisson School

Miss Wiley, who holds the national indoor high jump championship, will try to better the world record of 4 feet 11 inches while Rena MacDonald will try to shatter her own mark for the 8-pound shotput.

There are three open events on the card—the stand ing broad jump, shotput and the 50-yard dash. Members of the Boston Swimming Association, Malden A. C., Posse Nisson School and numerous other athletic clubs, are entered in the three events.



George Grimm

The running high jump is for the New England championship. Mildred Wiley of Wollaston, national indoor and New England outdoor champion, is the favorite. She will be up against stiff opposition in Mac Magill, Midge Phillips and Margret Long of the B. A. A.; Maude Tompkins, Concord High School, and Ruth Kohler and Alice Abell of the Posse Nisson School.

Katherine Mearls of the Boston Swimming Association and world's record holder in the standing broad jump, has given up competition temporarily. She will act as one of the officials at the meet.

The committee has also arranged for competition for novices in the 50-yard dash, 50-pound shotput and running high jump. Another event will be the 50-yard dash for girl athletes of the Posse Nisson School.

Death Counts Out Another Old-Timer

San Francisco, April 12 (I.N.S.).—A fraternal organization made plans today for the funeral of Aurelio Herrera, fifty-one, once great Mexican lightweight, who died in the City and County Hospital here after a two-weeks' illness.

The Mexican's greatest fights were with terrible Terry McGovern in San Francisco and with Battling Nelson in Montana.

Boy "Babe" Saved Will Cheer "Bam" From His Bed

New York, April 12 (A.P.).—One youngster who will not be there when Babe Ruth strides up to the plate in the Yankee Stadium today is John Dale Sylvester, eleven, whom the "Babe" helped through a serious illness last Fall. Johnny is not yet well enough to make the trip from his home in Essex Falls, N. J.

But when game time comes he will be pulling for the big ball player, whom he counts as a friend and intimate. When Johnny, a baseball enthusiast, was taken ill and given only a short time to live, using the last World Series, his father wired the "Babe."

George Herman sent an autographed baseball by airmail, his three home runs dedicated to Johnny, and hurried back East to pay him a visit. The boy recovered.

Friends to Bury Young Corbett

Denver, Colo., April 12 (A.P.).—Friends of William H. Rothwell (Young Corbett) today supervised funeral arrangements for the former featherweight champion, who died here Sunday following a heart attack.

Announcement that Young Corbett, a native of Denver, died penniless brought contributions totaling approximately $400 at a stockyards boxing show here last night which was featured by an exhibition by Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion.

The boxing program was stopped to permit a ceremony honoring the dead pugilist.

STALLINGS IS NEW HEAD OF ROCHESTER

Rochester, N. Y., April 12 (A.P.).—Purchase of the Rochester International League baseball club by a group of Rochester business men headed by George T. Stallings, president-manager, and Walter E. Hapgood, business manager, was announced today.

The names of the other buyers were not made public. Mr. Hapgood declaring it was part of the agreement that their identity should not be disclosed, explaining the men were interested in the venture purely "as a civic and sporting proposition" and that none, with the exception of Mr. Stallings and Mr. Hapgood, were actively interested in professional baseball.

Through the purchase they acquire approximately 17,000 shares of stock in the corporation holding the franchise.

Members of the group were said to number "six or eight." Stallings will continue as president of the corporation and Hapgood as vice-president, and under their direction steps will be taken immediately to complete the new stadium and grounds for the club.

The old grounds will be used until the new are completed. It was said the board of directors will be announced shortly.

The sale placed the "Tribe," which opens the season at Newark tomorrow, in the hands of the fourth owner in three months. The club had been owned about a week by William C. Daley, wealthy real estate operator, who acquired it, with the old Bay street grounds, by purchase from Mrs. Agnes E. Miles 72 year-old widow, recently declared incompetent.

Mrs. Miles had been deeded the club and property by the former owner, Lewis R. Weidrick, who has been indicted for misappropriating securities which were the property of Mrs. Miles, and who is awaiting trial.

B. A. A. WOMEN WIN SQUASH RACQUETS

The B. A. A. women's squash racquet team won the team tournament from the Union B. C. here today on the former's courts at the clubhouse, Exeter street. Miss Mary George W. Wightman, Miss Eleanor Sears and Miss Aurine Boyden won their matches from the Union B. C. players, while Mrs. William F. Howe, Jr., State squash racquets champion, was the only one to take a match from the B. A. A. team in the play today.

The match play between the two clubs yesterday was two and B. A. A. taking three matches today and Union Boat Club won but a single match. The tally of the two days play gives the B. A. A. women a total of 5-to-3 victory over the Union Boat Club.

Summary of matches today:

Mrs. George W. Wightman, B. A. A., defeated Miss Louise Waterman, Union B. C., 12-15, 15-6, 15-11, 15-13.

SUGGS-FULLER BOUT PUT OVER TO APR. 22

The Chick Suggs-Sammy Fuller bout, scheduled to be held at the Arena Monday night, has been postponed until April 22. Tom Goodwin, matchmaker of the Suffolk A. A., announced the change in dates today in order that the show might not conflict with the Argonne A. A. bouts which are scheduled for Monday evening.

Sammy Fuller of the North End and "Chick" Suggs of New Bedford, will be fighting for high stakes when they meet in the feature 10-round bout of the Suffolk A. A. at the Arena, for Dan Carroll, manager of Dick Honeyboy Finnegan, agreed to send his lanky Dorchester featherweight against the winner.

"Finnegan is going to make enough money this Summer to keep him comfortable for the rest of his life," said Carroll. "And he is going to do that by fighting every featherweight who is in a position to challenge him. He is willing to fight Suggs, and he is just as willing to fight Fuller, and Seaver Field will be just the right spot."

The Fuller-Suggs duel has been mentioned prominently in newspapers all through the country as one of the most important featherweight fights of the past year. Fuller, in the past twelve months, has scampered up the trail to the heights, bowling over all opponents with regularity.

One of those opponents was Carl Tremaine of Cleveland. Another was English Johnny Brown, featherweight champion of Europe. A third was "Red" Chapman of Chelsea.

Ban Johnson Misses Opening of League

Chicago, April 12 (A.P.).—Ban Johnson, ailing president of the American League, missed attending every one of the first games today for the first time in years. Instead of viewing the athletes in action, President Johnson remained in his offices, getting his thrills from the baseball ticker.

B. U. RIFLEMEN TO SHOOT IN INTERCOLLEGIATE MEET

Boston University will send six men to New York Friday to compete for the National Intercollegiate Rifle Championship which will be held on Saturday at the Seventy First Armory.

The men that will take the trip for the Terriers are Ambrose, Wrigley, Sweetser, Lapworth, French, Dvorsky, Manager Linblow and Coach Lieutenant Isaacs.

NECKER TO LEAD N. H. U. BOXERS NEXT SEASON

Durham, N. H., April 12.—Edward Necker of West Norwood, N. J., was elected captain of the University of New Hampshire boxing team for 1928. Necker has been a consistent winner in his year of fights in the 175-pound class.

He has two decisions over O'Malley of M. I. T. who reached the semi-finals in the intercollegiate championships held recently.

Kilonis Downs Indian

Spokane, Wash., April 12 (A.P.).—John Kilonis, Boston heavyweight wrestler, won two straight falls from Chief Sengema, Canadian Indian, here last night.

Bouts Tonight

We'll Win Opener and Many More, Says Banny

We're going to win this game, and a whole lot more. This looks like our year. After two tough seasons, the luck is going to turn our way. The Braves had a good Spring, and will be in there from the first pitch. This isn't a bunch. Watch us win that opener.—Manager Bancroft.

Umpires—Owens and Ormsby.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—The Boston Red Sox, favored by two elements, Bill Carrigan and the fact that not an expert in the land has picked them to finish anywhere in particular, will not be without a New England following when they assist the Washington Griffmen in prying off the 1927 lid today before a house of 36,000, which has been sold out for two weeks.

Because foremost among the rooters will be a couple of prominent Down Easters in the persons of President and Mrs. Coolidge. These, at least, will be wishing "Old Bill" Carrigan success in his Better 'Ole; in plainer terms, the Boston dugout. The President, incidentally, will toss out the first ball as the "First Lady" smiles as only she can.

To rooters up Boston way today's inaugural means more than the mere opening of another baseball skirmish, with a league championship as the pot of gold on the rainbow's yonder end. It means the success or failure of "Old Bill's" cherished desire to see the Red Sox one more pennant, just for old time's sake and then retire. Old Bill gave the Red Sox world championships in 1915 and 1916 and then retired after eight worthy years in harness. He yearns to duplicate one of those successes before the years close in upon him and in this crayon he has enlisted the assistance of Heinie Wagner who played on Boston's championship teams at shortstop.

The Red Sox today present to their President and to Washington a very much changed front from the last invasion of last Autumn. Many of the team's personnel are known to big league fans such as Ira Flagstead, Baby Doll Jacobson, Johnny Todin and Ben Harriss. But the team, somehow doesn't resemble so much the old aggregation that Lee Fohl used to lead in and out of town.

The Griffmen, with the exception of Bucky Harris, are starting their regular infield.

Tris Speaker, he of Boston and Cleveland, is playing his first championship game at center in a member of the club he is flanked by Goose Goslin and Sam Rice.

Muddy Ruel, with a bad arm and a good head, will essay most of the catching responsibilities, and for today, old Stanley Coveleskie will try to keep them on at least around the corners of the plate.

N. Y. M. A. to Hold Three-Mile Race

The Norfolk Young Men's Association of Roxbury will hold their second annual three-mile novice race April 19 at 10 o'clock, immediately after the patriotic exercises at the Norfolk House Centre in Elliott square, Roxbury.

This race is considered as part of the official Boston Patriots' Day celebration, also having the sanction of the New England A. A. U. There will be five cups presented to the first five finishers.

Entries for the race can be secured from John J. Gainey, manager of the race, any evening this week from 8 to 10.30 p. m. at the Norfolk House Centre. Entries will close Friday evening, April 15, at 10.30 p. m.

STECHER TOSSES THE GREAT ZBYSZKO

New York, April 12 (I.N.S.).—Another scalp dangled today at the belt of Joe Stecher, claimant to the heavyweight wrestling title. The Nebraskan threw Waldek Zbysko with a backdrop after 45 minutes of wrestling here last night.

Red Sox Face Senators in Capital; Great Enthusiasm All Over Circuit

times. The hopes of the fans recur Perhaps the old days of big teams are coming back. The spring optimism gives the Braves and the Red Sox one more chance. The boys are always ready to convince them selves that April will see a new miracle

Th's promises to be a great season in all baseball, and it may be s large one for Boston. Dave Bancroft's team has shown flashes of greatness. It may get the habit Bill Carrigan, one of the smartest of all baseball men, is back with his old team The two propositions pack more real chance for glory than any one spring has held in th last five years

BRAVES WELL TRAINED.

The Braves trained well, and if th frozen north hasn't wrecked them as it did a season back, they should be a pretty ball club from the start They have a lot of good spring pitch ing, the kind that's valuable while the old timers are waiting for the warm days, and the big hitter haven't really acquainted their eye with great speed.

All the Braves, with exception of George Mogridge, are kids, as baseball players go. There isn't a thirty year old regular on the squad, and a team like that just naturally should be good in the spring.

If the Braves can get off to a good start, they will be a tough club to beat. All they need is confidence They were a weak and ruinous club three-quarters of the last campaign Then they gathered the idea that they should do something. And they wiped up all the pennant contenders in the circuit

Let them win a couple of series under the guns right now, and they may collect the same feeling. If they do, a lot of beans will be mild along the flag trail. Banny's team is much stronger right now than it was last Fall. It has more pitching and more punch, and if those increased assets hold it can be a serious contender

Bobby Brown will be the starting pitcher this afternoon, Bobby opened against the Red Sox, but the Sox in the air got into his fingers and he lost all control. He passed the first five Carrigan batters, and quickly and efficiently inserted that ball game

Bobby has real control, however, under normal conditions. He is ready to go, and the fact that he looked so tough this other afternoon, will have him breaking his shoulder to be good. Bobby's built that way. He matured a couple of months eNorth in the south, and the bit of chagrining northern exercises probably did him a lot of good.

Jess Petty, the conservative and canny southpaw, will be in there for the Braves, and they are very anxious to start with a win, also. With Bancroft threatens to bother the new Brave nine that's packed in Richbourg and Fournier, Bobby will use Dazzy Vance if the strikeout king feels good, but he hasn't been that way much this Spring. The Dazzler is so good that he isn't fussy about hiring his expensive wing while the northern breezes blow.

All the athletes and the fans are praying for good weather. The frivolity of the past four Aftermaths has penetrated dispositions as well as muscles, but a warm day will have the boys leaping around like so many gazelles. A surprisingly large number of watchers turned out for the cold baseball and football in itself, is a sure indication that the season will open successfully, and will be a fur-lined event if sheer or both of the ball clubs do a thing

USUAL CEREMONIES.

The season will be preceded by the customary ceremonies, which are an institution. Governor Fuller will be there to pee out the first ball. His Council will be on hand to help, Mayor Nichols will be a guest of honor, and everybody helps the Governor get warmed up. The Braves have been practicing for a couple of years, and expect this time to get a strike over the plate.

The 101st Band will lend the athletes of both clubs to the flag pole and, after the banner has been tossed to the vigorous winds that fill down the bay channel, the well-known war will be started.

Both the Braves and the Dodgers are supposed to be cloudy figures either as a pennant contender, yet every manager worries about both clubs. The Braves' September fire convinced the pilots that Banny had something. All the boys know that Uncle Wilbert Robinson will produce a pitching staff of real power. The old boy can do better than any of them.

The flag raising and other ceremonies will be run off early so the game can start at 3 o'clock.

ODDS EVEN ON BRUINS TO WIN

Ability of Hub Six to Hold the Senators to a Tie Brings Odds to Even Money

Ottawa, Ont., April 12.—Ten-to-six odds on the Ottawa Senators to defeat the Boston Bruins for the hockey championship of the world have shortened to even money as a result of the visitors holding the natives to a 1-to-1 tie in the third game of the series, here.

Ottawa still leads, having won the second game in Boston Saturday night after the rivals had battled to a scoreless tie in the opener in the Hub two nights previous.

And the Senators are actually nearer the championship than before they entered the third game on the long end of the wagering, now needing but one more victory to clinch the title, while the Bruins must take two straight to finish in front.

Yet, there is considerable justification for the shortening of the odds.

For the Bruins, playing before a rabidly partisan audience and on a rink that they never liked, outplayed the Senators for the greater part of the ninety-minute struggle, and had Lady Luck beamed even once on the visitors the series would now be deadlocked.

OTTAWA FANS CONFIDENT.

After the easy manner in which the natives turned back the Bostonmen in the Hub on Saturday, local fans expected their favorites to win the next two games and end the competition.

They experienced an unpleasant shock as they watched the Americans contenders for the Stanley Cup make the supposedly invincible Senators look like so many novices time after time.

With everything breaking against them, the Bruins looked like the better team in the second game and since the "breaks" usually even up in a series like this, the boys who are inclined to wager wait even money before placing their rolls on the Senators.

The fourth game of the series will be played here tomorrow night. If the Senators win the fight will be over. If the Bruins win the outcome of the series will hinge on the result of the fifth game, which will be staged here Saturday night.

MAY END IN DRAW.

If tomorrow night's battle ends in another tie the Senators will win by taking or tying the fifth game. The best the Bruins can do is to come up on even terms with their opponents by winning.

In the event of the latter happening, the series will be declared a draw according to the ruling of President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League and the players' and clubs' pools will be equally divided.

BROKEN RIB PIERCES WRESTLER'S LUNG; DYING

Shreveport, La., April 12 (A.P.).—Howard Cantowine, heavyweight of Iowa, was in a serious condition today from the results of an injury he sustained last night in a bout with Ed "Strangler" Lewis here.

Physicians said that a broken rib punctured Cantowine's lung when Lewis fell across him. He was unable to continue the match.

Hub basketball fans will turn out in force to greet the New York Celtics at the Boston Arena tonight, when their clash with the Boston Nationals, the only local team that ever forced the champions to extend themselves.

Two years ago, the Nationals forced the Celtics into an overtime period to win by the narrow margin of two points. In the interim, the Nationals have developed a dazzling team play which threatens to overtake the champions in tonight's game.

All the stars of other years will be included in the lineup of the Celtics. Nate Holman will be on hand and there is a possibility that Sammy Heckman will be here to hold his strength in the opposition, while the Boston team is the same which has been cleaning up all comers the past two years.

If tonight's game proves popular, Boston may have a team in the National Basketball League next year with the Arena as the home floor. Interest in the game is rapidly increasing in this section.

Dutch Guenther, the highest salaried basketball star in New England, captain of the Chicago team of the National League, was procured by the Boston Nationals to strengthen the lineup and his appearance is sure to have the desired effect.

The preliminary game will be between the Medford City Club and the West End House, claimants of the Greater Boston title.

All-Star Card at Argonne A. A.

One of the greatest all-star shows of the season will be offered by the Argonne A. A. next Monday night at Mechanics Building, where Eddie Mack, matchmaker of the club, will show the public four 10 rounders.

In the opening 10-rounder, Homer Rolvaag, who is one of the best colored fighters in the country, will meet the best available opponent.

The second 10-rounder will bring together Monte Munn, Lincoln, Neb., one of the new sensations in the heavyweight crop, and Jack Ferguson, better known as the Honolulu Kid.

In the semi-final, Hilarino Martinez, lightweight champion of Spain, who made a big hit here at the last Argonne show, will meet Jimmy Sacco of East Boston.

Lay Gates, the Mohawk Indian, who knocked out Jim Maloney in four rounds, and has decisions over Johnny Risko, and a flock of other good heavyweights, will put Ernie Schaaf to the acid test.

Threat to Block Maloney Bout

New York, April 12 (A.P.)—Threat of legal action to prevent the Jack Sharkey-Jim Maloney heavyweight elimination battle booked by Tex Rickard for May 19 at the Yankee Stadium was made today by Walter Taylor, Cleveland fight promoter.

Taylor arrived with his lawyer, Joseph Mallen.

His threat arises from Maloney's failure to fight Johnny Risko in Cleveland after he had signed a contract with Taylor for the bout.

75 GRIDMEN WORKING OUT AT CORNELL

Ithaca, N. Y., April 12—Seventy-five candidates for the Cornell football team are going through preliminary training under the direction of Gil Dobie, the head coach.

The veterans are Captain Howard Hokeiman, quarterback, and Wickham and Shonles, ends. Beck, Anderson and Balderson, the other veterans of last Fall's eleven, are engaged in other sports and will not report for Spring football practice.

Practice will extend over a period of five weeks.

RUN YON Says—

GRADUALLY it is dawning on the pugilistic proletariat that there is something in the continued preachment in this column that the principals in the next heavyweight championship bout will be none other than those old companeros, Mr. Gene Tunney and Mr. Jack Dempsey.

I think I know what I am talking about when I say that Mr. Dempsey is bound to George Tex Rickard, the fistic anti-reformer, by ties that no other promoters can sunder. They are the ties of great confidence in George Tex. And I also think I know what I am talking about when I again say that Mr. Dempsey will meet Mr Tunney, or no one.

I can think of but one thing that may alter the situation. That is the swift and sudden bowling over of one or the other of the Boxtonese, Messrs. Maloney and Sharkey, who meet in a New York ring in May.

If Maloney should bowl Sharkey, or Sharkey should bowl Maloney, the victor might be deemed of sufficient potency as a drawing card for George Tex to warrant matching him with Mr. Dempsey, or perhaps immediately with Mr. Tunney for September consumption.

But if Maloney and Sharkey should pull and haul for fifteen rounds next month, it is a sure thing that neither will get the match with Mr. Dempsey or Mr. Tunney.

I STILL think that George Tex Rickard is hoping that the Boston boys will push each other out of the way so he can go ahead with Mr. Tunney and Mr. Dempsey.

George Tex was once a gambler, but as the years above on he is losing his inclination to gamble. He knows that a match between Mr. Tunney and any other contender than Mr. Dempsey is more or less of a gamble in the matter of gate receipts, whereas Mr. Dempsey is a sure thing. And all gamblers like those sure things.

Tex at One Time Was Prone to Gamble

Mr. Tunney and Mr. Dempsey would draw upwards of $1,000,000. Any other opponent for Mr. Tunney might not draw $1,000,000, a sum so paltry that it gives George Tex the shivers. That is unless some other opponent develops a flair for the sensational in performance beyond anything that has been shown around here lately.

You must have a reputed hitter against Mr. Tunney to draw. The ringworms know Mr. Tunney is no hitter, and against another non-hitter would produce a weary spectacle, though Mr. Tunney might win. And going to Philadelphia or to New Jersey in a limited round heat, George Tex Rickard must have a reputed hitter—some beeswax alleged to have a chance to knock out Mr. Tunney.

THERE is no doubt the bout goes to Philadelphia or New Jersey—probably Philadelphia, as I have said before, unless the boys over yonder suddenly commence to develop yearnings of a nature calculated to depress and discourage a promoter. It will certainly not be held in New York, and I gather from the comment of some of the sports writers that they are glad of it.

This comment is a slight reflection of the antagonism in New York that is sending George Tex elsewhere with the bout. Philadelphia wants it and so does New Jersey, according to the last reports of my operatives in the Skeeter State. It would be necessary for George Tex to build a new arena in Jersey, whereas he has one made to order in Philadelphia.

Good Ring Ready for Bout at Philly

If you ask me, I think the ideal spot for the next heavyweight struggle would be Chicago, and the arena that marvelous stadium on the lake front.

Mayor to Present Ruth With Hearst Popularity Cup

Babe Ruth will get new evidence of his popularity when the Yankees open the season against the Athletics at the Stadium today.

For Mayor James J. Walker will be on hand at the game to present to the Bambino the William Randolph Hearst popularity trophy, won by the Babe last year during the fan contest conducted by the Hearst papers throughout the country.

Helen Wills and Gertrude Ederle, the other two winners already have been presented large silver trophies. The cup which will be presented to the Babe is a huge silver affair.

BLACKHAWKS WIN FROM MAROONS, 5 TO 4

Los Angeles, April 12 (A.P.)—The Chicago Blackhawks, major league hockey team, raced off with a five to four victory over the Los Angeles Maroons in the first of a five game East-West series here last night.

AMERICAN ASS'N OPENS UP TODAY

Chicago, April 12 (A.P.)—Louisville eyed its fourth straight pennant, and five other teams loomed as strong contenders as the twenty-sixth season of the American Association opened in the eastern half of the circuit today.

All but Minneapolis and Columbus were considered capable of copping the banner this year, and Manager Kelly of Minneapolis may have a few tricks up his sleeve.

The park is sold out at Toledo; an extensive program awaited the signal at Indianapolis; Louisville has a third championship flag to add to the staff, and Columbus opens "under new management."

Bruno Betzel of Louisville took the place of Donie Bush at the helm for Indianapolis, the annual second money winners, and Betzel said he believed his club would be a pennant contender from the start.

Nick Allen, leader of St. Paul, said the flag winner would have the Saints to contend with from the opening game. Burwell and Snyder were the probable choice for Indianapolis today, with Zahniser and Gaston for St. Paul.

A crowd of 10,000 was anticipated for the Milwaukee opener at Toledo, the seats having been sold out for days.

MEDFORD FACES WINCHESTER TOMORROW

Danny Connors, once again in good scholastic standing, starts on the hill for Medford High against Winchester High at Winchester tomorrow.

Coach Roberts of Medford is anxious to win, not only because he wants to see his charges get away to a flying start, but also because last season he coached at Winchester. Roberts' ambition is to take his Medford nine to Winchester and defeat his former team.

The other half of the Medford battery will be Herb Wells. This player was used in the outfield last year, but as Medford needed a catcher he stepped in and took the job. He has looked promising in practice and is expected to come through in fine style tomorrow.

Bob Elliott at first base and Sonny McCune at second base are the other veterans on the Medford squad.

Another game scheduled for tomorrow finds Waltham and Revere battling at Revere. Tracey Sanborn is due to hurl for Waltham.

Other veteran players on the Waltham squad are Don Ward, first base; Joe Donohue, shortstop; Dave Nolan, second base; Tony Sisco, left field, and George Connally, centerfield.

The work of Chester Kezar, Revere shortstop, is likely to be one of the bright spots of the afternoon. John Temple, star Cambridge Latin pitcher, will start against St. Mark's at Southboro tomorrow. Jack Cote, brother of Warren Cote, now with Toledo, will be at shortstop for Cambridge Latin.

Newton High opens its season with Needham at Newton tomorrow afternoon. Captain Johnny Proctor, shortstop, is leading this year's Newton. While there are few veterans available the prospects for a successful season at Newton are considered at least fair.

Sam McCleary is due to start for Newton with Frank Spain doing the catching. Needham has a veteran mate and figures to win tomorrow's opener at Newton.

Another game on the program tomorrow brings Arlington at home to Wilmington at Reading. Coach Joe Aldrich of Reading plans to use three pitchers in the game. Marsh, Marshepsie and Gaw are the hurlers who will work for Reading.

DOBIE WINS "CATALINA" SWIM FOR BOYS AT "Y"

John Dobie is the winner of the boys' division of the Catalina swim held in the big tank at the Huntington avenue branch of the Y. M. C. A. He will be awarded a big silver cup for the long weary grind of 44 miles, and the prize is the most notable that he has yet annexed. When he started there were several close contestants among the boys, but Dobie gradually left the field and proved an easy winner.

QUESTION: (a) What is a "Spring Turn Style"? and (b) Why?

ANSWER: (a) A Spring Turn Style, sometimes spelled "Turnstile", is a revolving platform in Truly Warner's Window, which causes a Style Revolution every Turn it makes.

(b) It's a new Style-Merry-Go-Round that makes it possible for us to show you 20 new Styles in the space we formerly showed two.

QUESTION: What are the most popular new shapes and colors for Spring?

ANSWER: The snap-down brim raw edge, the flat-set welt edge and the roll curl silk bound, silk lined Fedora will be the most popular styles in the order named.

New tones of tan, from a Russet Brown to a Chamois and Champagne, and different shades of grey from a Steel to Silver will be the most prominent in the Easter parade.

QUESTION: Will fancy bands be worn with felt hats?

ANSWER: Color combinations will be more subdued. Solid colors in harmonizing and contrasting tones will be more popular. Plain black bands will be worn with the more conservative shapes.

ENTRIES CLOSE FOR MARATHON

Manager Kanaly Expects List of Starters In Annual April 19 Grind to Total 150

By STED CHANDLER

Four additional signed entry blanks drifting into the B. A. A. office in the last mail, brought the total of prospective contestants in the Unicorn marathon April 19 to 109, with today the last chance to enter.

J. Forrest Carleton of the Clark Hadden Post 188, American Legion, of East Sandwich, heads the list. Carleton has competed in several past marathons and last year showed enough stuff to finish ninth.

Sted Chandler

Thomas J. Walsh of Charlestown, Sidney McLellan of Windsor, Nova Scotia, and Elmer W. Ferson of Needham were the other three.

It is expected that a swarm of blanks will descend on the Unicorn office in a usual last minute rush, and Manager Kanaly has hopes that the final total will be well along toward 150.

The interest engendered by this thirtieth American Marathon is due to the fact that for the second time in the three decades of its history the B. A. A. classic has been designated as the National A. A. U. championship marathon, thus bringing to the victor dual honors. The previous occasion upon which this honor fell to the B. A. A. run was in 1925, when Chuck Mellor carried off the title.

Johnny Miles, who defends the B. A. A. title, therefore cannot defend the A. A. U. title as that belongs to Clarence De Mar who swept to a memorable victory in the Laurel to Baltimore Marathon last year, which race carried with it the A. A. U. crown.

Both De Mar and Miles will battle, however, for the Patriots' Day championship, and this duel is regarded as the class of the field in spite of the fact that three other former winners are entered and another is expected to swing into line before the curtain drops on the entry blanks.

Frank Zuna, victor in 1921, Edouard Fabra, who was first back in 1915, and Bill Kennedy, who won in 1917, have signified that they will be in the pack. Chuck Mellor, 1925 leader, is expected to forward his entry at the last moment.

The race draws added interest from the fact that membership on the 1928 U. S. Olympic Marathon team will largely be effected by the performances turned in a week from today. Especially is this true in the case of Zuna, whose record lately has not been such as to make his position any too secure.

ZUNA MUST HUSTLE.

Critics are pretty well agreed that Zuna must place in the first six in order to be considered for the next Olympic team.

If Johnny Miles is in as good condition as he claims to be his board of coming back to Boston not only to repeat his 1926 triumph but to shatter his own record may come true. De Mar should be his chief rival, and the Melrose man will prove a real menace for he is always in the prime of condition and always carries with him that fighting heart which so many runners have found impossible to beat.

But one of the main characteristics of a marathon is the chance which everyone stands to win. Last year no one gave Miles an outside chance to crash through. This year some other unknown is just as likely to spring from oblivion to the double role of B. A. A. and National A. A. U. Marathon champion.

Inside Golf

By CHESTER HORTON

Reducing the golf swing to its simplest terms: The back swing is the first essential. Keep the body free from tension and anxiety as you start the club head back. No stiffening — no jerkiness. Let the clubhead literally flow back and keep it low to the ground. Let the body position remain as in the stance. Keep the left arm in fairly close to the body—that is, no reaching out from the body—with this arm. The left arm should cross over almost touching your body. The left arm dominates this initial backswing action. When the club is going to pull against the body, you reach outward and upward with the club—but mostly outward. This draws the left shoulder around. If you go directly upward with the club, instead of reaching out with it, the swing will be too narrow in its arc. If you can place yourself before a mirror you can very readily see the lack of shoulder action when the club is taken directly up instead of out.

Big Baseball Day | Kelly Will Help
Interest Everywhere | Bruins Spill Dope
The New Managers | Have Title Chance

BASEBALL HAS BIGGEST OPENING DAY

THIS day contains the greatest chances of thrill that any baseball opening has offered since the boys with the vandykes used to play three ol' cat. There are more things to get excited about than any one program has ever furnished at the start.

Nick Flatley

To begin with, New York has baseball's two greatest plutocrats firing the first guns in a slugging war for popularity. Babe Ruth, with his $70,000 is competing with Rogers Hornsby, stock manipulator, who is chuckling over a slight cleanup of $145,000 in a flyer on Cardinal preferred.

The Babe, always a slow starter, nudged the onion for .360 on the Southern prairies, so he seems to be in for a great year. Hornsby, deposed as a manager, is on the way to get back with the batting kings. That's the New York side of the afternoon.

Here in Boston, Dave Bancroft is leading out a team that comes up to his demands and specifications. In Washington, Bill Carrigan is debuting again in the big show, after a voluntary ten-year retirement. Boston is all steamed up about it.

Connie Mack, in Philadelphia, is trotting out one of the world's most valuable collections of ancient ivory. Connie has attached Ty Cobb, Zach Wheat and Eddie Collins to a great young ball club, and if any one of the three has a real year, it will be a tough job to keep the tall strategist out of the king row.

There are more new managers than baseball ever had in a single season, and the boys here and there have been speculating their heads off about what Donie Bush would do in Pittsburgh. They have been wondering how George Moriarity would fare with the makings of a great Tiger club and commiserating Dan Howley for taking over the wreck of what was the St. Louis Browns. The boys have been puzzled trying to get the dope on Jack McAllister, successor to Tris Speaker in Cleveland.

They want to know if Bob O'Farrell can hold the Cards up on the platform built by Rogers Hornsby, and they're willing to bet even money that Stuffy McInnis can't keep the economy ridden Phils in the league.

All this, and more, will be up for solution this afternoon. There isn't a city in either league that hasn't some large new angle to keep baseball interest sizzling. With any kind of a fair break, there will be two great races, and plenty of money in the big circuits this year.

EXPERTS are not giving the Cincinnati Reds much chance this year. Proves they are experts, probably. If George Kelly isn't forty seven and three-tenths of any good ball club, the czar is still reigning in Russia.

BRUINS MAY WRECK INTERNATIONAL AMITY

THE Boston Bruins are likely to cause real war between this country and Canada. The boys who play hockey for the Arena are wrecking the traditions of the ice game, and feeling over the matter is very keen. A squad of wild Boston rooters invaded the Provinces to cheer for the Boston club and, being rabid partisans, the country may have to send up the Marines to rescue them.

The Bruins were supposed to be what the boys call a pushover for the Senators. They were going to be licked in three straight games. But they're staggered through two bitter tie contests, and are just as likely as not to wear out the enemy and clutchroll away with the next two games.

As a club, the Bruins are built for endurance. They have only been beaten once in three skirmishes, and they took that licking by tossing discretion to the winds in the second game here. They evidently reverted to hard-boiled hockey last night.

If they do get beaten eventually, they will have the satisfaction of knowing that their cause was fought bravely, and that this little village is proud of them and feels personal interest, even though all the boys come from up beyond the border.

ATHENS A. A. READY TO TAKE ON ALL COMERS

The Athena A. A., [illegible] champions of South Boston for the past two years, desire games with any 13-15 year old teams in the State. The three A's, as they are known, were unscored on in five games last year. Write to Edward Lynch, 220 West Fourth st. Guarantees required from teams away from home.

KAPLAN SHOES HORSES TO KEEP FIT

Abe Kaplan is taking a new method of training for his finish wrestling match with Ed Strangler Lewis at the Boston Arena on next Tuesday evening.

Abe, although it isn't generally known, was formerly a blacksmith and horse shoer. He is reserved for one hour each morning helping shoe race horses at Combination Park. Abe likes the work and says that the exercise that the horses give him when it tries to pull away is just what he needs. It is a strong form of wrestling and just what he needs to get him in trim for Lewis. Abe has no fear of the Lewis wrestlock.

Pat Meilli, Irish champion is getting ready at Wakefield for his finish match with Panther Joe Malewicka. This will be one of the toughest bouts of Pat's life and as the boys are both trying for local honors a real battle can be looked for.

As far as weight and build are concerned, there is little to choose between the two boys. Both are tall and rangy. Both know wrestling from the ground up. Pat is as strong as they make them and a mixer at all times. He loves a real combat.

Malewicka is just as game as Pat but not so much of a mixer. He takes his time and never gets any one shaken him out of his set pace. He is a fast thinker and at all times a dangerous mat man. Just when you think he is through for the night, is the time Panther Joe is really dangerous. He trains his opponents in this way and has pulled many a series out of the fire just when he was behind for defeat.

Two other bouts will precede the double star wind up.

School Notes

Arthur Sondheim is the pitching selection of Coach John O'Connor of Brookline High in the afternoon's game with Brighton at the Cypress Street Playgrounds. Capt. Francis Hines is the other member of the battery.

The Brookline outfield is composed of Jim Lynch, Roger Gleason and Bert Gleason, all veterans. Incidently the team will be playing its first game under the direction of Coach O'Connor, who succeeded Tom Hines. Hines is now athletic director at Brookline.

Capt. George Taylor, Teddy Bowen, Tom Falls, Rooney Lydon and Shea are the veteran members of the Brighton team.

Brookline and Malden get together Thursday at the Cypress Street Grounds. Bob Smith is likely to be the starting pitcher for Mahder, while Homer Tracey is hurler against Trade School Saturday at the Pearl Street Stadium, Malden.

There will be plenty of action tomorrow. Newton is entertaining Needham while Waltham and Revere clash at Revere. Cambridge Latin journeys to Southboro to play St. Mark's and Manchester visits Swampscott.

In the private school ranks Belmont Hill mingles with Middlesex School at Concord tomorrow while Huntington and Milton Academy clash at Milton.

English High is making an effort to have its game with Milton High moved back to Saturday or ahead to Tuesday. The English players do not want to get into action on Good Friday.

John Dixon, the star Norwood High pitcher, is due to hurl against Hyde at Exeter Saturday. If Dixon is right Exeter will have its troubles. Ray Coombes a relative of the former big league pitcher will start on the hill for Exeter.

Rindge starts Saturday with Walpole. Wakefield plays at Haverhill and Melrose visits Somerville.

'TWI' LEAGUE COMMITTEES NAMED

Schedule, membership and banquet committees were chosen at the regular weekly meeting of the Boston Twilight League held in Eagles Hall, Malden.

Vice President Daniel P. Leahy presided in the absence of President J. Warren Mooney and named the committees.

President Mooney, Vice-President Leahy, Charles Beresford and Joe Kendrick will complete plans for the banquet.

Joe Norton, Jim Flanagan and Bill Patterson were appointed to the membership committee.

Vice-President Leahy, John McGinn and James Lynch will draw up the 1927 schedule.

Umpires for the coming season will be chosen May 2. An official wishing to join the "Twi" staff should send in his application to President Mooney at the Quincy House immediately.

It was also voted that each club must deposit its guarantee not later than May 9.

The membership committee will soon confer with the management of the Norwell club regarding the admission of the club to the "Twi" circuit.

It is the plan of the league officials to have two clubs on the South Shore, Quincy and Norwell; two in Boston, South Boston and Dorchester, two on the North Shore, Lynn and Salem, and two in Suburban Boston, Somerville and Everett.

You can have your private yacht

GIVE me a pipe and Prince Albert, and you can have your cabin-cruiser and your winter vacation. I won't envy you for a minute. In fact, I wouldn't trade places with anybody. I could even be happy on a desert island with a pipe and plenty of P. A.

You'll understand my enthusiasm for this prince of smokes the minute you open the tidy red tin and get a whiff of real tobacco. But that's only a starter. The taste more than lives up to the promise of the aroma. Tuck a load in your jimmy-pipe, light up, and see.

Cool, as a breeze from the forward deck is cool. Sweet, with a sweetness that doesn't tire. Mild as milk, yet with plenty of body to let you know you're smoking. P. A. is neither too heavy nor too light, which makes it the middleweight champ, so far as I'm concerned.

Telling you about Prince Albert is one thing. Trying it in your pipe is another. You'll never know exactly what it is that holds millions of happy jimmy-pipers to this one brand until you make the personal test. When you do, you'll say I did you a favor in tipping you off.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Menus to Help Women Who Are in Business

By MARTHA LEE

THERE are many "two job wives" among my readers—business women who are efficient homemakers to boot. Time being almost as precious as money to them, meals that are quickly prepared are their especial problem.

So today I have them particularly in mind with these six menus, which, if the vegetable peeling, lettuce washing and other preliminaries are taken care of the night before, can be prepared and served in 60 minutes.

Casserole of Ham with Mushroom and Potatoes
Asparagus and Lettuce Salad
Cup Cakes Canned Fruit

Pan-Broiled Mutton Chops with Pineapple Rings
Mashed Potatoes
Buttered String Beans
Cabbage Salad
Chocolate Eclairs Coffee

Scalloped Oysters with Cheese
Spaghetti in Tomato Sauce
Lettuce with Thousand Island Dressing
Canned Fruit Cookies

Ham and Eggs with Creole Sauce
Boiled Potatoes Spinach
Celery Tart Jelly
Pineapple Toast with Whipped Cream
Coffee

Cream of Tomato Soup
Stuffed Halibut Slices
Buttered Asparagus on Toast
Prune and Cottage Cheese Salad
Pineapple Shortcake

Hamburg Cutlets Creamed Potatoes
Buttered Peas and left-over Carrots
Apple Salad Boiled Dressing
Tapioca Pudding Cream
Coffee

Casserole of Ham, Potatoes and Mushrooms—Rub 1½ pieces of uncooked ham with prepared mustard and salt. Lay in bottom of casserole dish. Peel and rice about six potatoes and lay on top of the ham. Then peel ¾ of a pound of mushrooms and lay on top of potatoes. Cover with milk and bake 1 smoderate over for 30 minutes.

Three-Egg Cake—½ cup butter, 2 cups sugar, 3 eggs, 3 cups flour, 3 tsps. baking powder, 1 cup milk, 1 tsp. vanilla. Cream butter and sugar, add beaten egg yolks, beat thoroughly. Add flour with baking powder, sift together alternately with milk. Bake in three floured and greased layer cake pans for 20 minutes in 375 degree oven. For cup cakes bake in greased muffin tins.

Pan-Broiled Mutton Chops with Pineapple Rings—Put chops in pan on top of stove and broil. When done take out and dip slices o pineapple in flour and brown in same pan. Serve chops on platter with pineapple rings surrounding.

Scalloped Oysters with Cheese—1 pint oysters, 4 tbsps. oyster liquic 2 tbsps. milk or cream, ½ cup stale bread crumbs, 1 cup cracker crumbs, ¼ cup melted butter, salt, pepper 2 cups grated cheese.

Mix bread and cracker crumbs and stir in butter. Put a thin layer in bottom of a buttered shallow baking dish, cover with oysters and sprinkle with grated cheese and pepper; all one-half each oyster liquor and cream. Repeat and cover top with remaining crumbs. Bake 30 minutes in hot oven. Never allow more than two layers of oysters for scalloped oysters; if three layers are used, the middle layer will be underdone, while others are properly cooked.

Thousand Island Dressing—½ cup mayonnaise dressing, ¼ cup chi sauce, 1 tbsp. celery, cut in sma pieces, 1 tbsp. chopped pimento, 1 tbsp. chopped green peppers. Mix ingredients and chill. Just before serving add ¼ cup stiffly beate cream.

Creole Sauce—¼ cup chopped onion, ¼ cup chopped green pepper, 3 tbsps cooking oil, 1¼ cups canned tomato, 2 tbsps. chopped pimento, 1 tbsp. sugar, ½ tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. white pepper.

Cook onion and green pepper in the oil for five minutes. Add tomato, pimento, sugar and seasonings. Cook slowly until thick.

Pineapple Toast with Whipped Cream—Cut stale bread one-fourth inch thick, place in toaster or pan, under boiler. When brown on one side, turn and brown on the other. Brown slightly. Butter while hot, sprinkle with grated pineapple and serve with whipped cream.

Stuffed Halibut Slices. Have two halibut steaks cut about an inch thick and below the opening in the body of the fish. Mix two cups of fine bread crumbs (taken from the centre of a loaf of stale bread by twisting a fork in it) with two teaspoonfuls each of thyme, marjoram and chopped parsley, one tsp. of salt, ¼ tsp. of pepper, one-third cup of melted butter and ⅓ cup of hot water.

Brush a shallow pan generously with butter, lay in one of the slices of fish and spread it quite thickly with dressing. Lay the other slice over the dressing and dredge lightly with salt and pepper.

Lay very thin slivers of fat salt pork criss-cross over the top to make a lattice pattern and bake in a moderate oven until the fish separates easily from the bone. Serve with drawn butter sauce.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

CELERY IN THE MENU.

Few vegetables can be utilized in such a variety of ways, either raw or cooked, as celery. The scrubbed and peeled root and outer sticks flavor stocks or stews. The large green leaves, if dried in a cool oven may be kept in a bottle for flavoring purposes when celery is out of season.

"You Said It, Marceline!" -:- On "Wounded Men" -:- By Marceline d'Alroy

SOME MEN love lightly in self-Defense. At least, THAT is what they CALL it. Some men who love LIGHT-HEARTEDLY. Though, are merely LIGHT-HEADED.

There are, of course, STRONG, silent MEN who have been DEEPLY WOUNDED once, And that once was once too OFTEN For their GREAT and glorious EGO.

This makes TWO TYPES of men— Those who NURSE their own WOUNDS in Private and those who seek SOLACE for IMAGINARY wounds in public.

Most WOMEN, of course, PREFER the SECOND. To BIND up a CUT FINGER with tender phrases Is EASIER than to INSPIRE such faith by Living that it HEALS another's WOUNDS.

Getting the Consumptive Patient Back to Work Again

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.

IF you or a member of your family is a convalescent from consumption, as in these days a majority do convalesce, a very practical problem is the safe return to their previous occupation or a new occupation better suited to present physical requirements.

In Boston, the Tuberculosis Association has a placement committee whose business it is to do precisely this thing for the convalescent or post-tubercular patient.

Getting the consumptive back to work sounds simple, but I am assured us it is actually very difficult. The tuberculosis patient suffers from special disabilities unknown to those handicapped in other ways. The man who has lost a limb or been crippled by arthritis has definite visible handicaps of which he must be constantly aware and which, if he has sense, he must take into account in all his actions.

The consumptive, however, may look and feel well and have very little in the way of coughing or raising to remind him of his disease. He cannot see or feel the weakness in his lungs and may refuse to admit his handicap or even be actually unaware of it. The other reason is that the public has a very real, if a somewhat unreasonable dread of tuberculosis.

Nevertheless, society must face this problem fearlessly, if its anti-tuberculosis work is to be of full use. Enormous sums are spent in maintaining sanatoria, clinics, and if these are to prove good investments some attempt must be made along uniform lines to supplement the purely curative treatments given by the hospital, so that the patient can be made a useful and self-supporting citizen. A certain proportion of consumptives must die and a certain proportion must be chronic invalids, but a large percentage can, after they have spent their six months or a year under proper treatment, become useful citizens again. If they are given a chance.

This can be done in various ways. The pioneers in the work should be the medical profession. They should see that patients whom they send to sanatoria come back for examination and advice about future employment.

SHANTUNG is a fabric that is very much a la mode just now and Paquin, who dresses some of the smartest women of Paris and New York, has designed this little frock of navy blue shantung.

Its corsage defines the normal waistline by a narrow belt out in front and tied in a bow on the left side, while the back has a slight bolero movement. The yoke is of pale blue shantung, with the pointed effect of the belt repeated in front, while the narrow collar is tied in a similar bow on the left shoulder.

The long plain sleeves are finished with an original treatment that shows a narrow facing of the pale blue. The silver fox necklet is the accepted finish to either dress or coat.

He spells it with an F

"Bond Bread is 'Fond Bread' to my children," writes Mrs. Fred C. L. Allen of Beverly.

"I never have to coax them to eat bread now, because the flavor appeals to them. Bond is a fairy with the power to tickle appetites so fickle."

Teddy, the 4-year-old of the family, appears above.

Just 8 years ago, 6405 Boston housewives brought samples of their home-baked bread to Tremont Temple to show us the kind of bread they wanted for themselves and their children. Being frankly copied from the best of these 6405 loaves, Bond Bread quickly became Boston's most popular bread.

Why is it that after 8 years of unparalleled popularity, Bond Bread now enjoys an even greater demand than ever before in its history?

Because day after day for 8 long years, Bond Bread has been uniformly home-like. Its splendid flavor comes from its pure ingredients—ingredients every bit as pure and choice as you yourself would use. Its healthfulness comes largely from its thorough baking. This thorough baking is what makes it so firm and close-textured, as well as so flavorful.

Every day more and more housewives realize it pays to discriminate in bread. They have tried them all and have convinced themselves that a home-like, healthful bread, like Bond, is the greatest bargain a woman can buy.

Such Flavor

as this comes only in real Quaker Oats

THE price you pay for substitutes is the same as for the genuine Quaker Oats. The difference is in the flavor. And flavor, above all things, is important in oats.

That rich and toasty Quaker flavor is the result of some 50 years' milling experience. Once you taste it, you are spoiled for ordinary oats.

That is why millions demand the Quaker brand—why you should accept no other.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, and vitamins and "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently "balanced" food.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

Setting the Brakes Too Tight

By WINIFRED BLACK

SHE went downtown the other day and bought a bolt of blue velvet and a bolt of rose-colored satin and a bolt of white silk.

Then she bought pearl trimming for one dress and jet for another. She bought a dozen veils and six pairs of eighteen-dollar shoes and two forty-dollar hats.

She went out and bought a roadster and a touring car. She ordered them all to be brought to her address, and when the things arrived there she was sitting in her room, singing softly to herself. She didn't remember that she had ordered any one of these things.

A handsome woman, she is, too, and young—in the early thirties, lots of friends many admirers, good health, money enough to live modestly on, as long as she was able to work and earn it—and all at once—she's through.

Without any apparent reason, with no cause that anybody can even guess, the specialist came and made an examination and they have taken her to the insane asylum. In this particular case she will probably grow worse and worse until she sinks into some kind of strange stupor and goes out of life altogether.

What a narrow path we tread between sanity and insanity—every one of us!

There's the woman who talks too much—day and night she talks, chat, chat, chat about nothing, faster and faster she talks—until you wonder how she can form the words on her tongue.

No, she isn't insane—yet.

But she has just lost control of the brakes—just a little.

If she doesn't get control of them again some day they'll get away from her entirely and away she'll go.

There's the man who will not speak at all.

Silently he sits at the table. If you speak to him he starts, sees, nods—and passes on.

His brakes are set too tight—that's what's the matter with him. He doesn't let go, some day—he'll break all to pieces and then will be gone.

Silently he walks the street.

A Rare Dish! Baked Omelet Souffle

Try It!

MOST women think an Omelet Souffle is difficult to prepare. This recipe proves it is not. And it also proves how generally useful Mazola is for all cooking—three uses from a single can—a perfect fat for frying—a shortening equal to butter in richness—a salad oil of the highest quality.

Once you try Mazola you will never go back to the old-fashioned methods of cooking.

This recipe is from Ida Bailey Allen's New Book "The Modern Method of Preparing Delightful Foods"—see coupon below.

BAKED OMELET SOUFFLE

4 eggs
3 tablespoons hot water
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ tablespoon Argo or Kingsford's Cornstarch
1 tablespoon Mazola

HEAT the Mazola in a quart-sized baking dish, rubbing the sides with the hot oil. Separate the eggs, beat the whites stiff and the yolks till creamy. Add the cornstarch, water and seasonings, fold in the whites, transfer to the heated baking dish and bake twelve to fifteen minutes in a hot oven, 375 degrees F.

The HOLLYWOOD GIRL

Author of The LOVE WRECKER

Adventures of a Girl From New England in the Movie Colony

CHAPTER XLIII.

"Would you mind stopping at Monica's for a jiffy on the way up to your house?" Bobbie asked as Gus sprang ahead of her into the dark green car.

Like a flash of lightning, it had come to her that she must go straight to Monica with the story of the stolen brooch. Not to bluntly accuse her of taking it, but to ask her if she knew anything about it.

"No, you needn't come up with me. I won't be a second," she said to Gus as he stopped before the imposing apartment building with its shining glass doors and trimly clipped bay trees.

"Gus must have come over this road dozens of times," she thought as she went up the thickly-carpeted stairs to Monica's flat.

"What's under your hat?" Monica asked, which was her way of asking Bobbie what was on her mind.

Bobbie drew a long breath. She was not lion-hearted by nature, and she knew that Monica would be a pretty tough customer in a real battle.

She spoke gently, and not as firmly as one would have liked to.

"Monica," she began. "You remember those diamonds that my Lad sent me?"

Monica shook her head. "No," she said calmly, and Bobbie gasped. Why, how could Monica pretend that she hadn't seen the diamonds? She had even advised Bobbie to sell them, and had called them a "dirty diamonds!"

"Why, sure you remember them!" Bobbie told her with a flash of her big eyes. She wasn't going to let Monica put a thing like that over on her! "Don't you remember the night I asked you for the $20 you owed me for our room rent, and you told me to sell a 'dirty d.a.mond' if I needed money?"

Monica shook her vivid head again, and spat into the fire with the sure aim of a country-store loafer.

"I never owed you $20. Don't be a silly," said she. But her blue eyes did not meet Bobbie's brown ones.

Bobbie shrugged her shoulders.

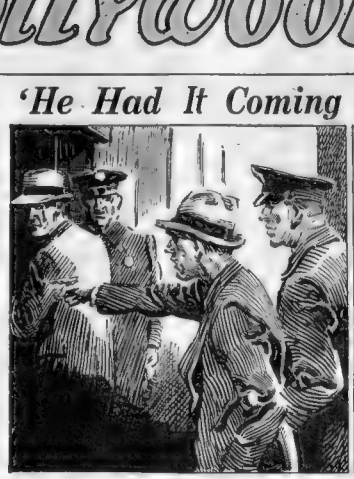
"Why, Monica, how can you SAY such a thing!" she cried in disgust and fury. "You know you owe me $20, just as well as I know it!" Her cheeks were scarlet, and her voice shook.

"Aw, that's a lot of string beans. You know I don't owe you a nickel." Monica's voice was suddenly coarse and common. A back-alley voice. A gutter voice. "You just think because I've made a little money you can come 'round here and badger it out of me! You low down little sneak!"

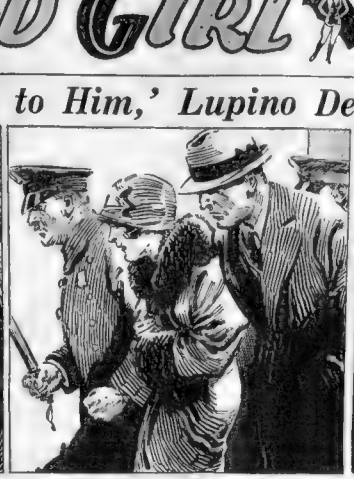
Her eyes were on Bobbie's face now, fixed on a point just above Bobbie's eyebrows, it seemed as if Monica was trying to meet her eyes squarely, and just couldn't do it!

"Me, a sneak!" Bobbie repeated her word faintly. "Why, how can you call me that, Monica Mont? When I've been so good to you as I've been, and let you get away with all my silk socks and my perfume, and even my good evening slippers without saying a word! It's you who've been a sneak, if anybody has!"

'He Had It Coming to Him,' Lupino Declared to Jacqueline



The little man pointed to Lupino.



"Don't say a word," he whispered.

Lupino touched Jacqueline's arm.

Monica's Look Was Neither Open Nor Honest

Monica finally managed to look her straight in the eye. But it was not an open and honest look.

"Well, if you're such straight goods, why didn't you come right out and say what was in your mind a minute ago, when you came in?" she asked acidly. "Why didn't you accuse me of stealing your rotten little pin and be done with it, instead of hedging around?"

Bobbie laughed suddenly.

"Monica, you just gave yourself away!" she cried. "If you never saw my diamonds, how did you know they were set in a pin? A rotten little pin' is what you said just now!"

Monica gave a little gasp.

"Oh, no, I didn't say anything of the kind! Don't try to trap me!" she denied the whole thing flatly. "I never mentioned the word 'pin.'"

Bobbie looked at her with disgust.

"Well," she said, with a little gasp. "I've always heard that you can lock up from a thief, but you can't lock up from a liar! However, you seem to be both, Monica. So naturally I didn't stand much chance of keeping my brooch, with you around, did I? And it didn't do me much good to come here today and ask you about it, either."

"None at all," Monica came back at her easily. "And we're you're talking about stealing, I suppose you think it's all right to try to take a girl's sweetie away from her, don't you, Miss Morals?"

Bobbie stared at her. What are you talking about?"

"Gus MacCloud!" answered Monica. "You walk away with Gus and you think that's a nice Christian thing to do—to come between me and him. To break up a friendship that meant a lot to both of us. To both Gus and me.'"

Bobbie didn't know whether to laugh or to cry. Why, Gus and Monica hadn't been on speaking terms when she had first known them! And then, for Monica to say they'd been dear friends and that Bobbie had wrecked their friendship!

She'd probably convinced Gus of it, too, by this time! Men are always so ready to believe that two women are fighting between themselves for his love and affection.

Bobbie turned suddenly on her heel and went out of the flat, knowing that she was leaving the two "dirty" diamonds behind her probably. But she knew, also, that she might just as well go as try to get them from Monica, if they were there. Monica wasn't the kind of person who would give up a thing once she had fastened her paws upon it.

She went down the stairs, and as she reached the bottom of them a man passed her on the way up. She turned to watch him. Where had she seen him before? Where?

Then, all at once she remembered. He had been one of the guests at Gus MacCloud's New Year's party! She remembered something else about him, too; he had had a little blonde wife who had watched him like a hawk all evening.

She, herself, turned and watched him now. He had reached the head of the stairs and was knocking upon the door of Suite 204. Suite 206 was Monica's suite!"

Bobbie Certainly Counted Monica as an Enemy

"Ho-hum!" said Bobbie to herself, and a twinkle of pure enjoyment came into her eye. There is no woman so noble that she is not tickled by finding out some dreadful secret about her enemies. And Bobbie certainly counted Monica as one of her enemies—one of her bitter ones!

Hollywood is not such a broad-minded little town as we are led to believed. Like all little towns, it is a hotbed of gossip.

Stories start at Dolores Dawson's beauty shop near Franklin Circle, and travel all over the United States. Stories of the movie people, their parties and their love affairs—their troubles and their scandals.

And as the dark green car flashed past Dolores Dawson's shop that February afternoon, a bit of gossip that had started there came into Bobbie's mind. It had to do with herself and Gus MacCloud.

"By the way, Gus," she said, "Lotta heard some gossip about you and me in Dolores Dawson's shop the other day."

She waited for him to ask what kind of gossip it was. But he only raised one of his thick eyebrows and grunted. Contempt for womankind was in that grunt.

"You say that you're entirely too thick with a little blonde extra girl from Magnifica," she went on, watching him as she spoke. "And Lotta says that the Bill. blonde extra girl is L. Somebody has been going into your house—and coming out. And because you're the handsomest bachelor in Hollywood, people talk about you—and me."

"He gave her a quick glance. "Lottie told you that story!"

She nodded.

"Take it with a little salt, then," he said gruffly. "She probably never heard a whisper of gossip. But she knows you go up to my house, and she wants to frighten you so you won't do it any more. She thinks I'm not to be trusted with a nice little girl like you. Well, you tell the Honorable Mrs. Lottie Schultz for me to mind her own business and keep her eyes on her own side of the hedge!" The angry, childish words came from him sullenly, sulkily.

That night Bobbie locked Angus check for $225 into the bottom drawer of her dresser, where Andy Jerrold's sparkling bracelet had lain the night before.

"With what I have in the bank," she thought, holding up the empty white silk box that had held the bracelet and looking at it with wistful eyes, "with what I have that $225 will keep me going for a few months longer. And I'll be sure to get some work too, to help out, in the meantime."

Gus had made her promise to stay in town for six more months and had told her no one ever made good in less than that time.

"Besides, when I make that picture of mine, I'm going to put you in it, as sure as guns!" he had promised her that afternoon.

The sound of his voice, making that promise, still rang in her ears as she locked the door of the dresser. And she could still see the eager, hungry light in his blue eyes as he had tried to make her take the money and keep the bracelet.

"Only don't be such a little chestnut burr," he had said to her, half-bitterly, half in deadly earnest, as he had tried to take her in his arms. "Trust me a little more, Bobbie. There's nothing I wouldn't do for you if you'd only meet me half way. I'm crazy for you."

"Then why don't you ask me to marry you?" she had said, in her heart. "If you're so wild about me!" But aloud she had only looked at him, and said nothing at all. Just like a woman in love! Nevertheless, the remembrance of the way he had looked and the way his voice had trembled, still thrilled her as she stood there alone in the bedroom.

She kept thinking about him while she tried to count up six months. Finally she did it, and she jotted the date down on the wall-paper.

"Six months! That will bring me to the eighth of August!" she told herself. "I'll either be in the movies for good and forever then—or I'll be back to Dedham and Andy Jerrold for me!"

The thought of the school left her cold. But the thought of Andy brought a surge of hot jealousy to her heart—the thought of Andy, the nice, good looking thing, and that new secretary of his.

"I wonder if she's pretty," she thought dreamily, as she dropped off to sleep. "She probably is—but I hope she isn't. I hope she has a face like a doughnut!"

And with that sweet and chari table thought, she closed her eyes.

on them and saw the duck in here. So I chased down to the corner, officer and found you—and here they are."

The first policeman turned to the other officer. "Hello, Rafferty. What's all this?"

"I was just talking here to Mr. Lupino and a lady friend of his—"

"I don't care who he is!" the little man with the battered felt hat interrupted excitedly. "I saw him snatch up a fellow and handle him like he was a rag doll—he threw the body in a corner and went on. I was standing right across the street, and I saw it all. That's the man."

"All right, keep your shirt on," Patrolman Grogan told him. "We'll soon find out about this. I'm sorry, Lupino, but I'll have to put you under arrest if what he says is true."

Rafferty turned to the excited stranger. "Yes, and I'll throw you in the jug if you're stringing us," he declared resentfully.

But Grogan seemed less impressed than the other with Lupino's importance. "All right, go along, both of you," he said authoritively. "We'll go back and see what there is to this about hiding a body!"

Jacqueline felt a lump growing in her throat that checked the possibility of her saying anything at all. A sickening fright gripped at the pit of her stomach. To her shaking nerves was added the inescapable horror of falling into the hands of the police. Jail! She trembled all over. A hostility she could not control rose up in her and raged against Lupino. He had brought this upon her! . . . made her a part of his viciousness! He moved a step nearer to her, lowered his head and uttered a swift, whispered sentence:

"Don't say a word!"

He turned his bold stare upon the two policemen. "All right. You fellows don't have to get excited about this thing," he said brazenly. "As a matter of fact, I did have a little argument with a drunken bum down the street—"

"A little argument!" cried the vindictive eye witness. "If you didn't break every bone in that man's body, I'm a liar. I was standing right across the street—"

Lupino ignored the interruption as though it had been from an insect. "I was walking along the street with this lady when a drunken bum came up and started a fight with me. Sure I'll go back with you officers. I haven't got a thing in the world to conceal in the whole business."

They moved back down the street, retracing their steps, and with Lupino, by a sort of universal consent, between both policemen.

"Who's this woman with you?" Grogan demanded.

"Leave her out of it," Lupino retorted. "She didn't have a thing in the world to do with it. Can't we call a taxicab and sefil her on home?"

"We can't," Grogan returned definitely. "Anyway, not until we see how bad you hurt that fellow."

Lupino grunted sarcastically. "If you coppers kept the streets free from these drunks and hop-heads you'd be doing a better job than, raising private citizens all the time."

Then, upon every one in the little moving crowd . . . silence.

Now they were at the spot; from Rafferty's hang a flashlight played on the sprawled, motionless figure in the shadows. Stepping forward, the policeman rolled the man over, touched his face, moved a limp arm. The face, under the beam of light, was ghastly white. "I guess you croaked him, Mr. Lupino. He looks dead to me."

"I knew it," breathed the little man who had seen it all.

Grogan became instantly alert, his night stick firmly scripped in a capable hand. "That's homicide, Lupino," he declared. "Come on now. We're going to the station. The girl goes, too. And you—" His eyes shifted a moment to the little wizened man with the battered felt hat. "You come right along."

Lupino reached out and touched Jacqueline's arm. "Don't let them get your goat," I've said with a touch of swagger. "Leave everything to him."

Correct Manners Explained

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I will appreciate very much if you will give me your opinion of this stationery.

Would you consider the paper and the monogram in good taste? After I bought it and had it made up, one of my friends very kindly informed me that "ragged edge" paper simply was not being used by "those who know."

I will be very glad indeed for an expression of your opinion.

A READER.

ACCORDING to my taste, it would be most difficult to find a more perfect letter-paper than the one that you have chosen. It is handsome, very handsome. Its whiteness, its impressive heaviness, and its generous size are excellent. You have done honor to your splendid handwriting by giving it such a sympathetic background.

Indeed, deckle-edged paper is in good form, and some of the best-looking papers, domestic and foreign, have deckle edges. One of the most famous Fifth avenue stationers—internationally famous—told me the other day that they sold more paper with the "ragged edge" than with the straight edge. I am wondering if your friend might be confusing the pain white deckled edge with the "wiggly" edge, with a color of silver or gold appliqued on it? This last is of course, not in good taste, but you may rest assured that the deckled edge on your paper is in perfect form and taste.

Your monogram I am not so enthusiastic about. I am not very fond of a large monogram, but still it is in perfectly good taste.

May I make a suggestion? If you will try spacing your margins on both sides of the page, beginning with the first word of your salutation and the first word of every line below that on the page, directly under the left edge of your W, you will, I am sure, be interested in the increased artistic effect of your letter.

Will you try it and perhaps write me again about it? I am sure that you will find that this will make a lovely frame for your handwriting.

And I am so glad that you do not use many abbreviations. I could only find two—the one for the name of the State and the one for your middle name

DAILY SHORT STORY

THE FIRST TOOTH

By Eudora R. Richardson

IT was Spring in the suburbs. Forsythia, yellow as sunshine, fringed the houses and bordered the paths. Jonquils and tulips in vari-colored massed the flower beds. Dogwood splashed the wooded places like white daubs from a reckless painter's brush. Suburbia sat in porch chairs for the first Sunday afternoon of the open season.

Betty Tillman gently propelled a baby carriage with her foot while she stared wistfully upon her husband. Betty's face would have exactly resembled the flowers if there had not been upon it a sadness out of all keeping with the afternoon. Jack and Betty, who now perused the picture section of the Sunday paper, had been discussing finances.

"Well, that scheme of yours just has to go through," Betty announced much as a two-year-old might demand a lollipop. "The baby will be cutting his first tooth soon, and as he gets bigger and bigger we'll need more money, of course."

"I know," Jack agreed gloomily, "and everything would be smooth sailing if the boss weren't so tied up in a hundred schemes he thinks more important than mine. There isn't any human side to him, no approach, and he hasn't a head for details."

Betty stamped her foot in exasperation.

"But what sort of a business man is he when he can't see that when your filing system is patented the firm will gain more than you do? It's only 25 per cent. of net proceeds that you want for yourself, isn't it?

"But Mr. Thompson never has time to go into the thing. He doesn't half hear what a fellow says to him. I tell you the man's a business machine. I can't hit a responsive chord."

"Well, then," concluded Betty, jerking the baby carriage with unmaternal viciousness, "be all all business too and win him over."

"By Jove, I'll do it," Jack countered, and for emphasis slammed the paper to the tile floor and lighted a cigarette.

Next morning, Betty could see that Jack was determined to make good his boast. His jaw looked very firm while he shaved and dressed, and he hurried through his breakfast like a millionaire upon whose promptness Wall Street finance depended.

"You'll win," Betty assured him as she kissed her husband goodby. "Board the business lion by the superior strength of that business head of yours."

It was no blue Monday for Betty. She sang as she assorted the clothes. She cooed as she bathed the baby.

"By-lo, baby bunting," she soothed, "Daddy's gone ahunting to bring home lots of money, for you, for muddin. We'll be rich and have everything—everything soon, day soon."

During Jack's lunch hour he called Betty from a telephone pay station down town.

"I'm to have a business conference with the boss this afternoon," he said. "No fooling along this time. I didn't give Thompson any chance to evade me. Wrote him a note and sent it in by his secretary. Told him just like an equal that I had an important matter that required his undivided attention. He sent word right away that he'd see me at four. I'll nail him with the facts. We're gonna put it over."

"I know you will," Betty exulted. "Whatever it takes to meet a business situation, you've got it. I know what sort of a man I married."

So with a whisk and a song Betty washed her lunch dishes, dressed in a sports dress that matched the newest green leaves on the trees, and rolled the baby to the porch for his afternoon nap. For a few minutes she read, absent mindedly. Then because reading and thinking were not easily managed simultaneously, she took up a pair of rompers she had begun against the time baby would be needing them. Life was so gorgeous! Jack had always needed only wealth, and now he was about to get it. How sweet the flowers were! How adorable the baby looked during stolen peeps beneath the hood of the carriage! Could anything be lovelier than this little English cottage she and Jack had planned together? So the afternoon hours flew by, filled for Betty with happy realization and happier expectations.

Finally the pink silk coverlet stirred gently, and a coo reached the mother's listening ears. Betty pushed back the hood and began a stream of silly nonsense which the baby could not have expected to understand—but the baby evidently liked it, for he smiled faintly at first, then a broad grin that bared his toothless gums. Toothless! Betty squealed aloud and leaped to her feet. A finger in the baby's mouth, a lower lip pulled down. A sharp little point against her finger. The baby had a tooth—a tooth! Wildly Betty dashed to the telephone and called Jack's number.

"Mr. Tillman is busy now," a formal voice replied. "Is the message important?"

"I should say it is." Betty rejoined indignantly. "I must speak to him at once."

"Just a moment please."

A ring, another receiver off the hook, a man's gruff voice.

"Mr. Tillman, please," Betty implored. "I must speak to Mr. Tillman."

Jack's drawling hello.

"Oh, Jack darling, the baby has a tooth. Can't you come home right away?"

"A tooth!" Jack exulted. "Wonderful! I'll come home as soon as I can honey."

Betty hung up and ran back to the porch where the tooth could be seen in all its glory. How much longer would she have to wait for Jack? Betty consulted her wrist watch. Quarter past four. Suddenly she stood rigid by the carriage. It was four o'clock that Jack had that appointment with Mr. Thompson. That was why the girl had said he was busy! It was the boss himself who had answered the second ring. Now she had ruined it all—interrupted an important conference, the most important that Jack had ever had in all his life—interrupted it for a silly bit of sentiment. Poor Jack, after he had worked so hard! It was awful. All the joy had gone from the golden spring afternoon—all of it!

Betty was still sitting in limp distress when Jack bounded up the path.

"Where's that tooth?" he called. "That wonderful tooth?"

Betty threw herself into Jack's arms and nearly wept.

"I'm so sorry, dear," she sobbed. "I forgot you were having the conference with the boss. You'll hate me for spoiling it—all your chances, I—I'll never forgive myself.

Jack laughed like a boy out from school on a fishing trip.

"Spoiling my chances! Listen to the girl. The boss had heard hardly a word I'd said before you 'phoned. He looked like my chief pall bearer, and I felt like the corpse. Then you ought to have seen the smile on his face when I hung up. He asked me all about our baby. He's got six, he says, but he'll never forget the first one's first tooth. Then he made me go over my whole proposition again and he's sold—going to back it to the limit. I was all wrong. The man's got an even balance of sentiment and business ability."

Betty was laughing and crying like a sparkling April day.

"If the baby could only know what he's done," she giggled.

"Some day let's tell him," Jack counseled sagely.

FOR Acid Stomach

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Try a 25c Bottle

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

Oh, what a tangled web we weave,
When first we practice to deceive!
—Sir Walter Scott.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

IT is a great trial to a girl, these days, to be so healthy that her natural color shows right through the rouge.

Love is a creeping paralysis, which first attacks a man's brain and keeps him from thinking; then, his tongue and keeps him from talking; and finally, his feet, and keeps him from RUNNING!

The longer a woman is engaged to a man, the more uncertain does he become that he has found "the one woman in the world," and the more does he begin to suspect that he "might have done better."

* * *

A wife's little attentions are like running water and steam heat. A man never realises how dependent he is upon them until something goes wrong and they are suddenly "out off without notice."

* * *

A man who would be too kind-hearted to pour salt on an oyster will cheerfully pour sarcasm and cold water all over his wife's enthusiasm, and then wonder why she shrivels up at sight of him.

* * *

Most of these shooting-for-love cases merely prove that man is still predatory, and simply cannot understand why any woman shouldn't love him, when he has given her permission to!

No woman is satisfied just to "make an impression on a man." No matter how little he means to her she wants to feel that she has made a permanent DENT in his consciousness.

The time to watch an airedale for symptoms of madness is in August —but the time to watch a husband is RIGHT NOW!

Somehow, most of the conversations between a husband and wife develop into the same old argument as to which "suffers more."

The greatest test of any man's love, at this season, is his ability to refuse "just one little green onion".

THE WITTY SAYINGS OF MEDBURY

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

ACCORDING to macaroni dealers, alphabetical soup is now being manufactured in all languages.

A RESTAURANT patron will be able to burn his tongue in his native dialect.

THIS is a wonderful idea. An Italian will no longer have to choke in English.

ALPHABETICAL soup is becoming more popular every day and several lunchrooms are holding spelling bees

ONE guy got all the questions right, but he ate the answers.

A PACKAGE of these a-b-c's sell for ten cents and there's a full length novel in every box.

ALL you have to do is put the letters together.

IF you don't like the story, you can give it a different ending.

ONE fellow thought he'd written such a beautiful poem that he took his soup plate to a publisher.

THE editor told him to take it back to the restaurant and get the cook to read proof on it.

BUT the poet was so hungry he sat down in the reception room and ate his verses.

SOME people are so illiterate that they can't drink a spoonful of alphabetical soup without making a lot of grammatical errors.

ONE fellow couldn't help being affected. He even drank the words with an accent.

HE was English and told the waiter to leave the H's out of his bowl.

BUT he was strict on punctuation. He asked for a side order of commas.

LUCKY TIGER

It may be your Nerves

IF little things annoy you—if you suffer from sleeplessness, headaches, melancholia, loss of appetite, constipation and irritability, depleted nerves are frequently the cause.

Dr. GREENE'S

has aided thousands in similar cases. The pure herbs which it contains are both soothing and invigorating. When you tire easily and do not feel equal to the ordinary duties of home or business, look first to your nerves. Get all the rest, sunshine and fresh air possible, but aid Nature in her own way—by taking the natural herb remedies she provides. These are to be had in their most effective form in Dr. Greene's NERVURA.

Radio 'Jag' in Clocks

Does radio interfere with clocks and watches?

The suggestion is not a new one, but renewed interest has been given to it in England by announcement of the manager of the Savoy Hotel, London, who says that from now onwards every one of the 1,056 clocks in the newly constructed hotel will be worked and tuned by electricity to ensure scrupulous time keeping.

"Every since the headquarters of the British Broadcasting Corporation has been established next door to Savoy Hill, we have found that quite 50 per cent. of our clocks have shown tendencies to gain, which they did not do before," he adds.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy, among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Governor Fuller's Warning

There's a Limit, to Taxes and the Public Patience

There is so much that savors of warfare in the politics and legislation of the moment that overburdened Mr. John J. Citizen will have to be excused if he does not understand all the "ifs" and "ands" of the Boston tax limit controversy, between Governor Fuller and the Legislature and Governor Fuller and the Mayor of Boston.

But there are some things Mr. and Mrs. Citizen and all the little Citizens can understand, and in his veto of the Legislature's $13 tax limit Governor Fuller made them as plain as daylight:

"And who are these taxpayers? They are the humble folk of life who are well-nigh inarticulate in political matters. Just where do THEY have an opportunity to state THEIR protest? How great must be their burden before they WILL cry out? Let me admonish you that continued increase in taxation will meet with something more than murmuring. Unless a halt is called, this murmuring will not be from the inside of the State House out, but from the outside in. * * *

"This discussion must not get down to a squabble between political representatives either in the State House or City Hall on the one hand, or real estate dealers on the other. It is the tailor in the basement and the printer in the attic and the humble people in the tenements who are paying the taxes, make no mistake; and I hope their plight and your opportunity to give them a little encouragement will be greeted with an earnest effort to co-operate * * *."

The Governor's recommendation was that the City of Boston "utilize its cash surplus from back taxes in connection with its current tax rate." Mayor Nichols calls Mr. Fuller's reasoning "fallacious" and the Mayor receives strong support from George U. Crocker, former member of the Finance Commission and more than twenty years ago City Treasurer of Boston, who calls the method suggested by His Excellency "exceedingly dangerous."

"Who shall decide when doctors disagree?" Not the patient, certainly, and yet the patient is vitally interested in this dispute, deeply thrilled by the discovery that someone is zealous in his welfare.

Whatever the outcome of the present controversy, those were wise words of "Dr." Fuller's in his veto message, and not only legislators but State and city officials, and all who have to do with the making or the levying of taxes, should ponder them deeply.

The only reason that a straw broke the camel's back, finally, was that the beast was already overburdened.

Neighborly Thing to Do

America's Sending of Henry L. Stimson to Nicaragua a Timely and Sensible Course

Look at Nicaragua's condition today and you will see why President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg, in sending to that afflicted country "a consulting physician" of the competence of Henry L. Stimson of New York, have done the timely, sensible, and under the circumstances, the neighborly thing to do.

With the assistance of the United States, the Nicaraguan government finally has put down the latest of the long series of uprisings that have sapped the vitality of that so-called republic.

Although defeated in the field, the leaders of the Sacasa revolution have thus far refused to come to terms. They believe that the Diaz government is nearing financial exhaustion. They hope that the patience of the United States is also nearing exhaustion.

By waiting until they can replenish their funds and arms from their alien sympathizers the revolutionary leaders doubtless think that they will again be able to get the upper hand of the government forces.

Meantime the tedious task of protecting the lives and property of all Americans and other foreigners in Nicaragua has been turned over to the United States.

Since last August a special service squadron, in command of Admiral Latimer, has been on duty in Nicaraguan waters, discharging Nicaragua's obligations to the outside world. Fifteen hundred American marines are ashore in Nicaragua today protecting the life and property of Americans and other nationals. Another fifteen hundred bluejackets and marines are aboard ship and at the disposal of the admiral for the same purpose.

What can be done to help the Nicaraguans to bind up the wounds that their warfare has inflicted upon their country?

What can be done to relieve the United States of the disagreeable duty of protecting foreign life and property in Nicaragua for an indefinite period?

To find answers to these and kindred questions, upon which the opposing leaders in Nicaragua can unite, is the difficult and delicate task to which Mr. Stimson will address himself. He intends to spend the next month in studying the situation on the ground. He will consult with the American Minister, the American admiral, President Diaz and leaders of the revolution.

As President Taft's Secretary of War, as a colonel of field artillery who commanded overseas in the Great War, as a lawyer of proven ability, with a talent for negotiation and more than ordinary tact, Mr. Stimson will succeed in finding a formula for the Nicaraguan trouble if any American can.

Going as a distinguished private citizen on a presidential errand, he takes with him the authority of his government and the good wishes of his countrymen.

Nicaragua needs today the services of "a consulting physician" of the competence of Mr. Stimson. If the opposing leaders in Nicaragua are not blind to their opportunity they will welcome his advice and counsel and act upon it.

The Nicaraguan people have more to gain than any others by returning to the path of peace and ordered liberty. The sooner they do so the sooner it will be possible for the United States to turn over Nicaragua's international responsibilities to the government and people of that republic. That is where they belong. That is where the United States wishes them to remain.

TO CEASE STRUGGLE IS TO DIE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

FIGHT; fight! fight! That is the law of life. Man is a fighting animal. He is also a fighting soul. Only by incessant conflict is life possible. Peace is the precursor of death. When we cease to have daily struggle, we are beginning to fade. To stop is to go backward. All souls float in a stream whose steady current sets toward death. Life is to the swimmer.

The body that has ceased to overcome, to joy in triumph over ease, to leap and plunge and go, has settled down with the door open to every disease. The mind that shrinks from effort, that reads only what is spiced and pleasant, that does not love to tackle hard problems and sweat over enigmas, is moribund. The soul that no more struggles and suffers, that finds no more passions to wrestle with, no more discouragements to surmount, is already half lost.

Every day, to a healthy being, is war. And in ratio as we are sound and sane we love it. "To him that overcometh will I give the crown of life." As we are more and more invaded by the hunger for comfort and rest and quiet, we settle down into the waiting arms of Death.

Blow on blow, the buckling on of the harness, the chase and ardor of the game—woe to the man that has not some spot in him where such taste lingers! For to live is to fight. To struggle no more is to die. "Vivre c'est triumpher sans cesse," says Amiel—"To live is to triumph continually."

What Do You Know?

BOSTON'S ORIGINAL KNOWLEDGE TEST

MOST of us are continually reminded of what other people don't know. An interesting change, discover what you yourself don't know through these questions.

Complete this quotation:

1. "Under a spreading chestnut tree
The village —— stands."—Longfellow.

Who is the author of:

2. "Cyrano de Bergerac.
3. "Ramona."
4. "The Origin of Species."
5. "Treasure of the Wells."

Match the following correctly:

6. Banjo.	Disease.
7. Absinthe.	Front of a building.
8. Endive.	Green liquor.
9. Goiter.	Bird.
10. Nightingale.	Musical instrument.
11. Facade.	Plant.

Are these statements false or true?

12. A food containing considerable sugar is beefsteak.
13. The originator of a form of shorthand was Pitman.
14. A cannibal is an insect who eats human flesh.
15. A good fabric for aeroplane wings is linen.

TIME-KEEPERS

JOHN QUINN, local contractor, likes to have celebrities on his jobs. He has just lost the services of PETER J. McLAUGHLIN, who was his time-keeper, PETER being compelled to take up his duties as National League umpire. But he fills the post with JIM MURRAY, old-time vaudeville star, theatrical manager of the famed JOHN L. SULLIVAN, and by his own account "the only actor in America married to the same wife for 28 years." JIM is time-keeping on a paving job at the New Haven yards.

CONFLICT.

Radio announcing is the most fascinating occupation in the world, thinks GORDON SWAN, chief announcer at the Hotel Kimball studio of WBZ, SPRINGFIELD. Its one drawback is the impossibility of rushing to fires when alarms ring their challenge. GORDON belongs to the glorious company of "sparks" and misses no opportunity to jump into big boots and help the regulars when a three-bagger and a radio program happen not to conflict.

PUZZLE.

Here is the latest puzzle officials are wrestling with at City Hall: A man wanted a $3 railroad ticket and had only a $5 bill. He took the $5 bill to a pawnship and owned it for $1.50. On is way back to the depot he met a friend to whom he sold the pawn ticket for $1.60. That gave him $3. Now, who is out the dollar? JOHNNY CONNOLLY has a wager with J. STANDISH McGRATH no two men can answer the question accurately.

EXPLAINED

Many persons who have visited the bird house at Franklin Park Zoo to see the brilliantly colored inmates have wondered how the feathers of the beautiful white peacock in the central show cage became broken. Curator W. J. HARKINS explained that in a spirit of devilitry the two red lorikeet, which are about the size of robbins, ride on the peacock's plumage when spread, thus breaking some of the feathers.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

MRS. WILLARD says that she's getting cynical about helping people.

"It's a sure way of losing their friendship," she sighs. "I've never known it to fail—just as sure as I try to help somebody out, I start trouble. It doesn't matter what I do—whether I loan them money or get them a job or try to help them straighten their personal affairs, it always ends the same way. Instead of being grateful they seem to get a grudge, and they always act as if I should have done more for them, or done something different. I wonder why it is—it makes you lose all your faith in human nature to see how malicious folks are."

Yes, lady, it's certainly disturbing.

But perhaps it wouldn't disturb us so much if we'd do a little head-'n-heart-work.

Hard to Receive

Remember the old saying—"It's more blessed to give than receive?"

We usually put a sanctimonious slant on that remark and feel that we're investing in a halo every time we drop ten cents in the Salvation Army tambourine.

But there's more to that saying than at first appears.

It IS more blessed to give than to receive—and it's also a great deal more fun.

It's no end jollier to be the lad that's passing out the favors than the poor chap who is accepting them.

Anyone with a particle of spunk would rather give than get.

It HURTS to have to take, if you're a Regular Person.

That help, no matter how graciously given, reminds you of your own need and your own failure.

And, in spite of yourself, the hurt swells into a vague irritation and resentment.

Friendship Spoiled

Something is spoiled. Something has risen as an obstacle to the clear flow of friendship.

You don't mean to be malicious. Indeed, you mean to be very, very grateful. But there it is—your secret pride has been shamed and you unconsciously show it.

I think that's why people whom we have helped so often seem to turn against us. They have not, in reality, turned against us. But they have turned against the situation which makes our strength and their weakness apparent.

Remember that, Partner, the next time you bestow largess.

The other chap may be getting your money or your job or your assistance—BUT IT'S A CINCH THAT YOU'RE HAVING MOST OF THE FUN.

Earth and Moon Tugs

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Subjects of Popular Interest.

"The moon's distance from the earth is about 238,840 miles; the zero between the two bodies is about 160,000 miles from the centres of the earth. So how can the earth have any effect on the moon when the last is about 73,840 miles away from the zero point of the earth's gravitation?"

WHAT you mean by the zero point between the earth and the moon is no doubt the point at which those two bodies would exert the same attraction upon a particle placed at that point.

The attractive power of neither the moon nor the earth is destroyed at that point, but by pulling upon the same particle with equal force in exactly opposite directions they would there counteract each other's gravitative effort and the particle would move neither way.

That is the interesting point, the "dead point," at which Jules Verne's imaginary projectile arrived in the story of a "Voyage from the Earth to the Moon."

But it is not situated, as you suppose, at a distance of 160,000 miles from the earth. On the contrary, in the story it was placed at 78,884 French leagues, or say 194,714 English miles. But that was calculated for the period when the moon is in perihelion, or nearest the earth. At the moon's average distance of 238,800 miles the dead point would be about 215,872 miles from the earth, leaving nearly 23,000 miles between it and the moon.

The cause of the existence of this point of balance between the lunar and terrestrial attractions is easily explained. Gravitative attraction is proportional to two coincident things—the amount of mass in the attracting bodies and the distance between them. The earth's mass is 81 times that of the moon, so that its inherent gravitation force is 81 times greater than the moon's, and at an equal distance the earth would pull 81 times more strongly than the moon.

But—and this is an exceedingly important "but"—the attraction also depends on the distance, and varies, inversely (contrary to) the square of the distance. If the distance is halved the attraction is quadrupled. So, while the little moon could pull only one pound to the earth's 81 pounds on a body placed half way between them, yet if you make the distance nine times nearer to the moon than to the earth the moon's attraction will be increased by this sort of space leverage the square of 9, or 81 times, thus becoming equal to that of the earth.
